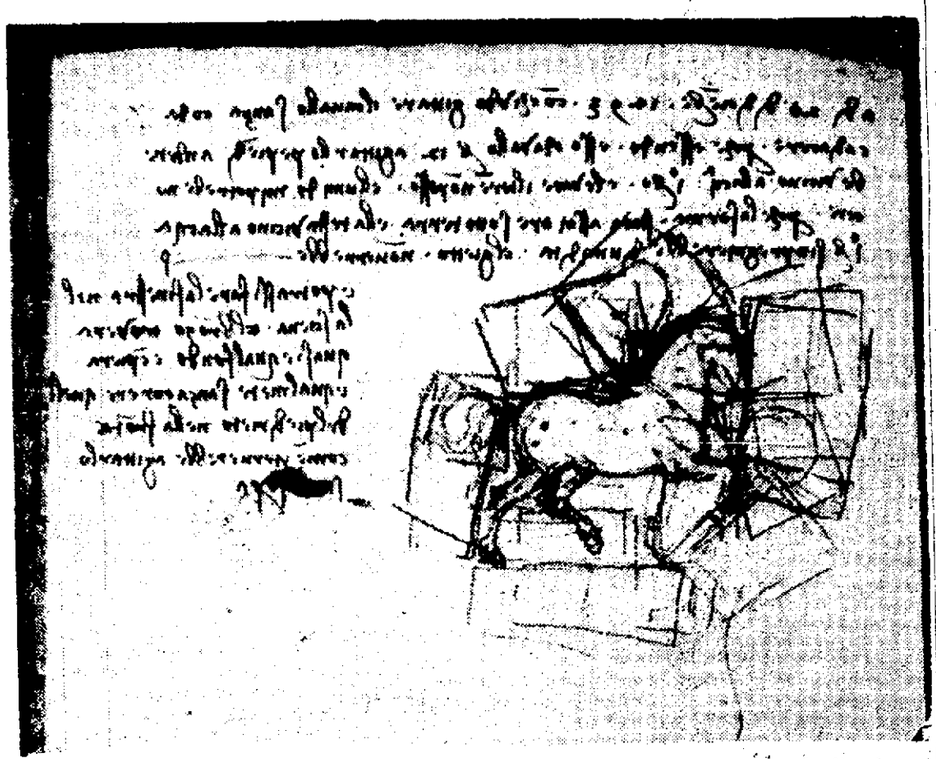
Soviet, China Troops Reportedly in Skirmish



This Drawing by Leonardo Da Vinci of molds for a casting of his Sforza horse has been found in the National Library of Madrid by Prof. Jules Piccus of the University of Massachusetts. Upwards of 700 pages of manuscripts, including 200 drawings, were discovered after having been lost among thousands of other manuscripts during recataloguing apparently before 1800. The writing is Da Vinci's secret mirror script, from right to left. (AP Wirephoto)

2 Da Vinci Manuscripts Contain 'Finest' of Works

BOSTON (AP) — A scholar says two lost manuscripts of Leonardo da Vinci discovered in Spain may result in several inventions being attributed to the Italian master for the first time.

Dr. Ladislao Reti of the Elmer Belt Library of Vinciana of the University of California at Los Angles told a news conference Monday:

"Until now we had only 5,000 pages of Da Vinci in the world. These manuscripts contain 700 pages, so this adds about one-sixth to what we have of the master."

The discovery was announced at the news conference by Dr. Jules Piccus, professor of romance languages at the University of Massachusetts, who said he found the works in the National Library of Madrid, Spain.

Notes, Drawings

Reti, an expert on Da Vinci's scientific works, said the manuscripts were produced between 1491 and 1505, and contain notes and 200 drawings.

"We feel that these manuscripts will result in several new inventions being attributed to Da Vinci," Reti said. "For example, the chain drive like that on bicycles. We first know of this in the 18th century, but careful drawings of the chain drive appear on these pages.

"And there are drawings of a corn mill with an automatic sifter machine which we first know of from the 16th century. There are many other examples of early automation."

Piccus said he was making a "systematic search for Spanish medieval poetry" when he came upon the works.

'Most Complete'

"You might say I was lucky because I was not looking for these manuscripts specifically," he said. "But I felt sure they were among about 30,000 ancient manuscripts in the library. Scholars have been looking for them for about 75 years."

Piccus asked Reti to authenticate the manuscripts. This was completed two weeks ago, he said.

"In my opinion," Reti said, "these are the finest and most complete Da Vinci drawings of this type in existence. While many other known drawings of Leonardo are in rough form, many of these are finished drawings and are exquisite."

Reti said the writing in the manuscripts is backward and can be read only in a mirror.

'Cannot Be Forced'

"Only Da Vinci did that sort of writing in that way," Dr. Reti said, "and it cannot be forged."

Reti said scholars believe Da Vinci wrote backwards because he was lefthanded and found it easier.

"Some people think this was a sort of code," he said, "but I don't think so because the writing is easily readable in a mirror."

Piccus said the manuscripts were lost during recataloguing at the library sometime before 1800 "when nobody cared about Da Vinci." The first intensive search for them was made in 1898, he said, but it was unsuccessful and the library assumed they had been lost or stolen.

Lincoln Day Plan Fizzles For Reagan

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — "Absentees? What absentees? There were none reported to us," said California Gov. Ronald Reagan's press secretary, raising his eyebrows in mock surprise.

But reporters who checked the state Capitol and state buildings at San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego, San Bernardino and Fresno heard mainly their own echoing footsteps as they sought out the 166,000 state employes.

California's state workers had been invited by the new Republican governor to volunteer their services Monday, the Lincoln's Birthday holiday.

The idea was that by donating their time — at no extra pay or compensatory time off — a state Reagan describes as fiscally weakened might receive a $7-million shot in the arm, though unanticipated work accomplishments.

In San Francisco only three of 3,000 workers were counted, including a lady secretary who said she hadn't known it was a holiday because it wasn't posted.

"They always tell you when it's Christmas," she said.

Peace Hopes Fading

Optimism Disappears After End in U. S. Bombing Pause

WASHINGTON (AP) —Vietnam peace prospects appeared at their lowest point in two months today as U.S. bombing of North Vietnam resumed and weeks of optimistic speculation ended.

U.S. officials said peace efforts had receded to their pre-Christmas position.

President Johnson, in announcing the resumption of bombing late Monday, said he had hoped the cease-fire during the lunar new year "might lead to some abatement of hostilities and to moves toward peace."

But he said the North Vietnamese had used the pause "for major re-supply efforts of their troops in South Vietnam."

'No Other Response'

Johnson apparently referred to Sunday night's meeting in London between Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin and British Prime Minister Harold Wilson when he said: "Despite our efforts and those of third parties no other response has yet come from Hanoi."

Johnson earlier had indicated determination to resume the air war in the absence of any North Vietnamese easing of military activity.

But the North Vietnamese insisted on a halt in U.S. bombing and withdrawal of troops before peace talks could get started.

North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh made this clear in a reply to Pope Paul's appeal for an early settlement of the conflict.

Ho wrote, "The U.S. imperial-

Truce Profited Hanoi

WASHINGTON (AP) — The North Vietnamese used 3,770 trucks and vessels to rush at least 25,000 tons of ammunition and equipment toward South Vietnam during the bombing pause, the Defense Department said today.

This was calculated to be enough to support a 10,000-man division in combat for 250 days, a spokesman said.

Vietnam War In Full Swing In North, South

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The air war returned to full swing today on both sides of the border. U.S. fighter-bombers pounded railways and other supply routes in North Vietnam. Radio Hanoi declared two were shot down. U.S. Navy vessels attacked North Vietnamese shipping.

Peking and Pyongyang broadcast pledges of continued support for the Viet Cong from Red China and North Korea. The messages to the guerrillas were signed by Defense Ministers Lin Piao of China and Kim Chang Bong of North Korea.

There was no immediate comment here on Hanoi's story of the downing of two planes. If confirmed, the official list of American losses north of the border would rise to 475.

Light Contact

In South Vietnam allied forces reported only light contact with the enemy, but U.S. Air Force and Marine pilots flew a near record 535 sorties in support of sweeping infantrymen Monday. The American record for one day of such single combat flights in South Vietnam is 549, set last Jan. 13.

U.S. spokesmen also announced that seven men of the U.S. 1st Cavalry Airmobile, Division were killed and four were wounded Monday night when five rounds of their own artillery landed among them.

The spokesmen also an-

Supposed Military Clash Along Manchurian Border Is First Between Powers

TOKYO (AP) — A clash by Soviet Union and Red Chinese troops along the Manchurian border was reported today by a Japanese correspondent. The report, which quoted wall posters in Peking, listed no date for the supposed clash, but indicated that a Soviet battalion had opened fire on a Chinese army company and was repulsed.

The report added that Soviet soldiers were captured but later released. If true, this would be the first known exchange of shots between the two Communist powers since the purge by Mao Tse-tung began last August. Chinese Communist Party Chairman Mao was reported to have ordered an alert all along China's border with the Soviet Union.

Wall posters in Peking also indicated today that a sweeping purge of Red China's leading military men is under way in Mao's drive to weed out supporters of President Liu Shao-chi. They also reported a big step up the power ladder by Mao's wife.

The Darkened Area is the location of a shooting clash between Soviet and Chinese troops on the Manchurian border, according to wall posters in Peking, (AP Wirephoto Map)

A correspondent of the Japanese newspaper Sankei Shimbun said 25 top military men have come under fire as followers of the bourgeois, reactionary line.

Wall posters put up by the postal and telegraph workers said that Mao's aggressive third wife, Chiang Ching, has been named chairman of a new committee formed to press Mao's purge in central party and government organizations.

New Importance

Her new importance was underlined by the fact that Premier Chou En-lai, who might have been expected to head such a committee, has been named to serve on it as Mrs. Mao's adviser.

Among the military leaders included in the wholesale indict-

Students Send Hearts, Hopes to Fighting Men

MARLBORO, Mass. (AP) — "Valentine's Day is like a lizard. It crawls into your stomach and wraps around your gizzard."

This may not sound like much of a message of love, but it should brighten the day of an American fighting man in Vietnam today.

The poem was written by one of more than 4,000 children and adults who joined in a "Valentine for Vietnam" campaign by radio station WSRO in Marlboro, about 25 miles west of Boston.

"The idea evolved from one of our talk shows," said Garey Walsh, station operations manager.

"A housewife who called in, Dorothy Creamer, was discussing the anti-Vietnam demonstrations and said: 'Why don't they do something constructive, like sending the soldiers Valentines?'"

The station has been deluged with offerings from schools, Brownie troops, Cub Scouts, women's clubs, other organizations, and private individuals.

One card carried the message: "Kill the Krouts." The young writer apparently had his wars mixed up.

Another, signed by Ty Hagen of the Elm Street Elementary School in nearby Acton, said: "I hope no one gets hurt, especially you, on this special day of Valentine's Day."

Walsh said 90 per cent of the cards were hand-made.

The cards were being bundled into 5-pound packages for mailing to the combat area.

UFOs Safe, Official Claims

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Reports of unidentified flying objects — UFOs — boomed last year, reports Maj. Hector Quintanilla, director of Project Blue Book at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base.

But whatever the sightings are, it's a safe bet they offer no threat to national security and don't come from outer space, the Air Force says.

A total of 1,060 sightings were submitted to the Air Force during 1966, second highest total since Blue Book began keeping tabs 20 years ago. The annual average is 555, the record 1,501 in 1952.

Of the 11,107 sightings since 1947, Quintanilla says, just 676 remain in the unidentified category. Only 30 of those checked out last year haven't been explained satisfactorily.

Rest Identified

Another 242 sightings are listed as having insufficient data for identification.

The rest were identified as astronomical objects, aircraft, balloons, satellites and other natural or man-made items such as missiles, rockets, fireworks, clouds, birds, swamp gas, sparks, and a lighthouse.

To date, Project Blue Book — the Air Force's investigative authority on aerial phenomena — offers these "firm" conclusions:

1. No unidentified flying object reported, investigated and evaluated by the Air Force has ever given any indication of threat to U. S. security.

2. No evidence has been discovered to indicate that any sightings categorized as unidentified represent technological development or principles beyond the range of present-day scientific knowledge.

3. There has been no evidence that any unidentified sightings were outer space vehicles.

Pertinent Data

A sighting is considered unidentified, the major says, when a report apparently contains all pertinent data necessary to suggest a valid cause or explanation of the report, but the description of the object or its motion cannot be correlated with any known object or phenomenon.

Pope Paul 'Sad' At Ho's Answer

Message From Hanoi Failed to 'Furnish Hopes'

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican expressed sadness today over the message President Ho Chi Minh of North Vietnam sent to Pope Paul VI.

A comment in the Vatican daily L'Osservatore Romano said that the replies of President Johnson and Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam to the Pope's latest peace appeals "do not seem to reject the exhortation from the visible head of the church."

It said Ho's reply, however, "does not unfortunately, contain any new elements to furnish hopes for the start, at least now, of negotiations for an honorable end to the sad conflict."

"The latest developments concerning Vietnam are causes of grave and profound sadness," the paper said.

Formal Comment

This was the first formal comment from the Vatican on the answers to Johnson, Thieu and Ho to the Pope's pleas last Wednesday that the lunar new year truce be prolonged into negotiations.

The paper said that despite

Found in Parking Lot

Kenosha Girl, 17, Stabbed to Death

KENOSHA (AP) — Every available Kenosha policeman was ordered into a search for clues Monday night after the discovery of a teen - age girl's body in an abandoned hearse.

Coroner Edward Wavro said the girl had been stabbed six times in the neck, three times in the abdomen and once in the back.

He said blood found in the hearse was being checked. An autopsy was delayed because of the frozen condition of the body.

Her mother, Mrs. Daniela Kaldenberg, a widow, reported the girl missing early Friday.

The girl's body was clad in slacks, a sweater and a ski jacket when discovered Monday afternoon in the rear of a hearse that had been abandoned at a municipal parking lot near a railroad siding about 20 blocks from the girl's home.

City authorities said that a piece of concrete was lying on her abdomen. Concrete blocks were stacked around the body.

Three elementary school children found the girl while they were playing among abandoned vehicles in the lot.

The parking area, in a residential area, is used by Kenosha police to store cars waiting for salvage or auction.

The hearse had been in the lot several months, police said, and had no wheels. It had been used at various times as transportation for a baseball team and for storage of tires.

Vietnam War In Full Swing In South, North

nounced that one man of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division was killed Sunday and 14 were wounded when a U.S. plane's bomb went astray during an operation. However, a claymore mine went off in the same area just before the bomb explosion, and the spokesmen said it might have caused some of the casualties.

Bridge Attacked

The first American air strike against the Communist north since the lunar new year truce began last Wednesday morning was made at 1:07 a.m. by two Air Force F4C Phantoms. They attacked the Vinh Tuy highway bridge seven miles south of Dong Hoi, the U.S. command said.

Navy A6 Intruders pounded rail facilities in half a dozen areas in the North Vietnamese panhandle.

Poor weather conditions limited the air raids to the panhandle area and hampered damage assessment estimates. The Air Force announced its pilots flew 12 missions — about 36 planes — in the first five hours after the bombing pause ended.

A U.S. spokesman said there "definitely were further" strikes throughout the day.

The pause in the bombing of North Vietnam ordered by Washington lasted 138 hours, 42 hours beyond the four-day truce proclaimed by the South Vietnamese government.

Plane Shot Down

U.S. military authorities announced today that before the bombing pause ended, a Navy RA5C Vigilante reconnaissance plane was shot down south of Haiphong Sunday. They said the two pilots managed to get the plane over the Gulf of Tonkin and bailed out, and an Air Force amphibian and a Navy helicopter flew through small-arms fire from nearby junks to rescue the men a half mile off shore.

North Vietnam's Vietnam News Agency, announcing the resumption of U.S. air strikes, claimed that the Americans bombed and strafed "many populated areas and economic establishments" in the provinces of Thanh Hoa, Ninh Binh and Nam Ha. It said the town of Phu Ly, in Nam Ha Province, was "savagely raided" but gave no details.

The first Navy action off North Vietnam after the six-day cessation also came before dawn today when the destroyer Cunningham reported it set three cargo craft afire 18 miles north of Dong Hoi.

The Navy said North Vietnamese shore batteries on islands near the city of Vinh opened fire later in the day on the destroyer Strauss. The destroyer suffered no damage, fired back and the batteries ceased fire, the Navy reported.

In addition to the record number of fighter-bomber strikes in South Vietnam Monday, Air Force B52s flew in from Guam for three strikes Monday night and today against suspected enemy positions in the south.

Monday night they pounded a target 16 miles southwest of Da Nang and another one about 310 miles north of Saigon. This morning they struck an enemy base camp 12 miles south of Hue.

Fugitive Seized In Robbery, Theft Of Preacher's Car

ELKHORN (AP) — A fugitive from a state prerelease center was seized on robbery and theft charges after being accused of robbing a clergyman and a parishioner before fleeing with the clergyman's car Monday.

Judge Erwin Zastrow of Walworth County Court scheduled a preliminary hearing Friday for Robert E. McGregor, who was charged with auto theft and with two counts of robbery.

McGregor was apprehended driving a car owned by the Rev. Dean Hancock, pastor of the First Methodist Church, who said a man entererd his study demanding his wallet and car keys. The man then took $3 from a parishioner, Mrs. Kenneth Bill.

Authorities from Walworth and Racine counties pursued the car which was halted at a road block near Lake Geneva.

Tiny Gambia Developing On Peanuts

New African Nation Achievement as Far as It Can Go

BY ARNOLD ZEITLIN

BATHURST, Gambia (AP) — Two years agter its independence, Gambia appears to be one of the world's most developed countries — simply because it's gone about as far as it can go.

Influential civil servants and the head of this small African nation's one bank agree with this assessment by one of Gambia's small diplomatic community:

"There isn't much in the way of new directions that Gambia can go, except intensify what it has."

What it has is peanuts.

When the former British colony held its first elections in 1962, peanuts accounted for 94 per cent of its export revenue. They now account for 96 per cent of about $14 million yearly.

Few Industries

Prime Minister Dauda K. Jawara, a 43-year-old former veterinarian, says he has tried "to cut our coat according to our cloth."

That means few industries and no prestige buildings for this capital, a seacoast town of 30,000 that preserves the appearance of having been built by Victorian Englishmen.

What development money is available goes into farming. Most of Gambia's 315,000 people depend on it. Among the new industries is a distillery turning out gin, but most Gambians are Moslems who drink a nonalcoholic orange drink spiced with ginger.

Postindependence euphoria is wearing thin. Leaders claiming to represent 9,000 wage earners want more pay. The minimum wage is 79 cents a day.

The government insists it has no money — important because it is Gambia's largest employer. The labor leaders threaten a strike.

No Money

The government prefers pointing to brighter things. The peanut crop is booming, up about 30,000 tons year to last year's 118,000 tons. This is not all due to increased Gambian productivity. A lot of peanuts come from Senegal, for cash. In their own country the Senegalese receive half their payment in cash, the other half in IOU's. They smuggle their nuts across the difficult-to-guard 600-mile border.

The smuggling — which Gambians delicately call "reciprocal trading" — turns a neat profit. Senegal's cost of living, partly because of its tie with the French economy, is higher than Gambia's.

Senegalese buy cloth, liquor, cigarettes and the most prized trading item — transistor portable radios — in low tariff Gambia and smuggle the goods across the border, selling them for about a 50 per cent profit.

Gambia and Senegal have discussed some form of association. Businessmen in Gambia tend to oppose it. A shift in tariffs would ruin their business with Senegalese smugglers.

Fifth Milwaukeean in Month Dies in Fire

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Milwaukee recorded its fifth fire death of the month Monday night when Albert Mannery, 52, died in a fire which swept through the top floors of a three-story frame building on the near North Side.

Firemen, who discovered Mannery's body outside his third floor bedroom, said he apparently had been overcome by smoke after discovering a blaze in waste containers on the second floor and then alerting other residents.

David Carley Forms Development Firm

MADISON (AP)—David Carley of Madison, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor last year, reported Monday he has formed a consulting and development firm.

Known as Public Facilities Associates Inc., the company will be based in Madison and have Milwaukee and Green Bay branches. The firm will work in the building industry field.

Carley is a former director of the Wisconsin Department of Resource Development and a research director for the State Chamber of Commerce.

ment were Vice Defense Minister Hsiao Ching-kuang, air force commander Wu Fan-hsien, navy deputy commander Li Tso-peng, Ulanfu, commander of the Inner Mongolian military district, and Wang En-mao, commander of the Sinkiang military district.

Veteran Marshals Ho Lung and Lo Jui-ching were criticized again as enemies of Mao. Ho has been vice chairman of the Communist Party Military Commission. Lo was fired from his post as chief of the army general staff.

Wang En-mao is reported to have dug in in Sinkiang for prolonged resistance to Mao. Ulanfu is said to have been behind opposition to Mao in Inner Mongolia last month.

Mainland Fighting

Bloody fighting between Maoists and pro-Liu forces was reported in widely separated areas of the mainland, Moscow radio said Monday. A Japanese-language broadcast said the fighting broke out in Hupeh and Hunan provinces in central China, Kwangtung in the southeast, Heilungkiang and in the hinterlands of Tibet and Inner Mongolia.

It claimed that Maoist Red Guards have arrested Saifudin, secretary of the Sinkiang Regional Committee, and Chang Kuo-hua, conqueror and military commander of Tibet.

If true this means that two of the most powerful figures in China's Far West have ranged themselves against Mao. Chang led Chinese armies into Tibet in 1951, became the first secretary of the party committee and a deputy for Tibet.

Saifudin is an Uighur, born in Sinkiang, who wielded great influence among that Turkic tribe. He was vice commander of the Sinkiang military district whose chief was Wang En-mao, also reported an anti-Maoist.

Four Hartland Youths Hold Out Against Barber

HARTLAND, Wis. (AP)—Most of the 60 Arrowhead High School youths who faced suspension from school because of long locks have been to the barber and have returned to class.

But the school said Monday there were four youths still refusing to have their shaggy hair styles modified under a code adopted in January by the school board.

Dwight Stevens, district administrator of schools, said the holdouts would continue to "get zeros for every day of class they miss."

He said the holdouts' parents apparently were backing their sons' refusal to have their hair trimmed.

The school board's ruling prohibits boys from having hair that hangs over the eyebrows or ears.

More than 60 of the school's 400 youths received letters last week warning them that their styles were considered to be violating the new rule.

U. S. GIs in Munich Melee

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — A wild street brawl between U.S. soldiers and German police and taxi drivers late Sunday is under investigation by U.S. Army authorities, a military spokesman said today.

He said he could not confirm German police reports that one soldier had threatened a policeman with a loaded submachine gun.

A preliminary Army investigation report said that the fracas lasted about 20 minutes before an officer restored order.

This conflicted sharly with German police and newspaper reports that a free-for-all in which soldiers attacked police with sticks, bottles, stones and chair legs lasted for an hour.

The fight started, police reported, when they tried to arrest a soldier who they said had fled from the scene of a minor collision between his car and a taxi.

Safety Council Offers To Study Rural Roads

The Council offer includes study of such factors as accident records, traffic engineering, highway maintenance, local ordinances, ambulance service and accident investigation.

setbacks to the Pope's peace efforts he would not give up trying and that no matter how hard and difficult the way might be to peace the church would not be discouraged.

The unsigned comment was written shortly after the Vatican announced that the Ho message had arrived this morning.

The message was the first direct response Hanoi ever had made to the pope's peace appeals and Vatican circles said it caused distress.

The Pope was also reported distressed Monday when the United States announced a resumption of air attacks on North Vietnam.

The Vatican had praised Johnson for the bombing pause and had urged Hanoi to respond with an equivalent gesture.

ists must put an end to their aggression in Vietnam, end unconditionally and definitely the bombing and all other acts of war against the Democratic Republic of Vietnam, withdraw from South Vietnam all American and satellite troops, recognize the South Vietnam National Front for Liberation (Viet Cong) and let the Vietnamese people settle themselves their own affairs."

Already Rejected

That appeared a re-statement of conditions previously rejected by the United States.

In his White House statement, Johnson said, "The door to peace is and will remain open and we are prepared at any time to go more than halfway to meet any equitable overture from the other side."

Officials reiterated this meant North Vietnam must scale down its military operations if U.S. bombing of the north is to be halted.

It appeared logical, sources said, that U.S. bombing attacks would be intensified in the next few days or weeks in an effort to eliminate advantages Viet Cong and North Vietnamese fighting units may have gained during the 138-hour bombing lull.

Swayback Bill, Nation's Oldest Horse, Dies at 44

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Ole Bill died Monday but death was a long time coming.

Bill was a very swaybacked draft horse and his owners, Mr. and Mrs. Merle R. Booton said he would have been 44 years old in April. The black oldtimer was said by some to be the oldest horse in the nation.

For the past three years, Ole Bill was a victim of arthritis and was recovering from what a veterinarian said was a stroke. He was found on the ground in the pasture Friday.

He tried to stand Saturday night and made it to his feet twice Sunday but finally collapsed.

Ole Bill had been on a special diet for three years and received injections every three days.

The Bootons bought Bill in 1946 but 10 years ago he was retired from pulling a plow at the Booton's nursery.

"He was just like a member of the family," Booton said.

'Peace Tomorrow' Eyed by Wilson

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson reported today the existence of an initiative — a plan — which he said "could bring peace tomorrow" to Vietnam.

He told the House of Commons only a very small move was needed to set into motion "all the very complicated machinery that could bring us to peace."

The prime minister, answering questins in the House of Commons on his talks with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, gave no details of this initiative or plan.

Marinette County Accident Kills Man

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The death of a man in a Marinette County accident involving a truck and three cars Monday raised the state's traffic death figure to 89 compared with 105 on this date a year ago.

William F. Peterson, 70, of Wausaukee, riding in a car with two other persons, was killed Monday when their car collided with another car on a highway south of Wausaukee and skidded into the path of a truck.

NASA Hopes To Find Ship, Dead Cargo

WASHINGTON (AP) — A spacecraft full of insects and other organisms is expected to come back to earth tonight or Wednesday — more than eight weeks late.

"We think that most everything has died," a National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman said Monday night.

When it shot aloft from Cape Kennedy Dec. 14, the spacecraft carried a 280-pound experiment capsule which housed wasps, flour beetles, fruit flies, bacteria, frog eggs and assorted plant specimens, each in separate compartments with built-in food supplies and warming devices.

Didn't Work Out

Biosatellite, as it was dubbed, was supposed to come down again in three days so that scientists could see how all the living things were affected by the trip. Things didn't work out that way.

Its braking rocket refused to fire and the spacecraft, with food and oxygen supplies rapidly diminishing, kept making erratic orbits of the earth.

NASA has been tracking the runaway and noting its progressively lower path. Sometime during a 12-hour period starting at 10 p.m. today, space agency spokesmen said, it will slip back into the atmosphere and quickly come back to earth.

Biosatellite's battery may have sufficient reserves after the long flight to set in motion re-entry equipment, including a parachute for a soft landing, a radio beacon signal and a flashing light.

The signal devices would be helpful because no one can say where in the world the flying laboratory will come down. Air Force units around the globe have been alerted to stand by and assist in recovery.

Jumping to Conclusions

Anonymous Valentine Tonic for Middle-Aged

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions—and how many do you agree with?

This Hand Resembles Real Estate

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

"Playing that hand was just like spending an afternoon in the real estate business," Lawrence Block remarked after making four hearts with the hand shown today. Fair exchange, apparently, is the heart of Block's real estate business in Beverly Hills.

East overtook the opening lead with the ace of diamonds to return a diamond. West won with the eight and continued with the queen of diamonds.

This play gave Block a chance to go wrong. If he ruffed the third diamond in dummy, East would over-ruff and get out safely with a trump. Sooner or later, East would get the setting trick with the queen of clubs.

Instead of ruffing the third diamond, Block shrewdly discarded a low club from dummy. This was a very profitable exchange since it gave the defenders a diamond trick which they were sure to win anyway and deprived them of a club trick.

Spade Switch

At the fourth trick West switched to spades. Declarer won in dummy with the ace, drew three rounds of trumps, and cashed the king and jack of spades to discard a second low club from dummy. He could then cash the top clubs, and dummy's trumps took the rest.

"Very businesslike," North commented. "You couldn't win that third diamond trick even if you stood on your head, so you conceded it and got something valuable in exchange. No wonder you real estate men look so well fed."

"I don't do these things for myself," Block assured him. "I always have a client. In this case you were the dummy, and I made the hand just for your sake."

Partner opens with one no-trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold: S 9 6 4 3 H 7 D K Q 10 9 8 2 C 8 2. What do you say?

Answer: Bid two diamonds. Game is unlikely even if partner has his maximum strength of 18 points. There is nothing sinful about taking a small profit in a comfortable part-score contract.

Checkup Suggested if Sties Keep Returning

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M. D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have been troubled with sties (or chalazions) for several years. They don't come to a head and go away. They just stay.

Dr. Molner

My eye doctor no sooner cuts one out than another appears. What causes them? What can be done? Would allergy shots help? — Mrs. A. M.

A sty and a chalazion are not the same thing. I suspect from your description that your trouble is the latter, but I'll discuss both. The one point in common is that both affect the tiny and numerous glands of the eyelids

A sty is an infection caused by the common staphylococcus or "staph" germ, a microbe which often lurks on the skin and in the nose

Sties often occur in crops, so to speak. It is important, when a sty is opened and drained, that an antibiotic ointment be used to kill germs in the drainage. Otherwise other glands can be infected.

The patient himself can help things considerably by washing hands and face frequently, and by being careful never to rub the eyes with the hands. Since a focus of staph infection in the nose is common, such eye-rubbing can continue to transfer germs to the vulnerable glands of the eyelids

Poor nutrition or other health problem may be important in that it lowers resistance to infection. Hence a general checkup is of value when sties persist. Allergy shots would not help.

First aid for a sty is to apply heat (a moist, hot compress) as soon as a sty begins to appear.

Chalazions are glands which have become plugged and are, therefore, small cysts. Where a sty comes to a head, and fluid draining from it spreads the trouble, a chalazion does not come to a head, is not a matter of infection, and does not spread.

If it becomes large enough to be a nuisance, or is painful, the only solution is to remove it surgically. Again allergy treatment will not help.

It is true that some people find that after one is removed, another presently appears. This is not because of infection, but because some people are more subject to formation of cysts.

Dear Dr. Molner: For some time now I have noticed blood in my sperm. I have no pain or discomfort and wonder if this is anything serious. I am 64 and in fairly good health. — G. B. L.

Ordinarily we should be concerned about blood in any secretion, but in this instance it usually proves harmless. You should, however, have your prostate and urine checked to be sure that blood is not present other than as you mention.

Dear Dr. Molner: A friend told me he read that families with dogs were more likely to have cancer, and that dogs were possible carriers of cancer-causing elements. Do you have any knowledge of this? — A. L.

No, and I wouldn't give it a second thought unless your friend can come up with evidence that the idea was propounded by someone who has made a genuine study of it. Repeating notions instead of facts just adds to confusion.

Note to Mrs. C. A.: You are right about removal of hemorrhoids but you may be missing a rectal infection, your doctor would be quite right in wanting the infection cleared up before surgery.

Attention all women! For the pamphlet, "The Pre-Menstrual Blues," write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover printing and handling. This pamphlet may help you!

Winter's Cold Can Bring Discomforts of Frostbite

CHICAGO — Bang! The back door slams and your grade-schooler — looking and walking like a midget astronaut who forgot his helmet — is off to the garage to drag out his sled and join the neighbor's kids for a sliding session.

Bang! (The back door again, in about an hour or so.) And you find your youngster on the kitchen floor tugging off his boots. His nose and ears, toes and fingers are nearly white with cold. As he stomps his feet to beat out the numbness and stinging, you begin to rub his hands vigorously between yours to revive circulation.

Whether you realize it or not, your child probably has frostbite — and you both are doing the wrong thing, cautions Sara Miles of the National Safety Council's home department.

Initial Signs

"When the initial signs of frostbite — stinging pain and numbness — or the later, painless symptoms of chalk-white or yellowish gray skin color occur, never jump up and down or massage or pinch the affected area. By doing so, you might further damage partially frozen or frozen tissues," Miss Miles says.

Well then, what should be done — the old-fashioned remedy of cold water, ice or snow?

"Absolutely not," Miss Miles says. "This could severely increase tissue damage. Modern treatment calls for rapid rewarming. A warm, not hot, bath is best, or placing hands or feet in a pan of warm water. If the face is involved, hot, wet towels can help, if changed frequently and applied gently. Drinking hot chocolate or other liquid is a good idea, too, because it helps raise body temperature."

Prompt Attention

More severe cases involving skin or blood blisters, gangrene and complete freezing of the limb or digit should, of course, receive prompt and skilled medical attention.

Young children who play in unsheltered areas are most often the victims of frostbite because they ignore the warning numbness and don't know what loss of skin color means. Frostbite, however, can and does occur among others (hunters and skiers included) who work, play or walk in open areas where temperature is below freezing and winds are 10 miles an hour or higher.

Short Walk

For example, one case of severe frostbite occurred when a University coed, wearing a skirt, sweater and jacket, took a short walk across campus. A three-inch band of skin around her waist was frozen solid within minutes. Because she delayed in obtaining proper treatment, she lost a large amount of skin.

"Another major contributor to frostbite that many people are not aware of is clothing that fits too tightly and restricts circulation — particularly gloves or boots," Miss Miles points out.

Take Precautions

Since most cases of frostbite can be avoided, she urges parents to be sure children are adequately dressed before sending them out to play. A hood or cap that covers as much of the head as possible, a scarf around the neck and chin, woolen socks and properly fitting boots are advisable, as well as heavy mittens over gloves.

In addition, applying a greasy ointment or lotion on the face, hands and feet may also help prevent frostbite.

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

Yes. The popular song is right; love and marriage do go together "like a horse and carriage." Studies show that illicit affairs rarely succeed for long, and that the partners fail to find the contentment possible in marriage. It takes continuing caring, both for the marriage and for one another, to keep love alive. Love is good for marriage, and marriage is good for love — the two go together.

To work is to live.

True —— False ——

True. Dr. Harry Levinson has made a study of work, detailed in his book, "Emotional Health in the World of the Worker." He concludes, "Folk wisdom says that to work is to live and that those who do not work seem to die — literally and psychologically. The psychologist agrees." Men work when they need money, but they keep right on working when they are well-fed, well-housed and well taken care of generally. They work to meet a variety of personality needs. These make a fascinating study.

Reader Says People Crazy; Even Graduation Going to Dogs

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I thought I had heard everything when all those nuts wrote in to tell you they sang at their own weddings and "everyone just loved it." Today I ran across some more evidence that people are getting buggier by the minute:

I see by the South Portland - Cape Elizabeth Journal that commencement exercises were held for dogs. The place was packed with proud "parents."

Down the aisle pranced a poodle, a collie, a Doberman, and so on — all wearing the traditional mortar board with hanging tassels. These dogs had completed their obedience classes and were presented with ribbon-tied diplomas. Their masters were as puffed up as if a son or daughter had made Phi Beta Kappa.

I am enclosing the newspaper story, complete with picture to prove that I am not hung over from New Year's. Thank you. — Steady Reader

Dear Steady: To those who insist that education is going to the dogs, what better proof do you need? Thanks for my laugh for the day.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a boy 17 years old. My parents were divorced two years ago. Last year my mother remarried. My stepfather was very good to me until he began to slap my mother around. When I tried to protect her he would get mad at me for butting in and I'd catch it, too.

One night he knocked out Mom's two front teeth and she left him. Two months later they made up, he paid for some new teeth, and then he knocked them out. They went back together three days before Christmas, but on Christmas Eve he hit her again. I told Mom if she went back to him again I was going to live with my Dad and his new wife.

I packed and left, only to find that my Dad and stepmother were fighting just like Mom and her second husband. I miss my school and my friends and I want to go back home but I can't decide if I should. Please tell me what to do. — Battle Fatigue

Dear B. F.: "It sounds as if one place is as bad as the other, and there's nothing you can do about it, so you might as well be with your friends and schoolmates.

It's a sad commentary when a 17-year-old boy has to write such a letter. I hope every pair of battling parents reads it and feels ashamed.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I have been married for seven years. We have three children.

I feel like I am living in the dark ages. My husband refuses to allow me to wear shorts in the summer or stretch pants in the winter. All the other young wives in the neighborhood dress this way and nobody thinks anything about it. My husband says he is against such clothing for religious reasons.

Religion is just as important to me as it is to him and I don't see anything sacrilegious about shorts or stretch pants.

What are your ideas on this? Thank you. — Texas Woman

Dear Woman: Some women look terrible in shorts and stretch pants and their hus bands are opposed to them for this reason.

I say if a husband is opposed to shorts and stretch pants for ANY reason, a wife should respect his wishes. There are plenty of attractive skirts you can wear — and I hope you will.

Organization Simplifies Bed Making

Everyone likes a good night's rest, but practically no one likes to make a bed, and small wonder.

During her lifetime, the average homemaker will walk 64 miles and spend around 400 hours making beds. But if she did it the right way, she could cut the mileage by 75 per cent and the time by half.

These figures, reported by a mattress company, are based on the typical homemaker making up three beds with a complete change of linen each week.

Time and motion studies show that the common method of bedmaking, which requires several trips around the bed for the individual placement of each sheet and blanket, takes from 4 to 5 minutes. The distance walked is about 60 feet.

Quarter At a Time

"But by making up the bed one quarter at a time, you can do the job in one 15-foot trip around the bed, taking 2½ minutes," reports a home service advisor.

Interested? Then here's how the procedure works with a double bed:

1. Start with two sheets, two blankets, two pillows, two pillow cases, and one bedspread, all neatly folded on a chair next to you.

2. From a position at the center of one side of the bed, take the first sheet and unfold it on the bed.

3. Step to the head of the bed on the same side, tuck in the sheet at the head and side, and miter the corner. If you're using fitted sheets, slip the cover over the corner of the mattress.

4. Move back to the center position. Unfold the upper sheet on the bed, then the two blankets. Fold the upper sheet back over the top of the blankets. Then spread the bedspread over the bed.

Cover Pillows

5. Take a pillow, put a pillowcase on it, lay it on the head side of the bed nearest you, and pull the bedspread over it. Take the second pillow, put the case on it, and lay it on the bedspread over the first pillow.

6. Move to the foot of the bed on the same side. Toss back the upper sheet, blankets, and spread. Tuck in and miter the bottom sheet, or put the contour sheet over the corner. Tuck in and miter the upper sheet and blankets all together. Pull the bedspread into place.

7. Move to the foot of the opposite side of the bed and repeat this procedure.

8. Now move to the head of the side of the bed opposite your starting position. Toss back the upper sheet, blankets, and spread. Tuck in or slip on the fourth corner of the lower sheet. Pull the upper sheets and blankets smooth and fold the top of the upper sheet over the blankets.

9. Place the second pillow where it belongs and smooth the bedspread over it.

"It may take a few days to get the knack of it, but once you master this way of making beds, you'll never go back to the old method," the expert said.

Jaycettes Cited for State, Local Efforts

At a time when many young women are confined to their homes caring for young children and helping their husbands launch careers, the Appleton Jaycettes have made time to volunteer many hours to community endeavors.

In recognition of their efforts and contributions in the field of mental health and retardation throughout the state, this has been designated Wisconsin Jaycettes Week.

The group is an auxiliary to the Wisconsin Jaycees and follows a similar program of self-improvement and leadership training. Recently local Jaycettes volunteered their time to help chaperone finalists in the Miss Appleton Contest. Pageant regulations stipulate that all candidates must be chaperoned at every appearance they make as a contestant.

Appleton Projects

Following the state organization's interest in mental retardation, Appleton members work at the New Hope Nursery once a week, provide a book-a-month for the mentally ill and are helping to direct a one-act play with the patients at Outagamie County Hospital. They are also assisting in the Mental Health and Retarded Children's Fund Raising Drives.

The group also aids the Jaycees on a Christmas shopping tour for needy children, and supports the Civic Celebration and Soap Box Derby.

Other community projects include providing an annual nursing scholarship, holding good grooming clinics for pre-teen and early teen-age girls, working on the cerebral palsy telethon and adopting a cerebral palsied child, sponsoring a child at Camp Waubeek each summer and purchasing items for Morgan School.

Assist Fund Drives

Appleton Jaycees also participate in the Easter Seal Drive, Community Fund, Mothers' March, St. Elizabeth Hospital and Memorial Hospital Fund Drives. This year they will also assist the Heart Fund Drive and Heart Rally.

The state organization received a national award for outstanding contributions to sheltered workshop programs by the National Sheltered Workshop Association and Homebound Programs Inc. Projects undertaken by state units include visiting local mental institutions, arranging field trips for mentally retarded children, sponsoring retarded Boy Scouts, holding dances for retarded teen-agers, sponsoring mental health clinics and helping establish Day Care Centers.

Jaycettes also assist teachers in classes for the retarded, aid mental patients when they are released from institutions, sell "Flame of Hope" candles to demonstrate retarded persons' ability to be self-supporting, award camperships to needy youth, give scholarships for those entering professional fields to help the retarded and support legislation favorable to the retarded.

Knights, Ladies at Sweetheart Dance

Cupids and hearts helped set a Valentine mood Saturday evening as members of the Knights of Columbus Council 607 and their 'ladies' partied at the Columbus Club.

The dinner dance began with a 5:30 p.m. cocktail hour. Joseph Bodmer and Francis J. Leahy were chairman and co-chairman of the party.

About 100 attended the event at which red and white carnations were used as centerpieces. Mr. and Mrs. Leahy had charge of decorations, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hauser and Mr. and Mrs. Clem Weiss.

Council 607 Knights of Columbus members and their wives dined and danced in a Valentine setting Saturday evening at the Columbus Club. Pamela Waits Out Decision By University

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Curvy Pamela Brewer continued attending classes today as the University of Florida considered how to punish her for posing in the buff for an off-campus humor magazine.

A decision on her punishment was expected to be announced today.

"If the penalty is serious, such as suspension or expulsion, it will be my recommendation to the girl and her parents to carry the appeal as high as necessary," said her lawyer, Selig Goldin.

He said he has not decided whether to fight a minor penalty.

The faculty discipline committee found Miss Brewer, 18, guilty of indiscreet and inappropriate conduct after a public hearing Friday.

May Change

Dr. J. Wayne Reitz, the university president, may accept or change whatever penalty the committee recommends.

There were reports that the committee favored a minor penalty, similar to that given 18-year-old Sue Schmidt of Tampa, who was put on social probation after posing topless for the same magazine.

Social probation restricts the freedom of a coed on weekends and prevents participation in some campus social events.

Miss Brewer's 38-25-38 figure was displayed in the center spread in the magazine which circulates primarily in Gainesville and Tallahassee.

She is a sophomore, majoring in creative art and creative writing.

Welsh Spooning Custom Stirs Romantic Sentiment

By GEORGE ESPER

NEW YORK (AP) — Girls, what would you think of receiving a giant, hand-carved wooden spoon with engraved hearts and your initials for Valentine's Day today?

That's the way the Welshmen did it in the 18th and early 19th centuries. The spoon symbolized housekeeping. The idea was to express the boy's earnest desire to win the girl's intention to marry him. It's spooning, if you please.

"I think it's a very touching custom," said Ellen Schaut, a 19-year-old student at the Pittsburgh Art Institute. She commented in a sampling of opinion on the practice by The Associated Press.

Handy Weapon

Miss Schaut's roommate, Mickey Spillane — yes, she's a girl — also thinks it's a touching idea. Miss Spillane, 23, suggested however, that "if you don't like the guy, you can always hit him over the head with it."

"Too out of date for today's male," was the reaction of Cathie McSweeney, a 20-year-old junior at the University of California at Los Angeles.

"It's a symbol of household drudgery that should have been abolished years ago," remarked Corinne Guntzel, 24, a pert brunette Ph.D candidate in economics at the University of Illinois.

Sentimental Touch

"It's no sign of household drudgery," said Denis Smith, 17, a Los Angeles high school senior. "Anyway I think a woman's place is in the home. It's kind of like an engagement ring. I wouldn't mind getting one myself."

"What? a big spoon!" exclaimed Margaret McDonough, of Miami, Fla., an airline stewardess. "Well, it's a fine idea, I guess, but it wouldn't work so well now. It's the thought that counts and it depends on who sends something. Just send her a card — if not a card, then a phone call."

Too Much Trouble

Charlotte Crick, a 22-year-old speech therapist from Willow Street, Pa., put it this way. "I think it's a fine idea. But why go to all that trouble. He can dispense with all the handiwork, if he just announced his intentions."

Donna Payne, 21, of Little Rock, Ark., said she would favor the custom.

"The mass production gifts of flowers and candy are readily available for presentation to every girl in an address book, but the boy is going to have to stop and pick out that very special one if he goes to all that trouble," she said.

Display Replicas

New York City's Museum of Courtship, Love and Marriage, a nonprofit organization dedicated to showing customs around the world, has on display wooden replicas of the Welsh valentines from the Cardiff Museum in Wales. Some are 12 inches to 20 inches long and up to 10 inches wide.

"It's great as long as the feeling is mutual — that is if the girl has the same intentions as the boy," said Carol Donelly, 20, a biology student at UCLA.

If she didn't in those days, Carol — oh, well there was always another Valentine's Day coming up and perhaps a new spoon with new initials.

Food Costs Lower; Quality Improved

The quality of foods is better, the amount of services furnished to the housewife is greater, and the typical household pays less for food now than at any time in history, according to Hugh L. Cook, agricultural economist at the University of Wisconsin.

Eighteen per cent of disposable income was spent for food in 1966 by the average U. S. family compared with 21 per cent in 1957. A smaller part of family income is now required for food than at any time in the history of any nation.

Protein and fat consumption have increased slightly during this period. Carbohydrates, which are cheaper, have declined in consumption. The shift in consumption of proteins has been to the most expensive sources, beef and poultry. At the same time prices have declined on these two items.

Convenience Foods

Since World War II, retail sales of convenience foods have grown at a rate faster than the sales of all other foods, continues Cook. There are indications that this trend will continue upward.

The average daily cost of typical "convenience food" meals is about 10 per cent more than the ingredient cost of a home-prepared meal. Preparation time for the convenience meal is about one-fourth as long.

A typical housewife trades 23 cents for a savings of one and one-half hours of work. Some convenience foods cost no more and some cost less than ingredients for home - prepared meals. People spend 28 percent more for eating food away from home than in 1955. Food prices for this food eaten away from home have increased more than prices of foods used at home.

Although the average family spent 18 per cent of its income for food during the past year, lower income families had to spend a considerably larger per cent for food.

For this group of people, increases in food prices are important. At current prices, a four-person family with two school children must have an income of at least $8,100 (after taxes) to afford a moderate cost food plan. Only 32 per cent of such families have an income this high.

Estimate $7.5 Million In 5-Year School Plan

Board of Education Sends Proposal to Mayor Buckley For Council Consideration

A projected five-year capital improvemoent program, totaling about $7.5 million, for the Appleton school system, was approved Monday by the board of education and presented to Mayor George Buckley today.

"After considerable study and evaluation of the present public school physical facilities and a review of projected pupil population, the board recommended to the members of the common council to include the needs of the system in the city's five-year improvement program," the letter stated.

No request was made for this year, but a $2 million request was put in for 1968. Included in that figure are a 12-room addition to Madison Junior High School, totaling $500,000 and a 26-classroom elementary school in the city's south central area totaling $1.5 million.

Site Consideration

According to Charles Buchanan, board president, talks on the 12-acre Mielke site have been continuing and he felt an agreement will be reached in the near future.

Additions to two junior high schools and remodeling of Appleton High School-West will total $2.5 million in 1969. Science laboratories, home economics, modern foreign language, speech, business education and additions to shops and physical education facilities at AHS-W come to $1 million.

Additions to Wilson and Roosevelt junior highs will include classrooms, libraries, shops, music and physical education

Second Five Years

Two New Schools Forecast After '71

Based on present projections, Appleton may have to build another senior high school and an additional elementary facility on the city's far northeast side between 1971-1975.

The disclosure was made Tuesday afternoon during an informal conference at city hall between Mayor George Buckley, Finance Director Henry Schreve, School Board President Charles Buchanan Jr. and Supt. of Schools William Spears.

At the same time, Buchanan and Spears informally outlined the board's five-year plan (1967-71) which calls for an estimated $7.5 million worth of new school facilities.

No Cost Estimates

No cost estimates were given for the tentative senior high-elementary school complex being considered for a portion of 95 acres of city-owned property known as the old Langdyke farm.

However, it was indicated a third high school here should have a minimum 250,000 square feet of floor space and be a two-story structure.

On other school system-related matters:

—The board of education's 1968 operational budget will feel a heavier than usual impact as the result of teacher salary allocations.

—Because there is only $12,000 in the 1967 budget for school site acquisition, it may be necessary for the city council to make an additional appropriation — depending on what arrangements can be worked out with property owners.

—A minimum increase of 800 students is predicted for the 1968 public schools enrollment.

—After Highlands Elementary School is opened this fall, there will be no students at Morgan School where administrative offices are now located.

—At the present rate, the city is paying off public school bonded indebtedness — $12,545,162 as of today — at a rate of $1.2 million annually, including principal and interest.

Board Seeks Trial Night Meetings

As "a test of public reaction," the Outagamie County Board will hold a night meeting — probably in May.

The suggestion was made this morning by Board Chairman Sylvester Esler who indicated he would like to have the night meeting in March.

However, the next meeting date, March 14, is Government Day for schools, and pupils will be on hand to observe the functionings of county government — including the board. A night meeting on that date would work a hardship on the government day program, supervisors said.

Elections and committee appointments will be held at the April board meeting, thus necessitating a longer-than-usual session.

Esler said he believes the county should try night meetings at least a couple of times a year.

Several supervisors have tried in the past to start a night meeting schedule, alleging that it would allow for more public participation in county government.

Board Delays Action on City Water Project

Supervisors Ask Board to Request State Intervention

An Outagamie County Board supervisor this morning received lukewarm reception to a proposal that the county step into the long-standing Appleton water dispute by requesting state assistance in eliminating "a serious health hazard" constituted by the present Fox River water source.

Supv. John R. Schreiter of Appleton called for cessation in planning of the proposed $4.5-$5 million pipeline to Lake Winnebago, and in its place institute "an orderly and effective enforcement of the state's new water law (Chapter 614)."

Schreiter also called for immediate bonding for construction of an addition to the city's water treatment plant to allow for a doubling of its capacity. Schreiter called it "an addition that should have been started two years ago . . . "

In a resolution presented at this morning's county board session, Schreiter and Supvs. Charles Wussow, G. Allen Bubolz and Patricg Mares, all of Appleton, asked that Corp. Counsel A. W. Ponath petition the Wisconsin Resohrce Development Board and the state attorney general "for assistance in eliminating a serious health hazard by the effective and immediate enforcement of Chapter 614 of Wisconsin laws of 1965."

The resolution stated that contaminants being introduced into that portion of the Fox River between Lake Winnebago and Appleton constitute a serious health hazard to city residents.

The resolution further asks that action be directed against

Told at Appleton Lincoln Day Fete Avoid Repetition of '30s, GOP

New solutions are needed to meet the nation's problems of the 1960s, not just a repetition of old proposals from the 1930's which failed, 6th Dist. Rep. William Steiger, R-Oshkosh, told Outagamie County Republicans at their annual Lincoln Day Dinner Monday night.

Steiger spoke to an overflow crowd at the Left Guard Steak House in Appleton. The audience was swelled by the presence of 57 students who participated in the party's first Lincoln theme essay contest.

As an alternative to the Job Corps training program, which costs $9,000 per student, Steiger discussed two proposals he has introduced in Congress to train and re-train employes, and to aid the fight against air and water pollution.

Praises Wisconsin

Steiger praised the Wisconsin water pollution control program and outlined his proposal which would offer industries a 20 per cent investment tax credit for installing pollution abatement equipment.

His Human Investment Act would "encourage industry to expand its training programs so the reservoir of available job skills more closely matches the present and anticipated needs of the economy. The bill's goal is to provide the type of economic climate through tax incentives which will permit business to enter this field on a major scale.

Steiger, holding up the five volumes which make up the 1967 federal budget, pledged his support in deciphering the "budget trickery" and cutting non-essential spending for the best use of the taxpayer's dollar.

Must Persevere

Steiger said he found encouragement as a freshman congressman in Lincoln's words which indicated that as times change the country must act anew to change the government.

Pointing to the time of Lincoln, Steiger said the country had problems then as it does today, but with perseverence now, as then, the obstacles can be overcome.

They looked for water and we are seeking to purify and reclaim it, he said. "We have turned from building cities to revitalizing them and from building government to streamlining it," he said.

Steiger warned, however, "It can't be done by talk alone, and it takes your help and support to do the job better."

Steiger praised 8th Dist. Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Green Bay, a special guest for the evening, for his "counsel and guidance." He chided State GOP Chairman Ody Fish as having now "discovered" the Fox Valley was the heart of Republicanism in Wisconsin.

County Denies Negligence

Hilbert Widow Claims Damages in Husband's Death

Outagamie County supervisors this morning denied a claim alleging the county and the Town of Grand Chute were negligent in a Sept. 14 accident that killed a rural Hilbert man.

The widown of Melvin Mittelsteadt presented a claim for damages to the county in connection with a one-car accident about 11:20 p.m. on French Road, just south of U.S. 41.

Mittlesteadt, who was alone in the car, was killed almost instantly when the auto went off the road, tipped over on top of him and burned.

Mrs. Mittelsteadt and her attorney contended that the collision happened by reason of insufficiency or want of repair (of the roadway) and negligence on the part of the county and the town.

The cmoplaint by Mrs. Mittelsteadt did not state an amount of damages being sought.

The county board's executive committee had recommended denial of the claim, stating that investigation of the facts does not indicate any negligence on the part of the county.

The recommendation received unanimous board approval.

Employes at the village garage said Leiterman was mixing a combination of sulphuric acid and sodium hydroxide when the mixture exploded.

Leiterman was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital, Appleton, in a village vehicle. A Little Chute squad car provided a police escort.

Senator Will Talk On National Crime

Speaker at Lawrence Member of Committee Now Having Hearings

United States Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Indiana, will address a student convocation at 10:40 a.m. Thursday at Lawrence University's Memorial Chapel.

Bayh, a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, will speak on "Crime — A New National Danger." His talk will be open to the public.

The 39-year old Bayh, recognized as one of the "young, new breed" of legislators, went to the Senate after defeating 18-year veteran Homer Capehart in the country's major upset of the 1962 elections.

Authors Amendment

Appointed chairman of the Senate subcommittee on Constitutional amendments in his first year, Bayh authored and guided to passage the recently ratified 25th amendment which deals with presidential inability and filling a vacancy in the office of vice president.

Bayh is presently holding hearings on law enforcement endeavors and their relation to the Constitution. In addition to his work with the subcommittee, Bayh has been an articulate spokesman for measures dealing with crime, juvenile delinquency and civil rights.

Bayh began his political career in 1953 at the age of 25. A farmer, and later an attorney, he graduated in 1951 as Purdue University's outstanding agriculture student. He first served the Indiana House of Representatives in 1955. He was chosen minority leader in 1957, speaker of the house in 1959, and minority leader again in 1961. Under his leadership, the general assembly passed the most far-reaching education and water resources and flood control programs in Indiana history.

Led Investigation

In the Senate, Bayh led an investigation of steel purchasing practices by the Agency for International Development in Vietnam. He authored a successful amendment to the foreign aid appropriations bill of 1966, providing that such steel be purchased from American producers or underdeveloped nations and not from competitors of the United States steel industry.

Bayh has promoted federal legislation for Indiana flood control and conservation projects, and led the compromise move which helped establish the Indiana Dunes National Lakeshore and the construction of a deep-water port for his home state.

In 1963, Bayh was named one of the 10 Outstanding Young Men in the Nation by the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce. During the 1964 presidential campaign, he was chairman of the Young Citizens for Johnson-Humphrey. He now serves on the National Advisory Committee of the Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

Two Supervisors Resign School Posts

Board Accepts 'With Regret' Loss Of James Retson, Frank Comella

Resignations of two Appleton Public School supervisors were accepted "with regret" by the board of education Monday.

Leaving the system will be James Retson, elementary curriculum coordinator, presently on a leave of absence, and Frank Comella, supervisor of music.

Retson, presently doing research and consultive work on school organization at the University of Arizona, will terminate his employment at the end of the leave of absence, June 30. He plans to complete work on his doctorate and has indicated he then may be interested in returning to Appleton.

Moves to Iowa

A graduate of Lawrence University, Retson received a master's degree in education from the University of Chicago. He became elementary curriculum coordinator in 1963.

Comella, who was appointed supervisor of music in 1964, has been with the Appleton school system since 1952. He now has accepted the chairmanship of the music department of the North Iowa Area Community College, Mason City.

A 1951 graduate of Wisconsin State Teachers College, Milwaukee, Comella received his master's degree in 1954 from State College of Iowa, Cedar Falls. Before coming to Appleton he taught at St. Mary High School, Menasha.

Going with him will be Mrs. Comella, a part-time kindergarten instructor, whose resignation also was accepted Monday. They will leave at the end of the school year.

The resignation of one instructor was turned down by the board.

Byrnes Says Congress Will Modify Federal Programs

Widespread Republican victories in 1966 Congressional elections will make the next two years' meetings of the lower house "considerably more moderate than the Congress of the last two years," 8th Dist. Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Green Bay, said this morning.

Speaking to members of the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce, Byrnes said, "I don't envision any new Great Society programs."

"This will be a Congress that will look more toward readjustments," he added. "Fundamentally, you're not going to see any legislation that you could call revolutionary."

During his talk, Byrnes discussed most areas repeatedly debated since President Lyndon B. Johnson's State of the Union address last month and the GOP policy statements made by party chiefs 10 days later.

Modify Programs

Byrnes stressed "pulling out of" or modifying several federal aid programs and giving back to state and local governments sources of revenue which, he said, presently are controlled by the federal government.

"We've got to get things back on a local level," he said. "I don't have such sympathy with state governments because they have the same sources of revenue as the federal government."

Byrnes said he expects another debate to take place over unemployment compensation during the new session. Last year he said, "we were successful in beating down the administration's proposal to federalize compensation." The Senate favored LBJ's proposal last year.

"If the business community had exerted as much pressure on the Senate as they did on the House, it might have been different," he said, adding that many U.S. Senators did not realize the implications of the measure.

Need Amendments

He did feel, however, that some amendments to the compensation act are necessary and the time is right for such changes since unemployment figures are low and "emotionalism" is at a low ebb.

Federal spending and aid programs have, Byrnes said, taken away local responsibility and made the nation's capitol "a national city hall."

"If you have a local problem, you go to Washington," he said. He urged revision of the federal aid program to elementary and secondary education but said, "There is nothing harder than to make any retreats in a federal program."

"After only one year of the education aid, your schools are geared to it," he said.

Priority System

With great numbers of applications filed by local municipalities for federal aid in all areas, the government has set up a priority system in granting funds. "That is the worst mess of all," the Congressman said, "the jockeying to determine who gets what."

Legal Expense Pro-Rating Sought On Unfair Labor Practice Action

Should the four towns attached to the Appleton public school system be required to pay a pro-rated share of the legal expense in a pending unfair labor practice action against the school board?

The question was raised by members of the Appleton Council's finance committee during a meeting Monday night, and Finance Director Henry Schreve was asked to obtain information.

Appleton, and several other public school systems, were recent targets of charges filed by the American Federation of Teachers Union, AFL-CIO.

City Atty. David Geenen will be defending the Appleton School Board before the Wisconsin Employment Relations Board (WERB).

Other Action

The committee indicated there would be expenses involved and some members felt they should be charged back to the school district with the Towns of Grand Chute, Harrison, Buchanan and Menasha paying apportioned costs.

In other action, the committee:

—Asked the city attorney for an opinion on the legality of using income from overtime parking violations — over and above the amount which automatically goes into the policemen's pension fund — to lower special assessments on citywide street resurfacing projects.

—Instructed Schreve to compile information on municipal payrolls with emphasis on overtime.

Opposes Major Modifications

Consultant Frowns On Double Exits For Revised Ramp

The Detroit consultant who designed the Soldiers Square Parking Ramp has frowned on using Lawrence Street for an exit as planned by the Appleton Council when it recently approved cashier-type parking.

Orignally, the 450-car structure was planned and designed for parking meters and the type of internal traffic flow such a system would produce, and included exits onto Oneida and Lawrence Streets.

Richard C. Rich wrote city officials Monday that making any major modifications to the structure — more than half finished at this point — would be "too drastic and costly."

As a result, Rich said he would still recommend the only exiting point be S. Oneida Street, making it two-lane rather than the planned one-lane egress.

Convert Structure

Rich said he was in agreement with a list of details which will have to be worked out to convert the new structure to cashier-type parking, including the purchase of several pieces of electronic equipment.

However, the one exception he made to the city's plan to change from metered to a cashiered structure was the stationing of a booth on the Lawrence Street exit.

When aldermen approved the cashier plan, many felt it would be satisfactory if Oneida and Lawrence Street exits were maintained.

"In working with the modifications of the structure presently under construction, we must deal with the fixed elements as they exist," Rich wrote city officials.

Too Costly

"I think we all agree that major modifications would be too drastic and costly," he added.

Rich said that in developing cashier control, for what now would exist, it was and still is his recommendation that there be a two-lane exit on Oneida Street with a minimum of one fixed booth and a possible second cashiering booth.

"Incorporating exits at any other point in the structure, because of the mixing of the traffic, would only be, in our eyes, during a peak evening exit," Rich said.

In a related development, City Atty. David Geenen indicated Monday afternoon he may have a problem providing the city parking commission with a legal opinion it recently requested.

After Hours

Mayor George Buckley, commission chairman, wrote Geenen that at its last meeting the commission requested him to obtain an opinion whether or not it can leave Soldiers Square ramp "open for free parking after hours.

"The request arose from the fact that there would be outstanding bonds on the ramp," Buckley added.

Geenen indicated it would be difficult to render an opinion because no operating hours have been established for the ramp and he could not ascertain what was meant by "after hours."

Bergstrom to Schedule Vote To Alter Shares

A and B Commons Both Would Hold Same Voting Power

NEENAH — At the annual meeting of directors of Bergstrom Paper Company, held today, an amendment to the company's articles of incorporation was recommended to reclassify its Class A Common Shares (non-voting) and Class B Common Shares (voting) on a share for share basis into a single class of voting common shares, according to H. R. Moore, president of the company.

A special meeting of the stockholders has been called for March 1 to vote on the amendment.

At the annual meeting of stockholders, preceding the directors' meeting, Bergstrom's nine directors were re-elected

In his statement on the amendment recommendation, Moore further stated that subject to the approval of the charter amendment, the board of directors has also declared a 10 per cent stock dividend to be distributed in the form of the new voting common shares on March 15 to shareholders of record at the close of business on March 3 at the rate of 25 cents per share had been declared on the new common shares, including the additional shares to be outstanding as a result of the 10 per cent stock dividend.

This new quarter dividend on the increased number of shares after the 10 per cent stock dividend is the same as the last quarterly dividend before the stock dividend and accordingly represents a 10 per cent increase in cash dividends.

Moore stated that the declaration of the stock dividend reflected the company's increased investment in capital assets and the increased cash dividend was a tangible expression of general progress of the company.

Elected directors at the stockholder meeting from outside the company were Harry H. Kirby, vice president for production and personnel, West Publishing Company; Carl E. Steiger, chairman of the board, Oshkosh National Bank; Harry D. Wolfe, Ph.D., professor of marketing, School of Commerce, University of Wisconsin; and William H. Zuehlke, director and chairman of the finance committee, Aid Association for Lutherans.

Directors from the company are N. H. Bergstrom, H. R. Moore, D. W. Bergstrom, B. B. Fisher and A. R. Hedlund.

Re-elected officers at the directors' meeting were N. H. Bergstrom, chairman of the board; H. R. Moore, president; D. W. Bergstrom, executive vice president; B. B. Fisher, vice president; F. R. Hamilton, vice president; Franklin Moore, Jr., secretary; A. R. Hedlund, treasurer; and Norman Young, assistant treasurer.

Town May Buy Own Radar Unit

MENASHA — A request for reduction in the speed limit on North Street resulted in discussion by the Menasha Town Board Monday night of the possibility of purchasing a radar unit to help solve the speeding problem in the town.

Chairman Roland Kamp said he had received a request to post a 35 mile per hour speed limit on North Street. However, the board took no action so contact can be made with the Town of Neenah which also has jurisdiction over part of the road.

All Streets

Kampo noted there is a problem of speeding on almost all town streets, particularly in the summer.

Town Clerk Robert Jacobs suggested proposing at the annual meeting that the town purchase a radar set and elect its own municipal justice.

Kampo said that Judge James Sitter has indicated he will accept Town of Menasha cases for hearing in Neenah. A request from the Animal Welfare League for the town to pass an ordinance to forbid the sale of dyed baby chicks and rabbits or the sale of baby chicks less than three weeks old and rabbits less than two months old as pets or toys was tabled.

Request for Menasha Aid Is Forwarded

MENASHA — The city's request for help in paying for its master plan has been sent again without alteration to federal officials in Chicago with the approval and blessings of state authorities, who recommend financing from funds currently on hand, Mayor Kenneth Holmes announced today

Holmes received a copy of a letter Monday from the state Department of Resource Development to the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development regional office in Chicago.

The original letter accompanied the city's aid application back to Chicago after the request and the outline of the city's planning proposals had passed review by state officials acting according to new federal guidelines.

Walter K. Johnson, chief of the state agency at Madison, wrote the federal officials his department had found "the application satisfies all preconditions for approval insofar as we can determine."

Firemen Return To Smoldering Warehouse Ruins

KAUKAUNA — Firemen spent over five hours Monday at the scene of the Combined Paper Mills Inc. warehouse fire which destroyed a Chicago and North Western Railway building Saturday.

At 1 p.m firemen were called to wet down the bales of IBM cards and other material which is still smoldering. They used over 3,000 gallons of water, and remained at the scene until 3:30 p.m.

At 8.15 p.m. they were called again, remaining at the scene more than three hours and pumped more than 5,000 gallons of water.

Firemen estimate 3 million gallons of water have been pumped on the fire since it started Saturday night.

Plans call for salvage crews to enter the area Wednesday to knock the bales apart, permitting firemen to extinguish the blaze finally.

Police and firemen are both keeping an eye on the fire area.

County Employes May Soon Be Punching Time Clocks

If an Outagamie County supervisor has his way, county employes will have to begin punching time clocks.

Supv John R. Schreiter won county board approval to have the executive committee study the time clock proposal.

Schreiter said at this morning's board session that he is disturbed by what he said is a situation whereby some employes are coming to work late and leaving early.

"I see it every day," Schreiter said. He did not mention names of persons or departments and discussion on the matter was brief.

His motion was seconded by Supv. Charles Wussow of Appleton

Another Appleton supervisor, Clarence Miller, remarked, "Pretty soon you'll have the county board punching in."

Want Further Meetings

Menasha Town Board Hedges on Appleton's Plan for Gardners Row

MENASHA — Town of Menasha officials indicated Monday night they wanted a meeting with the Appleton Public Works Committee before proceeding any further on plans for extending Appleton sewer and water to Gardners Row and for opening Calumet Street from Gardners Row to Cherry Court.

The town board was presented with cost estimates for the sewer work and Appleton plans for the opening of Calumet Street. Calumet Street is the boundary line between Appleton and the town. If the sewers are installed, the town would have to share the cost of the lines on Calumet Street.

Costs

Estimated cost, prepared by Appleton, was $37,000 for storm and sanitary sewers and water mains.

Approximately 27 homes on Gardners Row, which is in the City of Appleton, are now served under contract by the Town of Menasha sanitary district at an annual total cost of about $450.

Town Clerk Robert Jacobs questioned the economics involved. He said it would take Appleton 74 years to pay off the sewer lines at the same annual rate they now pay the town to serve the area. After the sewer lines are installed, the town will still serve 10 homes on the Appleton side of Calumet Street because of the direction of sewage flow.

Jacobs and Supv. Frederick Miller also took exception to a statement in the petitions filed by Gardners Row residents requesting Appleton sewer service which contended the town could cut off their sewer service on 30 days notice.

"We could not cut off sewer service even if we wanted to," Jacobs said. "The Public Service Commission would not let us."

Town officials were less happy with plans proposed by Appleton to open up Calumet Street to Cherry Court.

Town Chairman Roland Kampo said Walter Rasmussen, Appleton city planner, indicated the street would be in "his way or not at all." Appleton wants the street extended in a straight line which, town officials say, would bring the right-of-way within two feet of a home.

The street opening also would require extensive fill across the ravine to connect with Cherry Court, including acquisition of 175 feet of right-of-way at the base of the ravine.

Miller estimated it could cost the town between $50,000 and $100,000 to extend the street.

Mediation Asked Over Teacher Pay

MENASHA — Echoing the schedule of events in last year's negotiating sessions between the Menasha Board of Education and the Menasha Teachers Union, Local 1166, AFL-CIO, an impasse again has apparently been reached in the bargaining, and the school board is asking for mediation on the contract for the 1967-68 school year.

The board decided Monday to send a letter to the Wisconsin Employment Relations Board, (WERB), Madison, stating that an impasse had been reached.

"The major issue at stake is a salary schedule," the letter over Supt. M. J. Gegan's signature states.

The letter seeks the services of a WERB mediator to assist with the settlement of a contract. It was also pointed out in the letter that the time of preparation and issuance of individual teacher contracts for next year is not too far away (April 1).

A list of possible dates for mediation was requested.

Action was taken on the letter following a report by James Tennessen, member of the board's negotiating committee, that his committee had gone as far as it could in reaching an agreement.

Village Plans For Resurfacing Of Three Streets

KIMBERLY — The village board has authorized McMahon Engineering to prepare plans and specifications and advertise for bids for the concrete surfacing of Ann Street, a portion of Maes Avenue, and Clark Street.

Bids are to be opened at 8 p.m. March 6. The village clerk was instructed to notify property owners on the contemplated improvement. Concrete surfacing is planned for Ann Street from Kimberly Avenue south to the end, about four blocks; on W. Maes Avenue from James Street to Clark Street and on Clark Street from Maes Avenue to Kimberly Avenue.

An assessment rate for street improvement will be set after the contract for work is awarded.

Airmail Pact Support Denied By Menasha

Refusal Based on Information Received At Recent Meeting

The City of Menasha will not support Air Wisconsin's bid for an airmail contract at this time, Mayor George Buckley of Appleton was notified today.

In a letter to Buckley, Mayor Kenneth Holmes of Menasha said he had information that Air Wisconsin would not receive a contract "until such time as they could guarantee better service and a cheaper contract with the government."

Holmes said he received his information from Menasha Postmaster James Omachinski, who attended a meeting at Minneapolis recently at which the Air Wisconsin request was discussed with regional postal department authorities.

Need Better Service

". . .The City of Menasha cannot support this at this time on account of Air Wisconsin, Inc not having a contract, and until such time that there is better service at a cheaper price, we cannot make any commitment," Holmes wrote

Buckley had sent letters with supporting resolutions to mayors throughout the region asking them to bring the matter to the attention of their respective governing bodies

Several committees supported the request of the airline which is based at Appleton and operates between here and Chicago's O'Hare Field

The matter has not come before the Appleton Council.

AAL Gives $1,000 to Concordia Seminary For Publication Fund

The School for Graduate Studies of Concordia Seminary, St Louis, has received $1,000 for its publication fund, used to cover the cost of publication of scholarly writings by students and faculty members

It is the third grant of that amount by Aid Association for Lutherans, since 1962. Dr. Carl S. Meyer, director of graduate studies, said the publication of the scholarly works not only benefits the school and seminary but contributes to a greater understanding and application of the subjects in the church at large seeking aid, he added, the programs have become "purely a judgement of man and not law"

Publication of research papers by staff members of Concordia Seminary, theses presented for advanced degrees by graduate school students, and projects completed under sponsorship and supervision of the school are financed from the publication fund.

Byrnes Says Congress Will Modify Federal Programs

The City of Appleton recently has pushed for quick approval of a grant for a water pipeline to Lake Winnebago to relieve the city's critical water shortage. Byrnes said, the Appleton problem is not unique.

"People think that their Congressman ought to get this or that for them and it's not a very healthy environment for him to get into because he can't get it for them," Byrnes said.

Accent Urgency

"I suggested to the mayor (George L. Buckley) in October that, if things do slow down, we should go down to Chicago and put an emphasis on the urgency of getting early action." City officials have arranged for a meeting with Housing and Urban Development representatives to talk over the pipeline project.

Byrnes was directly critical of the Johnson administration and some of its proposals He said the proposed budget is unrealistic and that "Congress is going to have to do some cutting to even get down to the figure the President has proposed."

Of Social Security benefit increases proposed by Republicans and Democrats alike, Byrnes said any benefit increase over 8 per cent, the existing figure, would cause an added Social Security charge.

He would oppose an increase beyond 8 per cent, Byrnes said, because "We-re moving toward supplementing Social Security out of the general fund rather than out of taxes earmarked for that purpose."

Bad Dream

President Johnson indicated last month he would seek a merger of the Departments of Commerce and Labor. But Byrnes said this morning, "You can forget about that. That's the most asinine thing I ever heard of and I think he (LBJ) just had a bad dream."

Byrnes said federal aid should remain available to those areas where an inability to raise money exists. Other more prosperous states, including Wisconsin, Byrnes said, should be given back the sources for revenue presently taken over by Washington. "We should provide a means for a state to have a bigger chunk of federal tax shares," he said.

He predicted a move to readjust federal aid programs will be made in the next two to five years. "We've got to get this thing back on its feet," Byrnes said of federal fiscal matters it's just a hodge-podge now."

facilities and will total $750,000 each.

By 1970 another elementary school, including 28 classrooms, will be needed near Einstein Junior High. The school, which will cost about $1.5 million, will be built on a 6-acre site adjacent to Einstein so that the elementary school can take advantage of the Einstein playground facilities.

Negotiations for this site also are complete and a tentative agreement has been reached with the owner, according to Buchanan.

Either an addition to the Johnston Elementary School or a new facility on the Colony Oaks site will cost either $750,000 or $1 5 million by 1971, depending on the decision to build or add.

"It should be remembered, however, that the cost figures for physical facilities we have listed are based on recent building experiences and may have to be escalated at about 5 per cent per year to keep pace with the increasing cost of construction," William Spears, superintendent, said

The needs for additional facilities are based on population statistics, Spears said

What we can't determine, he added, is the number of persons with children who will move into the city in the next few years, nor the number of pupils that may come from parochial schools, either by choice or because of decisions to close some classes by church authorities.

Board Delays Action on City Water Project

those who are responsible for the introduction of the contaminants into that area of the river.

Schreiter, who emphasized that he was making his remarks as an Appleton resident" and not as a county board member, was critical of the actions of the Appleton Council concerning the water problem.

Schreiter called Chapter 614 "a model ordinance that is being copied by other states" He said his entire argument rests on the enforcement of the bill

The board approved, by voice vote, an amendment by Board Chairman Sylvester Esler that the resolution be laid over for 30 days to allow for the obtaining of more information.

"We want to know if we're getting ourselves into something or not," Esler said.

The board chairman, after temporarily stepping down as chairman, said he did not think the Appleton water matter should become a concern of the county board and told Schreiter he did not believe the board should be criticizing Appleton for what it is doing. "We've never had such good relations with the city," Esler said

Supv. Ervin Conradt of Shiocton agreed with Esler that the problem lies with the Appleton council and not with the board. He urged other-than-Appleton supervisors to vote against the resolution

Kimberly Supv. Robert H. Weyenberg said it was his understanding that the state water law provides that if municipalities do not "clean up their own problems as of Jan 1, 1968," the state will step in.

Esler said he will bring the resolution up for discussion Wednesday at a six-county meeting in Oshkosh, dealing with shoreline zoning and pollution abatement in the Fox River Valley.

The one thing no other life insurance company can offer your family...

People, it is sometimes said, are much alike We can't agree when it comes to life insurance agents. Ours are very different Mass Mutual agents are an elite corps of skilled professionals who are, we believe, the finest in the industry

Consider, for example, these three standards in comparison with industry averages three times as many Mass Mutual agents have earned the Chartered Life Underwriter designation . . four times as many have won the National Quality Award . . . six times as many are members of the Million Dollar Round Table.

Mass Mutual provides its agents with the very best in policies, training and services—in return we ask a lot of our agents We ask for more work, more study, more dedication than most people would believe possible.

The result is life insurance that is tailor-made for your family, insurance of the sort an agent would write if he were doing it for himself. When an agent from Mass Mutual calls on you, you know you have at your command the very best the life insurance industry can offer.

After all, isn't that what your family deserves?

MASSACHUSETTS MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY
Springfield, Massachusetts / organized 1851

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

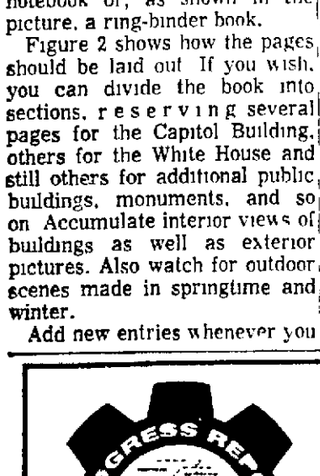
A Specialized Scrapbook Is an Interesting Hobby

BY CAPPY DICK

A specialized scrapbook, devoted to one subject, is an interesting hobby for a boy or girl. Such a book is easy to start and maintain.



Print the Title

The book suggested in the adjoining drawing is an example; other subjects could be used Entitled "My Look at Washington, D. C.," this book is devoted to pictures of various things at the capital of the United States Suitable pictures appear from time to time in newspapers and magazines and before very long the young hobbyist can have a rather fat scrapbook.

Figure 2 shows how the pages should be laid out If you wish, you can divide the book into sections, reserving several pages for the Capitol Building, others for the White House and still others for additional public buildings, monuments, and so on Accumulate interior views of buildings as well as exterior pictures. Also watch for outdoor scenes made in springtime and winter.

Herb Alpert's Late, but None Can Guess Why

Tijuana Brass Leader Finally Shows Up at Conference With Best Apologies

BY JINGO

Herb Alpert was late and there was speculation as to his whereabouts

Was he holed up in a hotel room arranging another record album? Since he and his Tijuana Brass have sold 18 million of the things it seemed unlikely he would waste a New York visit trying to make it 19

Was he out fighting a 'Lonely Bull'? Hardly One couldn't be found in the snowy slush of New York, and besides the young bandleader recently took a stab at the sport in Mexico and discovered quickly he wasn't a matador

Was he out on a date with a young starlet? Nope. He and his wife, Sharon, are happily married and parents of Dore, 6, and Eden, 1 The first is a boy; the second a girl.

Or was he in the clouds of the back room on Avenue of the Americas known as the CBS building ironing out terms for his first television special April 24?

Finally Arrives

Finally Alpert ended the discussion He poked his lean, dark-haired head into one of the private dining alcoves of the rustic but plush midtown Cattleman Restaurant where a tableful of people awaited him

"I'm sorry," he said in his best boyish manner. "I've been shopping."

And for what? A new trumpet?

"No," he said as he slid into a chair "I've been with my interior decorator looking at Louis XVI chairs We're decorating our new home in Beverly Hills"

With that settled, Alpert who is intense and shy like a jazz musician who wants to stay in the back row, began hesitantly to talk about his CBS special

Most of it, he said, would be filmed on location. And yes, he hoped there would be scenes shot in Tijuana, Mexico. Alpert admits he owes a lot to the border town besides the use of its name. It was there the Latin mariachi sound caught his ear and became an important part of his musical arrangements

As for the future, he doesn't want to overexpose himself with weekly TV appearances A special now and then, yes But why make too much of a good thing?

Surprised at Success

'I'm still surprised at our success," said Alpert "I still don't feel like a celebrity"

He doesn't wish to become an actor. "No, I'm a musician. For the moment, I want to stay one."

Back To Decorating

Just then his decorator popped his head in the alcove

"Would you excuse me, please? I still have some looking to do,' he said

And with that, Herb Alpert was gone.

Sukarno-Suharto Showdown Seen

Indonesians Have Been Urging Ex-Strongman to Quit Voluntarily

By T. JEFF WILLIAMS

JAKARTA (AP) — One of army strongman Gen. Suharto's top deputies indicated today that a showdown in the struggle to force President Sukarno to retire may be imminent.

Maj. Gen. Alamsjah said an answer to new military proposals to end the power struggle may be forthcoming tonight.

"There will be no more missions, no more talks," he declared. "The decision has been taken. We are just waiting for the answer."

Military leaders and Cabinet ministers have repeatedly urged Sukarno in recent weeks to step down before he is dragged down. The president has shown no sign of complying and gave every indication at a palace reception today that he would remain in Jakarta to continue his fight to hold the presidency.

Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution, the chairman of Congress, in a broadcast statement Monday night accused the president of being a Communist sympathizer and knowing in advance of the attempted Red coup Oct. 1, 1965.

Nasution said the working session would consider Sukarno's role in the attempted coup, his responsibility for the economic decline of the country and his future He said Suharto has been named to lead an investigation of Sukarno in connection with the coup.

Nasution's statement Monday night, read over Radio Jakarta, was in answer to a challenge from Sukarno to the general to explain his own actions at the time of the attempted coup. Nasution was then defense and security minister.

Chairman Killed

The general charged that shortly before the coup, Communist party Chairman D N Aidit attempted to swing army Brig. Gen R.H Sugandhi over to the Communist side by telling him of the plans.

"All this is known by Sukarno," Nasution quoted Aidit as saying. Aidit was killed during the bloody suppression of Communists after the coup.

Sugandhi then informed Sukarno of the plot, Nasution continued, and he said Sukarno replied: "Don't follow this Communist phobia Don't you know the generals are hopeless?"

Nasution also charged that Sukarno chose to go to the Communist headquarters on the day of the revolt rather than to the army.

Six top army generals were slain by Communist assassination squads on the morning of the coup attempt. Nasution escaped by climbing over the wall behind his house.

Strong Attack

Nasution's statement was one of the strongest attacks against the president by a top government official since the campaign opened to force him out of power.

The accusations are expected to be followed up when Congress meets early next month to conduct a full investigation of Sukarno's connection with the coup attempt. Sukarno has persistently refused to give an account or an explanation of his actions

Indonesia's Parliament, which ranks below the Congress, has adopted a resolution asking Congress to dismiss Sukarno from the presidency. Informed sources said Monday Sukarno may leave the country before Congress meets, but the president told newsmen today he would remain in Jakarta despite the moves to force him out of office

The informants had said Sukarno planned to go to Japan, where his Japanese third wife, Ratna Sari Dewi, is expecting their first child later this month.

President Johnson and Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, stand at attention Monday during welcoming ceremonies at the White House. The purpose of Selassie's visit is not known, but foreign relations specialists think he wants to discuss with Johnson the increased emphasis the United States is putting on multinational and regional aid programs. Many Defeated Democrats Back on Government Rolls

By JIM ADAMS

WASHINGTON (AP) — A good many Democratic congressmen beaten in the Republican election sweep last November are back on the federal payroll.

Half have landed federal positions, are looking for them, or have been named to high positions in their states.

Former Rep. David S. King of Utah was appointed by President Johnson as U.S. ambassador to the Malagasy Republic off the southeast coast of Africa.

Half a dozen others have become high-level administrators in scattered federal agencies. More are consultants and lesser officials in a variety of federal programs.

Fifty-two Democratic congressmen were defeated in last year's primaries and general elections. So far 17 have federal appointments and jobs, at least 5 are looking and 4 are in line for positions in states and the Democratic party.

Private Practice

The other 26 defeated Democrats returned to law practices and other private positions back home, retired or are still in Washington but plan to return home soon.

Twenty-seven of the Democrats who rode into Congress on the Johnson tide in 1964 went right back out on the Republican resurgence last fall. But they generally have fared well.

Nine have federal jobs, four more are looking and three have state positions or are leading contenders for them.

Patronage? A Democratic congressional staff member says it's no such thing.

"We help them make contact when we can," he said, "but they have to rely on their own merit when they go down for the job.

Experience Helps

"We're certainly not in a position to say 'yes,' 'no' or 'maybe' on whether they're hired"

But he added that congressional experience with federal programs often gives ex-officeholders an advantage over other applicants for the same jobs.

It would seem a congressman's voting record on proposals from a hiring agency also might help. But Democratic leaders concede no such influence.

There's little question the November defeats put some experienced men on the job market.

John A Race of Wisconsin defeated for re - election in the Sixth District, was given a post as state field coordinator in the Economic Development Administration.

Race declined the appointment.

Serving With Armed Forces

Army Claims Court-Martial Authority Over U. S. Civilians

WASHINGTON (AP) — Claiming precedents back to the Revolutionary War, the Army has asserted its authority to court-martial American civilians "serving with or accompanying" U.S. troops in Vietnam.

The Army said Monday its position was "nothing new." It pointed to the Uniform Code of Military Justice, which says that "in time of war persons serving with or accompanying an armed force in the field" — such as newsmen — are subject to court-martial.

This has been true since 1775, the Department of Defense said.

One civilian has already been tried by a military court in Vietnam, the Pentagon said Monday. A spokesman declined to identify the defendant except to say that he was a civilian seaman.

The charge against the man was not revealed, although the spokesman said the proceeding last November was a summary court-martial, which is reserved for comparatively minor offenses.

The Army's position that the "time of war" rules are applicable now in Vietnam has not been tested in U.S. courts. There has been no formal declaration of war by the United States against any other nation in connection with the conflict in Vietnam, but the Army contends that a state of war exists

Actually, a Pentagon spokesman said, the procedure is to consider each case involving civilians on its own merits. The circumstances determine whether the accused is to be tried by military court, by the courts of South Vietnam, or whether the matter is "disposed of administratively," he said.

Johnson Will Propose New Housing Bill

President Meets With Leaders to Discuss Objectives

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson will propose new legislation to combat discrimination in housing, when he sends a special civil rights message to Congress Wednesday, the White House says.

President secretary George Christian, who announced the forthcoming message Monday, said Johnson and three Cabinet members had met earlier in the day with a group of civil rights leaders to discuss civil rights goals.

"The president reaffirmed his commitment to seek legislative remedies against racial discrimination in housing, employment and the administration of justice," Christian said.

A Johnson-backed bill opposing housing discrimination was passed by the House last year but died in a Senate filibuster.

Various Angles

The press secretary said "a couple of dozen" persons took part in the discussions at the President's invitation, but would not go beyond that in identifying them.

Among the topics, he said, were economic problems, education, health, employment, legislative problems and housing.

There will also be emphasis in the message on "a great improvement in equal opportunity for better education for all Americans," he said.

Besides the President, administration spokesmen at the meeting were John Gardner, secretary of health, education and welfare, Secretary Robert Weaver of the Department of Housing and Urban Renewal and acting Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark.

Reverses Stand

Estranged Mrs. Powell Will Give Testimony

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adam Clayton Powell's wife has agreed to testify Thursday before the select House committee investigating Powell's qualifications to be seated, a committee spokesman says.

If she appears, it would be a reversal of Y. Marjorie Flores Powell's refusal to appear before another committee which probed her husband's activities late last year and ordered her fired from a $20,500 job on Powell's committee.

The current committee had hoped to conclude public hearings today but scheduled another session Thursday to accommodate Powell's estranged wife

William A. Georghegan, the committee's counsel, said Monday night he had been promised by Mrs. Powell's attorney that she would fly to Washington from her home in San Juan, P.R., Wednesday and testify Thursday.

Unlikely to Appear

The committee had little hope that Powell or two women who were members of his staff when he was a House committee chairman would appear at today's session

Powell, who faces the possible loss of his House seat, refused last week to answer questions put to him by the committee. The queries were about his New York court troubles and alleged misuse of government travel funds.

Monday the committee made public a letter to the Harlem Democrat in which it stated its belief that it has the power to recommend seating, expelling or otherwise punishing him.

Powell also was told he would be permitted to make a statement to the committee if he came, regardless of whether he submitted to questioning. Powell criticized the committee last week for refusing to let him make a statement when he refused to answer its questions.

Only Answers

He contended the committee is entitled to question only whether he meets age, citizenship and inhabitancy requirements.

"We're giving him every conceivable opportunity to come in," Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., said Monday. "If Mr. Powell comes, we'll be as lenient as possible."

While Powell's appearance was left a voluntary matter, the three women all were subpoenaed to appear. The committee reported it was unsuccessful in trying to serve a subpoena on Emma Swann, a former receptionist in his office.

A subpoena was served on Corrine Huff, 25, one-time beauty contest winner who is Powell's secretary and traveling companion. She was served on the Bahaman isle of Bimini, Powell's fishing retreat, but there was no indication she plans to come.

Five Georgia Negroes Face Murder Count

GRIFFIN, Ga (AP)—Five Negro brothers faced murder charges today in the death of a white man shot on a country road near here.

Authorities said the five brothers and four white men were involved in a gun battle before dawn Saturday in which another white man was wounded.

The brothers were held without bond. Sheriff Dwayne Gilbert said the incident apparently was prompted by a truck stop argument. No racial issues seemed involved, he said.

Gilbert, who released a report of the shooting Monday, said John Allen Grant, 35, a truck driver from Milner, Ga., a few miles south of Griffin, was killed Henry Floyd Parker of Atlanta was wounded in the right hand when his own gun went off, Gilbert said.

Held on murder warrants were brothers Tommy Lee, 22, Walter J., 29, Willie L., 18, William H., 23, and Fred Evans, 28. All are from the Griffin area, officers said.

Gilbert said the trouble began at a truck stop a mile from the shooting scene where an argument developed after the Evans brothers obtained service.

No charges were filed against the white men. Gilbert said his investigation would continue.

Ice Sheets Endanger Winter Wheat, Alfalfa

MADISON (AP)— February's debut in Wisconsin, marked by snow and freezing rain in many areas, has caused concern about effects of ice sheets on alfalfa and winter wheat, the Crop Reporting Service noted today.

Rain and high temperatures Jan. 24 melted most of the snow in southern areas, the service said, while in the north snow was reduced and thick layers of ice were left.

Valentines Flood Radio Station

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — A radio station's promotion stunt put broadcasters waist-deep in valentines today.

Station WYND recently offered to sponsor a St. Valentine's Day dance for the area school turning in the most valentines.

Operations manager Guy Crumpley said the total received was close to nine million, based on honor-system counts by students lugging bales of the billets-doux to the station.

"We'd have to rent a warehouse if the contest didn't end tonight," Crumpley said in his paper-choked studio.

The valentines ranged from penny-sized bits of paper to some that were run off in prodigal quantities on duplicating machines

Valentine Sweethearts Mark 71st Anniversary

AZTEC, N M (AP) — Mr. and Mrs Clyde A Ransom, Aztec's Valentine sweethearts, celebrated their 71st wedding anniversary today

Ransom, 92, former Aztec mayor, said he would treat his wife, Fannie, 90, to dinner out tonight The couple was married Feb 14, 1896 near Grants, N M, after being high school sweethearts in Iowa

Question Froehlich Power to Name Himself To Operations Board

MADISON (AP)—Atty Gen Bronson C. La Follette questioned Monday whether Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich R-Appleton, could appoint himself to the Board of Government Operations.

La Follette said in a legal opinion that Froehlich, since he is the person empowered to make the appointment, should not be ratified by the entire Assembly

The board handles necessary emergency appropriations not included in the regular state budget

La Follette also said two Democratic assemblymen would continue to serve on the seven-member board until May even though Republicans had recaptured control of the lower house.

New Group Home Report Given to Community Forum

James Cowan Selected to Head Group During the Ensuing Year

The Appleton Community Forum, made up of public and private welfare agency representatives, which met for the first time in more than a year Monday, elected new officers and heard a report on the recently licensed Outagamie County Welfare Department group home.

More than 40 members attended the luncheon meeting at Alex's Manor House. New president is James Cowan, psychology department director, Appleton Public Schools. Vice president is Lt. Booth Wood, commander, Salvation Army, and Mrs. Jane Kaplan, secretary, who is a caseworker for the Children's Service Society. The next meeting will be in March, on a date to be announced.

Forum members met Mr. and Mrs. Donald Peeters, the foster home group parents who are financing the building of the home, and furnishing all quarters except the facilities to be used by the eight boys who will be placed in the home.

Direct Supervision

The home, although licensed by the State Department of Public Welfare, will be under the direct supervision of the Outagamie department, and boys in the department's custody will have first placement rights.

If the home is not fully utilized by the county department, other agencies working in Outagamie will be able to make placements under the procedure outlined by the county department.

Lavern Leach, welfare department caseworker who presented the plan to the agencies, explained that the criteria now set up for placement were only starting points. Adjustments will be made as needed, he said.

Age limits are 13 to 18 years but boys who must finish a term at school may be over 18. Since the home is almost mid-point of Clintonville, Shiocton and Bear Creek, the boys will attend the Clintonville School District. They probably will attend church in Bear Creek, Leach said.

Placement Priority

When asked about placement priority, Leach said boys who most require a group home type of atmosphere will be placed regardless of where they reside in Outagamie County. "A boy from Shiocton," he said, "might need placement in an individual foster home in a city, and a boy from Appleton might need the 'not so close' association with other group home boys."

A Shiocton resident asked about the difference between the Gillespie Group Home, also licensed by the state, and the Peeters Group Home. It was explained by Alfred R. Eggert, Outagame County Welfare Department director, that the Gillespie home is licensed out of the Wisconsin Rapids area, and that the Peeters home, licensed through Outagamie County, will be used only for Outagamie County boys.

It was also pointed out, when a question about Rawhide was raised, that the Gillespie Group Home is on Rawhide grounds, just as the Peeters Group Home will be on the Peeters' farm.

Club Involvement

Mrs. Raymond Muskavitch, an interested citizen from Shiocton, attended the meeting on behalf of residents of that area, and wanted to know what clubs and organizations could do to involve themselves in the group home activities.

Leach explained that there probably would be a place for volunteers as the project develops, and Eggert pointed out that the county would gladly accept gifts of money or in kind to help furnish the boys' rooms, recreational lounge, and group home office.

"We want to see entire community involvement," he said. Leach estimated that there would be about $3,500 needed for furnishings directly related to the operation of the home.

Target date for finishing the new home is June 15, Peeters said. He hopes to begin construction about March 1.

Leach said they hoped to place four or five boys by the time school starts in the fall of 1967, and have the home filled to its capacity of eight about a year from now.

Orville Ruby, Grand Island, Neb., supreme counselor of United Commercial Travelers, will be honored at a 6:30 p.m. dinner at Reetz's Supper Club. About 70 persons are expected to attend, including some state officers of the UCT, according to R. G. Stroessenreuther, Appleton, grand counselor for the state of Wisconsin.

Salesman Makes Check Restitution; Leaves City

A 24-year-old salesman received a suspended three months jail sentence on a worthless check charge Monday after he told Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller he wanted "to catch the next bus for Milwaukee" and get a job.

Bezzlee Grimes Jr., who listed his Appleton address as a W. College Avenue motel, made restitution on $85 in worthless checks Monday afternoon before the sentence was suspended. Judge Keller did not fine the man, but specified he leave the city.

Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer said Grimes issued worthless checks this month and in January at The Red Owl Store, 700 W. Wisconsin Ave.; Haupt's Bar, 733 W. College Ave.; Bill Garvey's Cocktail Lounge, 745 W. College Ave.; Nathrop's Grocery, 2711 Lynndale Drive; Humble Oil Co. station, 1521 N. Morrison St.; The Consolidated Service Station, Menasha; and The Coffee Cup Restaurant, Clintonville.

Laird's Share Tax Plan Upsets Federal Officials

BY FRANCES MCKUSICK
Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — A proposal originally made by 7th Dist. Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Marshfield, requiring that a portion of federal taxes collected by the several states be returned to them, apparently has cuased consternation in the Johnson Administration.

Certainly coast-to-coast counter offensives recently launched by high administration officials would indicate that they are sincerely afraid that the tax-sharing plan, conceived by Laird in 1958, is now taking hold all over the country.

Trot Around

During the past few weeks, cabinet officials have trotted around to key cities throughout the country arguing that the states and cities should do more to help themselves — which is not exactly what the federal government itself is espousing in its various government-oriented state and local programs. Federal funds for these programs are made contingent on the applicant's observance of federal rules and regulations.

Laird's tax-sharing plan would permit the states to recapture some of the taxes they had turned over to Uncle Sam and they would be used for health, welfare or educational purposes as local officials see fit. This would mean no supervision, regulations or administration would come from Washington.

One of the top members of the administration's debate team, who plans to smooth over federal-state relations is former Florida Gov. Farris Bryant, the President's state liaison man.

Plan Visits

Bryant, or members of his task force, comprised of sub-cabinet officers plan to visit the capitals of New York, Kentucky, North Dakota, Mississippi, West Virginia, Louisiana, Utah and Massachusetts before March 6.

Then recently, John W. Gardner, secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, speaking in Hollywood, Calif., charged that state and local governments lacked "vitality and competence" to participate in "creative federalism," presumed to mean a tax-sharing program.

In another White House counter-attack, Robert C. Weaver, secretary of Housing and Urban Devel opmentaano , rdW tlreton Development, told a Warrenton, Va., audience that Johnson's "model cities program" would provide "many new paths for federal and state cooperation."

And in Washington, Sen. Frank Moss, D-Utah, made a speech on the senate floor in which he said dollar-short state governments should stop looking for a cut from federal revenues. He also called the tax-sharing bills, which have been introduced by both Democrats as well as Republicans in the 90th Congress, "ill conceived."

In the meantime, Laird himself, has not gone to sleep on the job of describing the benefits of state tax-sharing. He has spoken on it often in Washington, and recently took his proposal to a meeting of the school boards in Milwaukee. His efforts are bearing fruit.

5 Fond du Lac Victors

4 Champions Repeat, Gain National Berths In Golden Gloves Test

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Four 1966 champions were successful Monday night in the State Golden Gloves Championships and won berths in national competition beginning Feb. 25 in Milwaukee.

Fond du Lac Regional entries captured five titles in open competition and six novice championships as competitors thrashed one another to the glee of 2,279 paid spectators.

A highlight was Robert Fish of Neopit who, at 147 pounds, snapped an 18 - bout victory streak of Milwaukee's Vince Serrano Fish, producing an impressive right, overcame southpaw Serrano for a decision in the standard three - round performance.

Repeaters in the open division were Fish, Paul Latender of Neopit at 112 pounds, Dick Schomer of Marinette in the new 119-pound class, and Lew Boyd of Neopit at 139 pounds.

20th Victory

Reynaldo Martinez of Milwaukee, a 165 pounder, walked from the canvas with his 20th consecutive victory after overpowering southpaw Lowell Latender of Neopit in a three-round decision

The lad from Shawano County took several savage rights to the head, but was never floored by Martinez Latender himself laced the victor with some good rights, but simply couldn't make a dent in the rugged Milwaukeean.

Boyd exploded with the old one-two to the proverbial chin to quell Alfred Palacios of Milwaukee for the 139-pound title, and did it in only 48 seconds. With Palacios downed, referee Milt Rickun called a first-round halt

Schomer won a bout in the nationals last year and took a three - round decision Monday night over Randy Modosh of Neopit, another southpaw.

Third Round

Ronald Rynesh of Menominee, Mich , was Paul Latender's victim in the third round after the pair had shared performance honors in the initial two rounds

Mike Kiefer of Auburndale, actually a representative of Fond du Lac, suffered a cut over his right eye, but pressed Scott Anderson of Madison for a decision in the 125-pound open division

Fond du Lac's Jerry Thompson can be considered an upset victor. He stole the action from Milwaukee's Stan Moore, winner of the 156 - pound regional crown in Milwaukee last week, for a decision in the 156-pound open.

John Paul Jr. of Kenosha upped his pace in the third round to overcome Jim Burgett of Madison in 178-pound competition, and Milwaukee's Fran Roberts decisioned Howard Carlson of Fond du Lac in the 132-pound open.

In the heavyweight class, Bill Coleman of Milwaukee stopped Fond du Lac's Charles Gust in one minute, six seconds of the first round. It was Rickun again who stopped the bout — after Gust had been floored twice

MILWAUKEE, add Gloves: rounder.

Heavyweight—Larry Beilfuss, Two Rivers, stopped Alvin Jordan, Milwaukee, third round

178 pounds—Gerald Lange, Milwaukee, stopped Roger Hanson, Fond du Lac, second round

165 pounds—Robert Surdyk, Milwaukee, decisioned John Kropp, Manitowoc

156 pounds — Larry Ward, Milwaukee, decisioned Jerry Weber, Marshfield

139 pounds — Jim Pamonicutt, Neopit, decisioned Ronald Brown, Milwaukee

132 pounds—Jim Smith, Neopit, decisioned Joe Hurst, Milwaukee

119 pounds—Ronald Wamser, Cascade, decisioned Angelo Perez, Milwaukee.

112 pounds—Jerry Kessen, Neopit, decisioned Danny Barber, Milwaukee

Leads Philadelphia To 131-123 Win Over Cincinnati

PHILADELPHIA (AP) —Coach Alex Hannum says his Philadelphia 76ers aren't hearing any footsteps.

"I expect to win the Eastern Division by at least five games," Hannum said Monday night after the 76ers snapped a two-game losing streak by defeating Cincinnati 131-123 in a National Basketball Association game as Wilt Chamberlain led the way with 58 points

Hannum refused to even worry about a schedule which has his team playing 14 of its last 19 games on the road.

"Nuts to the schedule," Hannum exclaimed. "We have worked all season long to get six games ahead of Boston by good play on the floor That's the way we'll stay there. I don't care whether the games are on the home or on the road. "We'll win it."

Slight Slump

The 76ers' coach bristled when it was suggested that his team has been in a slight slump The 76ers have lost six of their last 13 games, as compared to a 46-4 record when the slide began

Hannum was extremely pleased with Chamberlain's 58-point performance He collected 26 field goals and six free throws to set a new 1966-67 individual season high. Rick Barry's 57 for San Francisco last October was the previous high

"I'm happy to see Wilt offensive-minded." Hannum said of Chamberlain, who most of the season has sacrificed his scoring prowess to concentrate on team play

Chamberlain was devastating in his one-man show against the Royals Monday night, driving toward the hoop with his patented dunk shot It was the 113th time in his pro career that he had topped the 50-point mark in regular season play

Never Trailed

In defeating Cincinnati for the sixth time in seven meetings this season, Philadelphia took the lead with 37 seconds left in the first quarter and never trailed.

Jerry Lucas drilled in 29 points to pace the Cincinnati attack. Adrian Smith added 24 and Oscar Robertson 23

In the only other game Monday night, Zelmo Beatty scored 25 points and Len Wilkens and Joe Caldwell 23 each in leading St Louis puast New York 13-109 at Memphis, Tenn. Willis Reed led New York with 18 points.

Don Drysdale Signs for '67

Dodger Hurler's Contract Reportedly Calls for $105,000

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Durable Don Drysdale's getting a running start at the 1967 baseball season, feels fit and thinks the Los Angeles Dodgers will repeat as National League champions.

The 6 - foot - 6 right-hander signed his new contract Monday for what he and Dodger officials said was for an income in six figures. It was reported at $105,000 or a $5,000 cut from his 1966 pact.

The 11-year Dodger veteran, together with Sandy Koufax, held out in contract negotiations last year until March 30. Drysdale finally got $110,000 and Koufax settled for $125,000. Swift Sandy, 27-game winner last season, has now retired because of an arthritic elbow.

Had Poor Start

Overweight and undertrained, Drysdale got off to a poor start last season and finished with a 13-16 record. His late - season performances were impressive, though, and were instrumental in bringing the Dodgers the National League pennant.

"I lost 10 or 12 pounds this winter and I feel real good," Big D said Monday. "I've been working quite a bit around my (San Fernando Valley) place and mainly watching my weight "

The Dodgers depart for their Vero Beach, Fla., spring training ground Feb. 25. The group will look different from last year's The fabled Koufax is gone, Maury Wills has been traded and the new faces include Bob Bailey, Jim Hickman, Ron Hunt, Bob Lee and Gene Michael

Dogs, Deep Snow Plaguing State Deer Herd in North

MADISON (AP) — Dogs and deep snow are plaguing northern Wisconsin deer herds, the State Conservation Department reported today.

In the Mercer area in central Iron County, north and west of Superior, snow depths range up to 30 inches and because it is lightly packed will not support deer. Animals, restricted in their movements, are hard pressed to find food, fieldmen noted

If the condition continues, the department said, plans have been set up for emergency brouse cutting. Some timber operations are underway to put slashings and tree trimming in problem deeryards.

In other northern sections, where snow ranges from 12 to 24 inches, deer are not restricted in their movements and feeding. Walking deer can stay atop a firm crust, but running animals break through. Under these conditions, fieldmen said, dogs have begun to chase deer Wardens reported problems with dogs in Jackson, Juneau and Wood counties, as well as in the north.

Adequate Career Ends at 31

Chronic Back Ailment Forces Pearson to Quit

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — "My career was just adequate at best. There are a lot of us that retire everyday, and we have to go out and look for jobs."

So said modest 5-foot-5 Albie Pearson, the darling of California Angels baseball fans, who announced his retirement from baseball Monday because of a back injury.

Pearson's "adequate" career included selections as American League Rookie of the Year in 1958, as American League all-star centerfielder in 1963 and three years of leading the Angels in batting.

The cause of the retirement is a deteriorated spinal disc which put the 31-year-old Pearson in the hospital for 36 days at the beginning of last season.

Hampers One Activity

The disc causes Pearson little discomfort during normal activity, but "the only thing I can't do is do the thing I've done all my life, and that's play baseball," he said at his Riverside home.

Midge, as his teammates called him, has long been active in youth work and participates in the Youth for Christ organization along with such athletes as Bob Richardson, Don Shinnick, Raymond Berry, Fran Tarkenton and Felipe Alou.

"We feel we have a purpose in life," Pearson said of the group. "These young people are being bartered for on every media known to man. I'd like to show them what life's all about, spiritually speaking."

Albie conceded it's tough to support a wife and four daughters that way, but said, "There's always a way out."

"I don't have any special plans," he added. "I haven't had any special offers of any sort that have been significant."

32-Man Field in Second Round of Indoor Net Meet

SALISBURY, Md. (AP) — With a record draw reduced to the usual 32-man complement, the entire field was to swing into action today in the 64th U.S. Indoor Tennis Championships

Defending champion Charles Pasarell of Puerto Rico and Cliff Drysdale of South Africa, the top-seeded domestic and foreign players, were among the winners Monday as eight first-round matches were played Drysdale swept past Len Shloss of Baltimore, 6-3, 6-1, but Pasarell had a more difficult time before subduing Daniel Contet of France, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Second Round

In today's second round, Pasarell was to play Graham Stilwell of England, who scored a 8-6, 6-4 victory Monday over Dick Dell of Bethesda, Md.

Drysdale's opponent was to be junior star Manuel Orantes of Spain, who ousted Ion Tiriac, the 10-time champion of Rumania, 6-4, 7-5.

Among the seeded American players, second-ranked Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., was set to meet Mike Green of Philadelphia; third-seeded Clark Graebner of Beechwood, Ohio, was to take on Ismail Shafei of the United Arab Republic and Cliff Richey, the No. 4 seed from San Angelo, Tex., was to play Nikola Pilic of Yugoslavia.

Delavan Will Field Team in Semi-Pro Loop

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Central State semi-pro football league said today it is uncertain which division its newest team, Delavan, will enter because of other cities having teams under consideration for membership.

League spokesmen declined to identify what they called other prospective clubs.

They had reported earlier that an Indiana team was under consideration, but said today there is little likelihood of a Hoosier squad in the loop.

The league has Racine, Chicago, Elmhurst, Ill., and Lake County, Ill., in a southern division and Manitowoc, West Allis, Madison and Sheboygan in a northern division.

The league also announced the election of Herb Velser, a West Allis insurance man, as commissioner replacing Frank Bonk of Manitowoc who becomes an honorary commissioner.

Rail Official Says Car Will be Boon to Trains

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — The automobile will put the railroads back into the passenger business, says a Maine railroad executive.

E. Spencer Miller, president of the Maine Central Railroad, says railroad passenger service will increase because "of a public need to eliminate the uneconomic expense of superhighways, highway congestion and air pollution."

After-Effects Of Atomic Bomb 'Grim'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Academy of Science says research on survivors of the Hiroshima and Nagasaki atomic bombings shows the long-term effect on health "is grim beyond doubt, yet not as grim as many (of the survivors) had feared."

An article in the academy's official publication, released last week, evaluates 600 technical reports over a 20-year period by the academy-appointed Atomic Bomb Casualty Commission.

The report says the commission has kept tabs on 100,000 persons in the two Japanese cities. Many were within 1.3 miles of the bomb target points.

Among the commission's findings:

— No evidence so far of any increase in congenital malformation of children of bomb-exposed parents

— Although defects were found in the heredity-carrying chromosomes of about one-third of the heavily exposed survivors examined, there is no evidence these have affected the person's health

— Cancer of the thyroid, especially among women, has occurred far more often among radiation-exposed persons than among the non- exposed

Jim Finks Gets 'Around 50' Inquiries About Minnesota Coaching Job

Van Brocklin Says He Lost Control of Vikings After His 1965 Resignation

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Norm Van Brocklin was quoted today as saying he lost control of the Minnesota Vikings when he quit as coach late in the 1965 National Football League season and then changed his mind after about a day.

"I don't think I ever did regain the respect and attention of the players again, so it was at least part my fault," he told the Los Angeles Times by telephone

"I resigned after I had come to the conclusion the situation here wouldn't be helped by my returning," Van Brocklin added "Before doing so I polled the directors and they were of the same opinion: that my returning wouldn't solve all the problems they have."

The former NFL star quarterback said Fran Tarkenton, Viking quarterback who also quit last week, had never talked to him about being traded. "So I don't know, really, what his problem is."

Becomes Upset

Van Brocklin said Tarkenton did become "upset" when the Vikings' second and third-string quarterbacks saw considerable action at the end of the year "I still think Fran is a fine quarterback," he said.

As for the future, the Dutchman said "pro football is about all I know, but a lot of times you don't get that second chance and I wouldn't blame anybody for not wanting me after the stunt I pulled back in '65."

He said he intends to look into some business opportunities previously mentioned to him The Vikings are going to settle with him on the remainder of his contract "in a fashion which will be satisfactory with me," he said.

Van Brocklin said he would leave today for Oregon for some fishing.

ST. PAUL - MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota Vikings General Manager Jim Finks said late Monday he was besieged during the day with telephone calls from football coaches interested in the job vacated Saturday by Norm Van Brocklin.

Finks estimated that he had heard from "around 50" coaches from the professional and college ranks inquiring about applying.

However, Finks said he would not name any of them. He also again declined to discuss the prospects of hiring any of several coaches whose names have come up in early speculation.

"The only thing I know for certain," said Finks, "is that it won't be me."

Of Monday's barrage of telephone calls, Finks said, "Many were from fellows informing me they were interested in our head coaching position. I told them I appreciated their calls, but we wouldn't be doing anything for several weeks.

"I think that this job is very appealing to a lot of people, and it's just going to be a matter of us selecting the right guy. It's going to take some time, too."

Finks said nothing will be done in earnest on the search for a new Vikings head coach until after the National Football League meeting next week in Hawaii.

"I'll have to meet with the directors when we can get together and tell them what I think we should do from here on in," Finks said.

Van Brocklin terminated his six-year tenure as Minnesota's head coach Saturday. In an interview, he indicated a split with Star quarterback Fran Tarkenton had divided the Minnesota team.

Tarkenton informed Vikings officials in a letter received here last Friday that he does not want to return to Minnesota, preferring to be traded to another NFL team.

The Vikings have taken no action on Tarkenton's letter, other than to talk to him once by telephone. Finks has given no indication what the Vikings plan to do about Tarkenton, except to say they hope he can be persuaded to return.

Tarkenton said Van Brocklin's resignation doesn't change his feelings.

Early speculation on who the Vikings might hire has centered on former Detroit Lions head coach Harry Gilmer — a one-time Van Brocklin assistant—as well as Bud Grant, coach of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Canadian Football League, and Phil Bengston, assistant coach of the Green Bay Packers.

Declares Club Isn't Riddled With Dissension

Vander Kelen Will 'Just Sit Back and Wait'

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Ron VanderKelen, former star quarterback for the University of Wisconsin and playing now for the Minnesota Vikings, says the Minnesota team is not riddled with dissension as rumors have had it.

VanderKelen has been the understudy for scrambler Fran Tarkenton since he joined the club four years ago. Tarkenton and Viking Coach Norm Van Brocklin both resigned from the club last week.

VanderKelen said the rumored feud between the quarterback and the coach had been greatly exaggerated.

"The two resignations happened so quickly that everyone is jumping to conclusions," he said.

As for himself — VanderKelen says he will now sit and wait to see if he will get a starting job with the Vikings.

"I've learned a lot in four years under Van Brocklin and Tarkenton," VanderKelen said, "and I feel I'm ready to be given a starting job."

VanderKelen earlier this year had asked the Vikings to trade him, assuming that he would forever be a backup man for Tarkenton.

"But all I can do now is just sit back and wait," he said.

Northwestern Slips Into Lead as MSU Upends Indiana '5'

Wildcats Face Iowa Tonight; 4-Way Tie for First if Hawks Win

CHICAGO (AP)— Northwestern's Wildcats didn't move a muscle Monday night but found themselves in sole possession of the league lead in the Big Ten basketball race.

Indiana dropped out of a first-place tie with Northwestern by suffering an 86-77 loss at Michigan State in the home-dominated Big Ten action.

Northwestern's league lead, however, is expected to be short-lived since the Wildcats put it on the line at Iowa tonight.

And if the Hawkeyes win, as expected, there will be a four-way tie for first place with all four contenders having completed half their conference schedule. Northwestern has a 5-1 record, Michigan State and Indiana are both 5-2 and Iowa is 4-2.

From then on it figures to be a win-at-home and lose-on-the-road race until some contender breaks the spell, wins on the road and carries off the championship.

Lafayette Paces Win

Michigan State, avenging an 82-77 loss at Indiana one week earlier, had an outstanding performance from sophomore Lee Lafayette.

Lafayette tied his career high of 24 points and Steve Rymal added 19 points in behalf of the Spartan effort. Butch Joyner of Indiana topped all scorers with 25 points.

Purdue moved into a fifth-place tie with idle Illinois by smashing Ohio State 86-66 with a homecourt triumph. Six Boilermakers scored in double figures with Herm Gilliam topping the list with 15 points.

Ohio State's Bill Hoskett led both teams with 23 points, 18 of them coming in the first half.

In addition to the Northwestern-Iowa game tonight, Minnesota will be at Wisconsin. A full slate is on tap Saturday, headed by the Indiana at Northwestern game. Other games find Minnesota at Michigan State, Ohio State at Michigan, Purdue at Illinois and Wisconsin at Iowa.

Michigan State led the entire game and held a 47-39 halftime edge.

Early in the second half, however, Indiana pulled to a one-point deficit at 53-52, but State started pulling away again and won going away.

David Returns To Detroit as New Assistant

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Jim David, defensive backfield coach with the San Francisco 49ers since 1964, will be in Detroit next season, coaching his old team, the Lions.

David, who played defensive back with the Lions for eight years, has resigned to return to Detroit and aid new head coach Joe Schmidt, the 49ers announced Monday.

He will be in charge of overall defense at Detroit.

Schmidt asked 49er coach Jack Christiansen's permission to negotiate with David. The three were once teammates at Detroit.

"I hate to lose him from our staff," Christiansen said, "but he will do a good job for Joe, as he has done for us, and I wish him well."

Lou Spadia, general manager of the 49ers, said a replacement will be named as soon as possible.

AFL Will Pick 10th Franchise by June

Cincinnati Likely Choice Of Owners

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The American Football League will expand to 10 teams by June, and Cincinnati reportedly has the inside track for the next franchise. League owners meeting here also have discussed moving the annual Super Bowl game to Miami.

Cincinnati, Birmingham, Ala., Seattle, Wash., and Phoenix, Ariz., were cities mentioned most prominently to become the league's 10th team. The owners also gave President Milt Woodard a three-year contract Monday.

Woodard's salary was not disclosed, but the contract would keep him in office until the merger of the AFL with the National Football League is completed in 1970.

In other business, the owners voted to open the upcoming season a week later than usual in order to avoid baseball scheduling conflicts at parks where the games will be played. The season will end Dec. 24.

Rebelled Against Blackout

Many owners were concerned about the relatively poor turnout at the initial Super Bowl game at Los Angeles. Only 63,036 fans turned out for the game in the mammouth 100,000-seat Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle was present as the owners discussed the possibility of moving the Super Bowl game to Miami where the Orange Bowl is being expanded to seat 75,000.

The championships in most Fox Cities area basketball leagues have been determined, but you might say that the Fox River Valley Conference's race is just beginning.

With only three games remaining for each team in the FRVC's wildest title scramble since 1959-60, three teams (Green Bay West, Manitowoc and Oshkosh) are deadlocked for the lead — with Appleton only one game behind.

The thoughts of many teams in other conferences are undoubtedly turning toward tournament play although fights remain for a number of high positions behind newly-crowned champions.

Neenah clinched its first undisputed Mid-Eastern cage title in six years with its productive weekend against Kaukauna and Two Rivers.

Appleton Xavier made sure of its sixth straight outright Fox Valley Catholic Conference title — a feat never before accomplished, according to available FVCC records — with its win over St. John.

Waupaca has wrapped up the Central Wisconsin Conference title, while Wisconsin Lutheran clinched at least a tie for the Midwest Prep Conference crown with its hard-fought win over Fox Valley Lutheran.

The Little Nine circuit still has a contest going, with Winneconne owning a 1-game edge over Brillion, with two games left. The streaking Wolves naturally are title favorites but their remaining foes — Hilbert and Omro — are both dangerous.

The FRVC hasn't featured a race like the current one in at least seven years. In 1956-60, a furious chase produced a tri-championship (AHS, Manitowoc

Globetrotters Won't Tamper With Alcindor, Says Club Director

CHICAGO (AP) — Bill Margolis, a director of the Harlem Globetrotters, said Monday that UCLA's Lew Alcindor easily would be worth $1 million to the pros when he graduates from school and that the Trotters would be bidding for him then.

"Reports that the Globetrotters offered Alcindor $1 million to drop from school and join our basketball tour is absolutely erroneous," said Margolis. "In 41 years, the Trotters never have tampered with a boy in college. This was a strict rule of the late Abe Saperstein and is being followed to the letter."

Stretches Victory Streak to 19

Western Kentucky Wins

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Western Kentucky might be a slow starter, but not even unbeaten UCLA is finishing faster.

The Hilltoppers started the season with a losing streak of one straight and have been stretch running ever since.

Their finishing kick carried them to a 19th victory in a row Monday night, an 80-71 decision over Tennessee Tech, protecting their new No. 5 ranking among the nation's major college basketball teams.

Even the top-ranked Bruins can't top that string with their 19-0 record.

Two other top ten teams, Kansas and Houston, also ran well.

The Jayhawks, now No 6, overcame a slight delay in the last half and stopped Oklahoma State 52-39 in a slow-moving contest at Lawrence, Kan.

Houston, which dropped to seventh after losing Saturday, wiped off some of the tarnish by tumbling Creighton 87-80 at Omaha.

It appeared that fast-moving Western Kentucky might pull up lame in their stretch drive when it lost high-scoring Clem Haskins to injury last week, but it has not slowed the Hilltoppers yet.

Balance Key

Butch Kaufman and Greg Smith took the reins during an 11-4 outburst in the last 2½ minutes that broke Tech's back at Bowling Green. Smith finished with 24 points, Wayne Chapman 22 and Kaufman 20.

The Hilltoppers still have five games left, all against teams they have already beaten.

Kansas protected its narrow Big Eight lead and ran its record to 16-3 over-all with a 10-0 spurt opening the final half of a 33-16 lead that was never threatened by the Cowboys' deliberate game.

Elvin Hayes led Houston to its 17th triumph against three losses with 38 points, offseting 35 by Creighton's Bob Portman.

Important league games held the rest of the spotlight as Tennessee took the Southeastern Conference lead by blasting Kentucky 76-57, and Michigan State revived its Big Ten hopes by knocking Indiana out of a first-place tie with Northwestern, beating the Hoosiers 86-77 at East Lansing, Mich.

Badgers Look To Halt 3-Game Losing Streak

Minnesota Invades UW Lair Tonight For Big 10 Tilt

MADISON (AP) — The 109th renewal of the Wisconsin-Minnesota basketball rivalry tonight will match a pair of also-rans trying to regain standing in the unsteady Big Ten basketball race.

Wisconsin wants to snap a three-game losing streak while Minnesota is seeking escape from the conference cellar after pulling out of a long losing plunge Saturday.

The Badgers are 2 - 4 in the Big Ten Minnesota is 2-5. Wisconsin bowed to conference coleader Indiana 93 - 81 Saturday while the Gophers spilled Illinois by an identical score.

Nagle At 17.4

Sophomore Chuck Nagle continues to lead Wisconsin's scoring with a 17 4 average while junior Joe Franklin is hitting at a 15 7 clip. Jim McCallum has a 10 8 average.

Junior Tom Kondla tops the Gophers at a 21 6 scoring pace. Team captain Paul Presthus owns an 11.4 output and junior Wayne Barry, a Milwaukee North product, is hitting at 11 2.

Minnesota leads in victories in the series at 55-53 The Valentine's Day date is the only rendezvous scheduled in the rivalry this season.

Rochester	11	9	2	24
Waterloo	10	10	6	20
Marquette	5	15	2	12

(Affiliated U. S. Nationals have 11-7-1 record.)

GREEN BAY — Green Bay's Bobcats, still out front in the United States Hockey League but by a less comfortable margin, venture outside the USHL for competition this weekend.

The Bobcats, who have an open date on their league schedule, will entertain an old enemy, the Canadian Soo Greyhounds, at the Brown County Arena Saturday night and Sunday afternoon.

While they are contending with the Canadians, the Green Bay skaters will be casting a backward glance at the runnerup Rochester Mustangs, just five points behind, who invade Waterloo for an important series

A double victory for the Mustangs would put them tight on the heels of the Bobcats and create a critical situation for the Bays, who have only five games remaining compared to eight for Rochester

Rochester is not the Bobcats' only problem, however. Waterloo also could vault into contention by taking a pair from the Mustangs, since the Black Hawks are only one game back of the league leaders on the loss side.

The Bobcats' weekend opponents, the Greyhopnds, will be making their first appearance on Green Bay ice in six years. The Canadians, annually one of Ontario's more potent senior teams, were regular visitors during the Bay's first three seasons, but haven't been back since February of 1961, when the Bobcats scored a 7-2 victory in their series opener and skated to a 3-3 tie with the Grehounds in rematch the following day.

and Sheboygan South — then known as Central — shared the title).

In the next six seasons, FRVC races weren't nearly that complicated. Manitowoc and GBW each breezed in once with a perfect record Appleton twice (1963-4 and 1964-5) outlasted its only real challenger, Manitowoc; Manty and South tied for the title five years ago; and West edged Manty by one game four years ago.

Current front - runners GBW, Manty and Oshkosh, who have taken turns faltering in recent weeks, could be hearing Terror footsteps. AHS, which could well be the best team in the league now, has won four straight games in a bid to duplicate its 1956-7 and 1959-60 stretch runs to the title

In 1956-7, the Dick Emanuel - coached Terrors trailed by two games with four to go, yet won the undisputed title.

Just 3½ weeks ago, AHS slipped three games off the pace after losing at Oshkosh. With their own fast clip, and help such as Sheboygan South provided last Friday, with a 74-72 win over GBW, the Terrors have wiped out two - thirds of their deficit.

Two Home Games

Down the stretch, three of the four contenders have two home games and one road game apiece while Manitowoc has two road games (North and Southwest) and one home contest (South). GBW meets Fond du Lac and AHS at home and Preble on the road. AHS has home games against Preble and North, in addition to its date at GBW.

George Hoffman provided one of the greatest exhibitions of accuracy in AHS history, as he swished 11 of 13 field goal attempts against Fond du Lac Friday — and he sank his final 10 shots. Hoffman, a corner specialist, finished with 25 points — and not 23, the total with which he had originally been credited.

Fox Lutheran's Dave Tiedt and Xavier's Gene Jack fired in 29 and 25 points, respectively, Saturday in the final home appearances of their prep cage careers

Neenah's Gary Losse and Larry Handler and Kaukauna's Quinn VandenHeuvel provided other weekend highlights with their clutch shooting in their M E showdown game Losse and Handler totaled 22 and 21, respectively, while the long shot whiz, VandenHeuvel, scored 23.

Louisville Takes Runnerup Berth Behind UCLA '5'

Associated Press Sports Writer

Louisville, Princeton, Western Kentucky and Kansas, four among the ranking teams which eluded an active Mr. Upset last week, have gained ground in the latest Associated Press major-college basketball poll.

Unbeaten UCLA, the only other team in the Top Ten to emerge without a loss last weekend, remained the poll's unchallenged leader. The Bruins, 19-0, were the unanimous choices for first place for the fifth straight week.

Vanderbilt, a top contender in the Southeastern Conference and Syracuse, 17-2, including 10 straight victories in its most recent games, are the newest members of the first 10 They replaced Providence and Boston College, two among the five ranking teams which were beaten in weekend games.

The Bruins, victors over Oregon State 76-44 and Oregon 100-66, collected all 32 votes for the No. 1 position in the latest balloting by sports writers and broadcasters based on games through last Saturday.

Louisville advanced to the runner-up position after defeating Drake 57-54 and Wichita 90-68. The Cardinals collected 275 points in the voting, based, as usual, on 10 points for a first-place vote, 9 for second, 8 for third etc

Princeton, which had to claw like Tigers to beat Yale 81-80 and Brown 57-54, moved up one notch to third. North Carolina, an 82-80 loser to Georgia Tech, tumbled two places to fourth. The Tar Heels beat Virginia and Wake Forest earlier in the week.

Western Kentucky and Kansas each climbed one position, the Hilltoppers to fifth and Kansas to sixth. Western Kentucky beat Murray 88-79 in overtime and East Tennessee, 65-56 Kansas whipped Nebraska 84-58 and Kansas State 60-55.

AAU-NCAA Hassle Still Hot as Ever

Claim Scholarships Were Threatened as Result of Feuding

BY RON RAPOPORT

NEW YORK (AP) — Two Villanova athletes say they have been threatened with the loss of their scholarships and at least three foreign athletes have been barred from the New York Athletic Club games this Friday in the latest flare-up of the war between the AAU and NCAA Practically everyone pleads innocence. The athletes are mystified, worried and angry.

It's an old, old story, this fight between the Amateur Athletic Union and the National Collegiate Athletic Association over control of the United States' track and field forces.

It may be settled soon. Theodore Kheel, a New York attorney who was appointed by Vice President Humphrey to head a panel mediating the dispute, said late Monday night that "we have something to say Tuesday."

He did not elaborate.

In the meantime, the fight goes on.

The latest episode involves the national indoor championships of the U.S. Track and Field Federation — an arm of the NCAA — in New York last Friday. The AAU did not sanction the meet, and the USTFF did not request one

Greek Vaulter Barred

So Chris Papanicolaou, a Greek pole vaulter now attending San Jose State, competed in the Federation meet, then was barred from the AAU-sanctioned Los Angeles Times meet last Saturday.

Papanicolaou was not scheduled to compete in New York this week, but three athletes who were scheduled, have been barred. They are Ian Hamilton of Villanova and Benedict Cayenne and Carver King of Maryland State. Hamilton is from Ireland, Cayenne and King from Trinidad. Frank Murphy, another Irish student at Villanova, also is on the blacklist.

Hamilton and Murphy said Monday night they were threatened with the loss of their scholarships if they did not run in the USTFF meet last week.

"We were told by Mr. Elliott (Villanova coach Jumbo Elliott) two hours before the meet that if we didn't run, our scholarships would expire this summer," Hamilton said.

"In other words, we were threatened," said Murphy.

VISTA Toward A Better Future for Alaskans

Special to the Post-Crescent

Betsy Reeve, 24, an Appleton girl with a degree in psychology from the University of Wisconsin, will soon complete one year of serving the nation's poor in one of the toughest and coldest VISTA assignments.

Hooper's Bay, Alaska, where she has been stationed is an Eskimo village of about 500 located on the Bering Sea in the middle of the Kushaquim—the Yukon Delta. It is also part of the infamous Bethel Triangle which comprises the poorest county in the nation.

Here jobs are scarce — only 18 fulltime jobs exist. Because hunting and fishing for a rapidly vanishing supply of seals, fish and birds are the primary sources of income, most people are welfare recipients.

6-Week Introduction

Miss Reeve trained for her stay in this remote Alaskan village in a six-week program at the University of Alaska, Fairbanks. Members of her group lived with different families in Fort Yukon, giving them a distinct idea of what their future assignments would be.

"We got used to packing water [illegible] taking bath[illegible] size of [illegible] cases [illegible] were [illegible] the [illegible] more [illegible] less [illegible] he [illegible] after being there. I came to see that these people had much pride and I often hid the fact that I was working with the Federal poverty program."

Community Development Work

In Alaska the main thing VISTA can accomplish is to encourage community development. "I do think villagers need new avenues of income opened to them. A person with an education usually can't find a job in Hooper's Bay so he must leave, yet he seldom is happy out of the village."

Although the town council had requested Volunteers, the primary problem was to sell Hooper's Bay on the idea of VISTA. "As gussiks (white people), we were the first, besides the priest and the techer, to actually live for an extended period of time in the village.

"Their resentment towards gussiks is a natural reaction. These people were warmer in their underground homes. Now the white people have made them live in wooden, drafty houses and forced them into a monied economy, where they have very limited avenues to obtain money. They receive labeled poor when they feel rich, compared to what their fathers had in many cases."

Rumors of the Volunteers being Russian spies circulated around the town. No one could understand their presence. "This was promoted by walks we took on the tundra in the evening. Eskimos seldom walk anyplace without a definite purpose. So they thought our purpose was to send messages.

"Our first visitors were people who had taken large amounts of home brew to get up courage to come see us. We were constantly asked what we were doing. They had no classification for us."

The Volunteers live in much the same type of small houses as the villagers. Even if they could afford to build larger houses, they would be hard to heat in winter, the main source of heat being driftwood. "We were fortunate to have an oil stove. Oil costs $4.15 for five gallons and was more than most families could pay."

Cultural differences that the Volunteers found difficult to cope with included language and fear of the white man. English is really only a second language, never spoken in the home and only learned when attending school. The children are taught not to be afraid of the boogy man but of the gussik.

"This was especially painful to me. Children cried when we approached them. One small reward I received was that by the end of the year most of the children no longer cried."

The Indians wear a combination of traditionally Eskimo garb and clothing bought at Sears-Roebuck. "They will say 'yes' to anything you say, just to please you. It's another thing to have them do what you ask.

"Shortly after we arrived we had a meeting with the village council. We found out two things. In the projects they recommended themselves, we got our best cooperation from the village, because they reflected the needs of the community. The ones we introduced on our own (with the exception of Mary Corner's Girl Scouts) were, for the most part, failures. Often we used their programs as a way to get into the community. We had to satisfy them that we were at least doing something. Our main problem for at least our first four months was to let them accept the idea of VISTA."

The Volunteers encouraged villagers to tear down an abandoned building and rebuild it in a more strategic location to become their first community hall. "Here is where Mary and I held our classes for the five-year-olds — a most stimulating experience Eskimo children, at least in Hooper's Bay (where there are a never-abundance of the very young), lead a very undisciplined childhood. I have seen a mother stand calmly while her child threw mud at her. The mother remarked, 'He's punishing me.'

"We had to get fuel for the community hall, not to mention getting equipment for the children. We started with nothing. You become an expert at begging for things. Gary ran a very successful adult education class until he transferred. Then I took over his classes. After teaching my five-year-olds in the morning, I would visit the homes and try to teach English to people who have spoken only Eskimo for over 50 years. It was amazing to see how very hard they tried."

Their language is very different from English in the formations that the mouth makes for sounds. They found difficulty in making the "th" and "ch" sounds because these have no counterpart in the Eskimo language. I found that a tape recorder helped a lot. They were making faster progress with their English than I with their Upik dialect." (Only one Alaska VISTA Volunteer has become fluent in the language.)

"Being a female in a culture where women are yet to be emancipated, there is little that can be done along certain lines. Mary and I couldn't even buy nails in the store and I was constantly criticized because my parka was dirty from doing men's work . . . Very frustrating at times.

"Much of our day was taken up just trying to live. We had to pack water from the well, and, if that was broken, pack ice from a lake with a borrowed dog team. Often I became discouraged at the long hours spent doing house work. But because we live so close to the people they have gradually come to look on us as being different from other gussiks.

"Mary became an excellent Eskimo dancer and probably helped raise the art's status among the young people who were losing interest. I made their Kuspuks (a dress worn over their fur parkas) which amazed the women. Not that they ever will fully 'accept' us, for we are different, but our difference can be a help.

"I dare say I don't think Grandma Bell, who heads a large number of families in town and speaks no English, has ever before visited gussiks just to say good-bye because she was leaving for the hospital."

The daughter of Mr and Mrs John Reeve, 212 Green Bay St., Appleton, was graduated from Appleton High School in 1961. From there, she went to the University of Wisconsin. Her interest in aiding others developed through several years of camping experience.

Her immediate plan upon completing VISTA service is to devote her summer to another anti-poverty effort. She hopes to set up and run a Head Start Program in another Eskimo village called Anaktuvuk Pass. This one is above the Arctic Circle in the Brooks range. "I have to forego getting a tan until fall, when I hope to go to Europe. Eventually I hope to return to the University of Wisconsin and get a master's degree in education.

Hoping to promote VISTA, yet not wanting to give future volunteers a false ideal to live up to, Miss Reeve said, "I'm sure in any VISTA work, the daily disappointments will far outnumber the successes, just as personal growth far outdistances any single contribution you have made. But when I see the new Volunteers who have arrived in Hooper's Bay, I know what an easier time they are going to have. We have made a small, yet permanent dent in the village. Another source of pride is VISTA, the domestic peace corps, will be recruiting members in six Wisconsin cities Tuesday through July 22. Volunteers in Service to America is part of the war on poverty. The Wisconsin drive will be held in LaCrosse, Tuesday; Tuco Rivers Manitowoc, Wednesday; Green Bay, Wednesday and July 21; Madison, Wednesday and July 21; Racine, Wednesday and July 21, and Fond du Lac, July 22. Anyone interested may contact The Post-Crescent to learn the location of the interviews.

Betsy Reeve chats with four little Eskimo friends in Hooper's Bay, Alaska. Below, a child kisses her in traditional Eskimo fashion—rubbing noses. Miss Reeve says children are taught to be afraid of white people. It was a special thrill for her at the end of the year when most of the children no longer cried around her.

A Variety of Devil Designs, which veteran tattooer Gib (Tatts) Thomas says are now the most popular, are displayed in Thomas' Milwaukee tatoo parlor. He will be out of business June 30 when tattooing will be prohibited in Milwaukee for hygienic reasons. (AP Wirephoto)

Devils Are 'In'

Art of Tattooing Soon Taboo in Milwaukee

BY KEN HARTNETT

MILWAUKEE (AP) — After more than 50 years in the skin trade, Gib "Tatts' Thomas is an expert on the twists and turns of public taste in tattoos

Sanctity is out. satanism is in "The trend now is toward the hideous."

"The most popular design of all of them — the one that everyone who comes in here wants — is the devil

"I put a thousand devils on them for every head of Christ I haven t done a Crucifixion in three years.

"Everyone wants to rebel "

Thomas. 66, stared over the waxed ends of his wispy mustache and said, "Some of the things I put on people, I wouldn't have on me if I had all the room in the world"

He has no room He ran out of it 30 years ago when he was a tattooed man traveling with circuses and road shows.

FBI Marks

"Tattooing is not like it used to be.' Thomas said

In his day, he has scrawled last wills and testaments on the backs of businessmen, discreetly placed identification marks under the arms of FBI men And that s not all

"Amurd Dietzel (his partner) and I have covered more people for exhibition than any two people in the United States," Thomas claimed

Times have changed "A few calls is all you get today "

One of Thomas last major jobs was on a man named Iwo Jima Eddie The raising of the flag on Mt Suribachi is now engraved on Eddie s back

Most of Thomas' clients are sailors on the town from nearby Great Lakes But all kinds come

Unimpressive Clients

He is unimpressed by his clientele

'Fifty per cent of the people who come in here can t spell their wife s name They ll bring her in with them and turn around and say, 'Honey, how do you spell your name?' Even if I know, I don t tell them That's between him and her. I m not cupid '

Ignorance is inexhaustible, as Thomas tells it

Bored by it All

"A heart with a dagger through it is always a good design People come in here and get them put on with their wife's or their girl friend's name The heart with the dagger is a Japanese design and it means death But they don't realize that"

Thomas admits to being bored by it all and soon he'll be out of the business Tattooing will be prohibited in Milwaukee after June 30 for hygienic reasons

"Tattooing is not only dying," Thomas said, "but founding fathers all over the country are putting tattooers out of business They're forcing them out of the country and it's ridiculous If sailors don't get tattooed here, they're going to get tattooed in Hong Kong So what's the difference?

There will always be a demand for tattoos, he said

But why get tattooed?

"You never ask a customer why," replied Thomas "I'm not a doctor I'm not to judge them I m only to please them "

Thilmany Sets Injury Free Record Year

First Time in History Without Serious Mishap

KAUKAUNA — No permanent compensation or impairment injury resulted at Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co during 1966, the first known time in 24 years, according to Clifford H. Kemp, safety director

Records were not kept prior to that time. Seven departments recorded perfect records

These include paper mill, plastics-wax, maintenance, repair, utilities, materials handling No. 1, stores-salvage and janitors.

The paper mill had three disabling injuries totaling 29 days compared to 10 with 309 days the previous year. The bag mill had three for 86 days lost compared to one for 41 days in 1965, and the asphalt department had two with 54 days compared to one with 50 days in 1965

Decorating and finishing department had one for 13 lost days compared to four with 323 days in 1965. Material handling No. 2 had two for 32 days compared to two for 83 days the previous year. The garage had one for 75 days and the office one accident for seven days in 1966 for a total of 13 accidents throughout the mill with a total of 296 days lost time.

Minor Accidents

Other accidents reported in 1965 showed one in the pulp mill for 26 days, three in maintenance-repair for a total of 257 days, one in utilities for 21 days, one in material handling No. 1 for 83 days for a total of 24 accidents with 3,232 days lost.

Kemp credited much of the success of the record to committeemen of the safety program The committees are composed of selected hourly employes and their immediate supervisors as appointed by the various superintendents.

The committeemen are responsible for aggresively pursuing the safety program within their areas, noted Kemp. They are required to know all general safety rules and those rules which specifically apply to their departments Local committees also attend general safety meetings and departmental safety meetings as called

Harrison Board Vacates Road in High Cliff Park

Move Eliminates Multiple Entrance Problem at Facility

SHERWOOD — A short stretch of town road in the upper section of High Cliff State Park, between the park manager's home and two new parking lots will be vacated, the Harrison town board decided Friday.

Action was taken following a request by Clyde Smith, district superintendent of state parks, Campbellsport. Smith said he had discussed the matter with the board last fall and would like to work on the discontinued portion when Badger Highways Co., Inc., Menasha, has machinery in the park. The area will be barricaded.

Smith said abandonment of the 300 to 400 feet of road was necessary to eliminate multiple entrances to the park. Appearing with Smith was John Franzen, High Cliff Park manager.

Vacating other stretches of road also was discussed, with no action taken.

Town Road Discussed

Also appearing were Francis Schnueider and William Engler Jr, for High Cliff Inc. Engler discussed a portion of town road in the vicinity of the boat landing on the lower level which will join a proposed new road in connection with their new development.

Town Chairman George Schwalbach said the board felt the road should be moved away from the lake, as it was showing signs of leaning, because of the lake embankment He said the present road is the third constructed by the town in the area. The first is now in Lake Winnebago

The group agreed to have the road surveyed by the State Highway Commission and the project set up in the approved manner.

A liquor license application was filed with the town clerk by the High Cliff Inc., organization.

Payment of $6,434 was made for a 1967 2½-ton gravel truck, the purchase of which was approved at the annual meeting. It will be equipped with a plow, costing $2,400.

Roadbinder for 1966 cost the town $4,900 and $117 was paid to the Town of Menasha for six months electricity for street lights at Waverly. The cost is shared by the two towns.

A complaint of dogs running loose in the Waverly area was brought to the attention of the town board. Town ordinance ruled that dogs must be tied at all times, excepting working farm dogs.

The next meeting was scheduled for March 9, a day earlier than usual.

"I'm a stock broker. Here's one thing I find that smart investors have in common."

"They start out with a specific goal in mind, usually one of these three: growth, income or safety."

Isn't it just a matter of making money?

"That's the idea, of course—to improve yourself financially. But the smart people in the market try to invest to help meet certain objectives they've set for themselves and their families, after first providing for living expenses and the usual emergencies."

But everybody must want growth?

"Of course. The country is growing and they want to grow with it. When we talk about growth as a goal, we mean growth in the value of the stock over a period of time. The investor is willing to leave his money in a stock, to ride over the normal ups and downs of the market, with the idea that his money will grow to help him in later years."

How can an investor pick a growth stock?

"If you take the stocks on the New York Stock Exchange as a whole, the record shows that their value has grown with the country over a period of years. Listed stocks are generally the biggest companies, with proven records. But there's no guarantee, of course, that any one stock will grow in any given period. The thing to do is ask your broker for facts and advice, then use your good common sense in estimating a company's prospects."

What if I needed more income to help me over some hurdles now?

"Then your primary goal would be to get a good dividend return, though you would still hope that the value of your stock would grow. Preferred stocks or bonds might be other ways to fill your need for a second income."

Where does safety fit in as a goal?

"There's some risk in any investment, whether securities or anything else. Your circumstances and your temperament may suggest a conservative approach. Then you'd look into the relative safety of principal with good yield that high-grade preferred stocks or bonds might offer."

If a goal is all that important, would you say that's the first thing an investor and broker should talk about?

"The very first. And don't feel the slightest bit shy about asking his opinion, if you're not completely sure what your goal should be. He's there to help, and if you and he have a good idea of what you want your investment to do—well, how could you make a better start?"

National C of C Worried About Middle Class

Blitz of Information Aimed at Preventing Loss of Freedoms

BY JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — New and shifting pressures on the business community, including Americans' rising educational level and the growing number of working women, has provoked the U.S. Chamber of Commerce into a blitz information program.

Beginning today in Greenville, S.C., and Detroit, chamber speakers will visit 35 cities in 32 states in the next six weeks to arouse and educate businessmen to some of these trends and the possible danger in them.

The program, according to the national chamber, is based partly in the fear that today's affluent, well-educated and increasingly young population may be willing to sacrifice some freedom for security.

A result of this—a result the chamber feels is either imminent or already with us—is that the federal government will assume a greater role in business and the economy. This role, by its nature, would be restrictive

Among the trends changing our society and exerting forces on business, the chamber lists these:

Younger Workers

"Population—It is changing. Young people will make up the greatest part of a big population growth, especially in the 1970s and 1980s. More workers will be under 25. And the ratio of working women will rise sharply, from about one in four now to around one in two.

If businessmen wish to be heard effectively, they must be aware of and in touch with these new groups.

Education—"In the depression 30s only 3 in 10 were high school graduates. Today the ratio is 7 to 10. With better education, Americans are developing rising expectations. They have stronger views about standards of performance for business."

New Majority

These and other forces, the chamber says, create this impact:

"The educated middle class is becoming the new majority. Because the individual in this group enjoys job security and a comfortable income, he thinks of his economic status as the norm.

"This colors his views on social legislation so that he is quite willing to accept government programs for minimum incomes, job security, and more Social Security without considering the effect on the market system."

"Is there a danger," the chamber asks, "that, despite his greater affluence today's better educated American may sacrifice some of his freedom in a search for security?"

Tomorrow's Society

A perusal of the chamber's literature indicates its education attempt is broadly conceived, aimed at convincing people that today's society is probably better than tomorrow's might be if we don't watch out.

Few specific alternatives to the threats are offered. The chamber places its reliance on the hope that people educated in free enterprise will defend it.

Education, however, is the very thing the chamber feels has swelled pressures.

"But here comes another development—a push for federal laws that are designed to protect the consumer. This development, we need to understand, grows in part out of two of the underlying trends·

"—The tremendous technological gains of the past 25 years or so; and

"—The greater economic role of women.

"And the higher level of education is very much in the picture, too."

Government Protection

These and other factors, the national chamber feels, mean the consumer is likely to be sympathetic toward proposals calling for government standards and protection. And such intervention, if not delicately approached, could mean danger.

The chamber is also rating senators and representatives on whether they have voted in agreement or against the business community viewpoint, as measured by their own members.

"This voting tabulation should be regarded as a report, not as an evaluation," the chamber's literature notes Since a judgment is made, however, it is an evaluation. It is, in fact, elsewhere referred to as a rating sheet.

The chamber says it hopes to arouse and inform businessmen about the key issues. "Concern about the state of affairs is meaningless without enlightened action," it concludes.

Wisconsin Income Tax — 2

Business Use Losses On Car Now Deductible

BY NORMAN E. SCHLEY
For The Associated Press

A loss on the use of your automobile for business purposes may now be claimed when you use the short cut "optional" method of deducting 10 cents per mile.

Unless you file the state of Wisconsin short form tax return, Form 1 A, it is necessary this year to attach a copy of the federal form to the state blank. Your state of Wisconsin tax will, therefore, be based on information included on your federal blank. Because your federal return should be filled out first, let's take a look at some significant changes that took place in the federal law since you prepared your last return a year ago.

Those who operate a motor vehicle for business purposes can save much time by deducting 10 cents per mile for the use of an automobile. By using the "optional" method, it's unnecessary to total the gasoline, oil, tires and repair bills you paid last year. Then there is the trouble of looking up and recording the automobile insurance, license fees and parking charges, you paid. Of course, if you insist, you can complete Schedule A and determine your deduction for auto expense by the "regular" method. The optional method is simple and involves little bookkeeping. You are entitled to 10 cents per mile for the first 15,00 miles driven for business purposes and 7 cents per mile for any miles in excess of 15,000. Increase this amount by any parking fees and the amount deductible has been determined.

Under the new law, if the amount you were reimbursed for automobile expenses is less than the amount computed under the "optional method" you may deduct the difference. For example: you are an outside salesman and you receive $100 per month for car allowance or $1,200. Let's suppose you traveled 16,000 business miles. In that case, you would take the first 15,000 miles at 10 cents or $1,500 and the additional 1,000 miles at 7 cents amounting to $70.00. Your total deduction for automobile use would amount to $1,570. By deducting the amount reimbursed, $1,200, from the total of $1,570, you can now claim a loss on business use of the vehicle of $370. In previous years, you were not allowed to claim a loss of this nature in these circumstances. Similarly, if you work for a company that allows 8 cents per mile for the business use of your car, you may deduct the difference of 2 cents per mile on the first 15,000 miles driven.

Those who use automobiles for business should remember that one important record should be maintained that will clearly disclose the business miles traveled and the purpose of the travel. Perhaps a pocket notebook or small diary would do the trick. Enter the miles shown on your speedometer in the morning when you start. Enter the mileage at the end of the business day and compute the miles driven for that day. Also indicate, of course, the business purpose for that day's driving. At the end of the year, an adding machine tape of the mileage recorded day by day will provide the mileage you are entitled to deduct. File the book away with copies of your income tax papers and you need not worry about the problems again. If an auditor challenges your figures, you'll have all that's necessary in that little book.

An "estimate" of the miles driven for business purposes is no longer acceptable. You must keep records to be sure that your deduction will be allowed. Filling station and garage operators mileage records and other similar evidence are also valuable.

Incidentally, the optional method of determining the deduction for mileage may also be used this year by those who operate pick-up or panel trucks. The method is not limited to pleasure type vehicles.

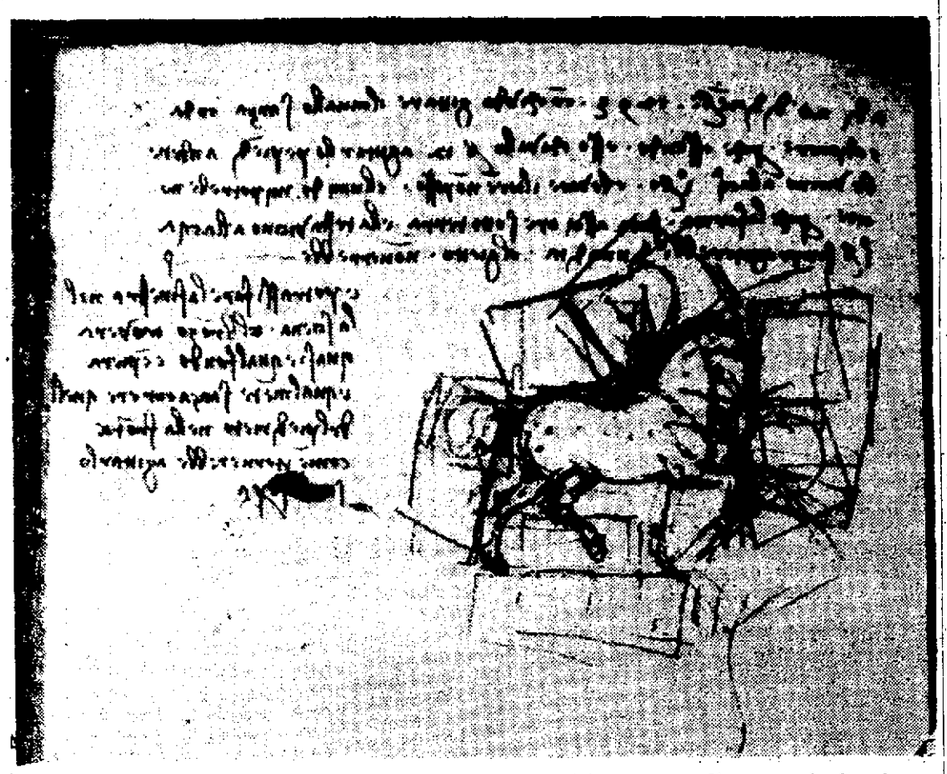
Soviet, China Troops Reportedly in Skirmish



This Drawing by Leonardo Da Vinci of molds for a casting of his Sforza horse has been found in the National Library of Madrid by Prof. Jules Piccus of the University of Massachusetts. Upwards of 700 pages of manuscripts, including 200 drawings, were discovered after having been lost among thousands of other manuscripts during recataloguing apparently before 1800. The writing is Da Vinci's secret mirror script, from right to left. (AP Wirephoto)

Credited With Inventions

2 Da Vinci Manuscripts Contain 'Finest' of Works

BOSTON (AP) — A scholar says two lost manuscripts of Leonardo da Vinci discovered in Spain may result in several inventions being attributed to the Italian master for the first time.

Dr. Ladislao Reti of the Elmer Belt Library of Vinciana of the University of California at Los Angles told a news conference Monday:

"Until now we had only 5,000 pages of Da Vinci in the world. These manuscripts contain 700 pages, so this adds about one-sixth to what we have of the master."

The discovery was announced at the news conference by Dr. Jules Piccus, professor of romance languages at the University of Massachusetts, who said he found the works in the National Library of Madrid, Spain.

Notes, Drawings

Reti, an expert on Da Vinci's scientific works, said the manuscripts were produced between 1491 and 1505, and contain notes and 200 drawings.

"We feel that these manuscripts will result in several new inventions being attributed to Da Vinci," Reti said. "For example, the chain drive like that on bicycles. We first know of this in the 18th century, but careful drawings of the chain drive appear on these pages.

"And there are drawings of a corn mill with an automatic sifter machine which we first know of from the 16th century. There are many other examples of early automation."

Piccus said he was making a "systematic search for Spanish medieval poetry" when he came upon the works.

'Most Complete'

"You might say I was lucky because I was not looking for these manuscripts specifically," he said. "But I felt sure they were among about 30,000 ancient manuscripts in the library. Scholars have been looking for them for about 75 years."

Piccus asked Reti to authenticate the manuscripts. This was completed two weeks ago, he said.

"In my opinion," Reti said, "these are the finest and most complete Da Vinci drawings of this type in existence. While many other known drawings of Leonardo are in rough form, many of these are finished drawings and are exquisite."

Reti said the writing in the manuscripts is backward and can be read only in a mirror.

'Cannot Be Forced'

"Only Da Vinci did that sort of writing in that way," Dr. Reti said, "and it cannot be forged."

Reti said scholars believe Da Vinci wrote backwards because he was lefthanded and found it easier.

"Some people think this was a sort of code," he said, "but I don't think so because the writing is easily readable in a mirror."

Piccus said the manuscripts were lost during recataloguing at the library sometime before 1800 "when nobody cared about Da Vinci." The first intensive search for them was made in 1898, he said, but it was unsuccessful and the library assumed they had been lost or stolen.

Lincoln Day Plan Fizzles For Reagan

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — "Absentees? What absentees? There were none reported to us," said California Gov. Ronald Reagan's press secretary, raising his eyebrows in mock surprise.

But reporters who checked the state Capitol and state buildings at San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego, San Bernardino and Fresno heard mainly their own echoing footsteps as they sought out the 166,000 state employes.

California's state workers had been invited by the new Republican governor to volunteer their services Monday, the Lincoln's Birthday holiday.

The idea was that by donating their time — at no extra pay or compensatory time off — a state Reagan describes as fiscally weakened might receive a $7-million shot in the arm, though unanticipated work accomplishments.

In San Francisco only three of 3,000 workers were counted, including a lady secretary who said she hadn't known it was a holiday because it wasn't posted.

"They always tell you when it's Christmas," she said.

Peace Hopes Fading

Optimism Disappears After End in U. S. Bombing Pause

WASHINGTON (AP) —Vietnam peace prospects appeared at their lowest point in two months today as U.S. bombing of North Vietnam resumed and weeks of optimistic speculation ended.

U.S. officials said peace efforts had receded to their pre-Christmas position.

President Johnson, in announcing the resumption of bombing late Monday, said he had hoped the cease-fire during the lunar new year "might lead to some abatement of hostilities and to moves toward peace."

But he said the North Vietnamese had used the pause "for major re-supply efforts of their troops in South Vietnam."

'No Other Response'

Johnson apparently referred to Sunday night's meeting in London between Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin and British Prime Minister Harold Wilson when he said: "Despite our efforts and those of third parties no other response has yet come from Hanoi."

Johnson earlier had indicated determination to resume the air war in the absence of any North Vietnamese easing of military activity.

But the North Vietnamese insisted on a halt in U.S. bombing and withdrawal of troops before peace talks could get started.

Ho wrote, "The U.S. imperial-

Truce Profited Hanoi

WASHINGTON (AP) — The North Vietnamese used 3,770 trucks and vessels to rush at least 25,000 tons of ammunition and equipment toward South Vietnam during the bombing pause, the Defense Department said today.

This was calculated to be enough to support a 10,000-man division in combat for 250 days, a spokesman said.

Vietnam War In Full Swing In North, South

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The air war returned to full swing today on both sides of the border. U.S. fighter-bombers pounded railways and other supply routes in North Vietnam. Radio Hanoi declared two were shot down. U.S. Navy vessels attacked North Vietnamese shipping.

Peking and Pyongyang broadcast pledges of continued support for the Viet Cong from Red China and North Korea. The messages to the guerrillas were signed by Defense Ministers Lin Piao of China and Kim Chang Bong of North Korea.

There was no immediate comment here on Hanoi's story of the downing of two planes. If confirmed, the official list of American losses north of the border would rise to 475.

Light Contact

In South Vietnam allied forces reported only light contact with the enemy, but U.S. Air Force and Marine pilots flew a near record 535 sorties in support of sweeping infantrymen Monday. The American record for one day of such single combat flights in South Vietnam is 549, set last Jan. 13.

U.S. spokesmen also announced that seven men of the U.S. 1st Cavalry Airmobile, Division were killed and four were wounded Monday night when five rounds of their own artillery landed among them.

The spokesmen also an-

Supposed Military Clash Along Manchurian Border Is First Between Powers

TOKYO (AP) — A clash by Soviet Union and Red Chinese troops along the Manchurian border was reported today by a Japanese correspondent. The report, which quoted wall posters in Peking, listed no date for the supposed clash, but indicated that a Soviet battalion had opened fire on a Chinese army company and was repulsed.

The report added that Soviet soldiers were captured but later released. If true, this would be the first known exchange of shots between the two Communist powers since the purge by Mao Tse-tung began last August. Chinese Communist Party Chairman Mao was reported to have ordered an alert all along China's border with the Soviet Union.

Wall posters in Peking also indicated today that a sweeping purge of Red China's leading military men is under way in Mao's drive to weed out supporters of President Liu Shao-chi. They also reported a big step up the power ladder by Mao's wife.

A correspondent of the Japanese newspaper Sankei Shimbun said 25 top military men have come under fire as followers of the bourgeois, reactionary line.

Wall posters put up by the postal and telegraph workers said that Mao's aggressive third wife, Chiang Ching, has been named chairman of a new committee formed to press Mao's purge in central party and government organizations.

New Importance

Her new importance was underlined by the fact that Premier Chou En-lai, who might have been expected to head such a committee, has been named to serve on it as Mrs. Mao's adviser.

Among the military leaders included in the wholesale indict-

Students Send Hearts, Hopes to Fighting Men

MARLBORO, Mass. (AP) — "Valentine's Day is like a lizard. It crawls into your stomach and wraps around your gizzard."

This may not sound like much of a message of love, but it should brighten the day of an American fighting man in Vietnam today.

The poem was written by one of more than 4,000 children and adults who joined in a "Valentine for Vietnam" campaign by radio station WSRO in Marlboro, about 25 miles west of Boston.

"The idea evolved from one of our talk shows," said Garey Walsh, station operations manager.

"A housewife who called in, Dorothy Creamer, was discussing the anti-Vietnam demonstrations and said: 'Why don't they do something constructive, like sending the soldiers Valentines?'"

The station has been deluged with offerings from schools, Brownie troops, Cub Scouts, women's clubs, other organizations, and private individuals.

One card carried the message: "Kill the Krouts." The young writer apparently had his wars mixed up.

Another, signed by Ty Hagen of the Elm Street Elementary School in nearby Acton, said: "I hope no one gets hurt, especially you, on this special day of Valentine's Day."

Walsh said 90 per cent of the cards were hand-made.

The cards were being bundled into 5-pound packages for mailing to the combat area.

UFOs Safe, Official Claims

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Reports of unidentified flying objects — UFOs — boomed last year, reports Maj. Hector Quintanilla, director of Project Blue Book at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base.

But whatever the sightings are, it's a safe bet they offer no threat to national security and don't come from outer space, the Air Force says.

A total of 1,060 sightings were submitted to the Air Force during 1966, second highest total since Blue Book began keeping tabs 20 years ago. The annual average is 555, the record 1,501 in 1952.

Of the 11,107 sightings since 1947, Quintanilla says, just 676 remain in the unidentified category. Only 30 of those checked out last year haven't been explained satisfactorily.

Rest Identified

Another 242 sightings are listed as having insufficient data for identification.

The rest were identified as astronomical objects, aircraft, balloons, satellites and other natural or man-made items such as missiles, rockets, fireworks, clouds, birds, swamp gas, sparks, and a lighthouse.

To date, Project Blue Book — the Air Force's investigative authority on aerial phenomena — offers these "firm" conclusions:

1. No unidentified flying object reported, investigated and evaluated by the Air Force has ever given any indication of threat to U. S. security.

2. No evidence has been discovered to indicate that any sightings categorized as unidentified represent technological development or principles beyond the range of present-day scientific knowledge.

3. There has been no evidence that any unidentified sightings were outer space vehicles.

Pertinent Data

A sighting is considered unidentified, the major says, when a report apparently contains all pertinent data necessary to suggest a valid cause or explanation of the report, but the description of the object or its motion cannot be correlated with any known object or phenomenon.

Pope Paul 'Sad' At Ho's Answer

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican expressed sadness today over the message President Ho Chi Minh of North Vietnam sent to Pope Paul VI.

A comment in the Vatican daily L'Osservatore Romano said that the replies of President Johnson and Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam to the Pope's latest peace appeals "do not seem to reject the exhortation from the visible head of the church."

It said Ho's reply, however, "does not unfortunately, contain any new elements to furnish hopes for the start, at least now, of negotiations for an honorable end to the sad conflict."

"The latest developments concerning Vietnam are causes of grave and profound sadness," the paper said.

Formal Comment

This was the first formal comment from the Vatican on the answers to Johnson, Thieu and Ho to the Pope's pleas last Wednesday that the lunar new year truce be prolonged into negotiations.

The paper said that despite

Slaying Presumed In Kenosha Death

Teen-Age Girl Found Monday In Parking Lot

KENOSHA (AP) — Every available Kenosha policeman was ordered into a search for clues Monday night after the discovery of a teen - age girl's body in an abandoned hearse.

Police said they presumed the girl had been slain, but were waiting for an autopsy to determine the cause of her death. They said there were indications she had been shot.

Her mother, Mrs. Daniela Kaldenberg, a widow, reported the girl missing early Friday.

The girl's body was clad in slacks, a sweater and a ski jacket when discovered Monday afternoon in the rear of a hearse that had been abandoned at a municipal parking lot near a railroad siding about 20 blocks from the girl's home.

Authorities said there were marks on her throat, and that a piece of concrete was lying on her abdomen. Concrete blocks were stacked around the body.

Three elementary school children found the girl while they were playing among abandoned vehicles in the lot.

The parking area, in a residential area, is used by Kenosha police to store cars waiting for salvage or auction.

The hearse had been in the lot several months, police said, and had no wheels. It had been used at various times as transportation for a baseball team and for storage of tires.

Bergstrom Profits Jump 100 Per Cent

Chairman Lists '66 as Year Of Frustration and Fruition

NEENAH — Record net sales, up 20 per cent over 1965, and record earnings, up 100 per cent, were reported Monday at Bergstrom Paper Co.

Record earnings per share of stock and record product tonnage sales also were reported.

Sales for the year were $20,887,000, an increase of $3,434,000 over 1965. Net earnings after taxes were $1,322,000, equal to $2.48 per share, compared to net earnings of $665,000 and $1.21 per share in 1965.

A dividend of 70 cents per share was paid.

N. H. Bergstrom, chairman of the board, and H. R. Moore, president, term the year as one of both "frustration and fruition". The two corporation officers said "It was very gratifying to see that in the latter part of the year, the team of man and machine began to settle down and go to work, and their combined efficiency bore fruit."

Not Enough

"Our people still do not feel that this is enough," they said. "We are bending every effort to improve our performance because we can perceive many rocks and shoals ahead of us. Inflation in rising costs of labor, equipment and materials will take its toll surely. No real force in our economy tells us differently."

New products during the year were considered as major factors in the increase in sales from 62,130 tons to 70,950 tons of paper.

One of the new products was "Thor Cote Satine". "This was the right product at the right time," according to officials. "Demand for this new fine paper grade in 1966 was remarkable."

Advances in the field of copying equipment, including the introduction of more rapid copying equipment, prompted the introduction of Odin Electrostatic-fast-copy paper to serve a growing new market area.

Officials also pointed out that "increases in production capacity with the return of No. 4 paper machine caused greater quantities of our accepted, established grades of paper to move into the market place."

In their annual report to stockholders, officials indicated the firm is now awaiting government approval of a $1.2 million water management program. Site preparation for a new eight million gallon water treatment plant and a waste disposal plant has already started.

Changes

Other changes contemplated is the elimination of the annual July 4 plant shutdown for major maintenance and repair work. A new schedule of partial mill component shutdowns will be instituted to minimize production losses and eliminate start-up difficulties after the shut-down period.

A new data processing system also was installed late in the year to maintain better control over complete company operations.

The report also hinted at possible expansion plans for the company. "How long we can continue to grow in our present location is also an important question for us. With ever rising costs in the handling and transportation of raw materials and of our nationally distributed products, we must reach out to grow.

"New plants in new areas are a possible answer. It may involve growth through acquisition or building anew and afar completely. We have the program under intensive study," the report said.

Fremont C of C Sets Committee Assignments

All Officers Will Serve on Group's Board of Directors

FREMONT — New Officers and committee members directing Chamber of Commerce activities were announced Monday.

Russel Kapitzke, president; Walter Brey, vice president; Bobby Jones, secretary; Kenneth Abraham, treasurer, and Melvin Maierhafer, Vernon Oehlke and Loren Stevens, past president, make up the board of directors.

On the membership committee and in charge of selling advertising for the water carnival will be Loren Stevens, Olin Mead and Arthur Sebstead.

In charge of concession stands, the Wolf River queen contest and all other water carnival activities will be Jack Abraham, Evan Redemann and Lester Koepp.

Area Promotion

Area promotion by sign displays, brochure advertising, and contacting new business and industry to locate in Fremont will be Arnie Sader, Dale Ludtke, Clyde Nelson and Frank Smith.

Steiger Says Nation Needs New Solutions for Problems

Told at Appleton Lincoln Day Fete Avoid Repetition of '30s, GOP

New solutions are needed to meet the nation's problems of the 1960s, not just a repetition of old proposals from the 1930's which failed, 6th Dist. Rep. William Steiger, R-Oshkosh, told Outagamie County Republicans at their annual Lincoln Day Dinner Monday night.

Steiger spoke to an overflow crowd at the Left Guard Steak House in Appleton. The audience was swelled by the presence of 57 students who participated in the party's first Lincoln theme essay contest.

As an alternative to the Job Corps training program, which costs $9,000 per student, Steiger discussed two proposals he has introduced in Congress to train and re-train employes, and to aid the fight against air and water pollution.

Praises Wisconsin

Steiger praised the Wisconsin water pollution control program and outlined his proposal which would offer industries a 20 per cent investment tax credit for installing pollution abatement equipment.

His Human Investment Act would "encourage industry to expand its training programs so the reservoir of available job skills more closely matches the present and anticipated needs of the economy. The bill's goal is to provide the type of economic climate through tax incentives which will permit business to enter this field on a major scale.

Steiger, holding up the five volumes which make up the 1967 federal budget, pledged his support in deciphering the "budget trickery" and cutting non-essential spending for the best use of the taxpayer's dollar.

Steiger said he found encouragement as a freshman congressman in Lincoln's words which indicated that as times change the country must act anew to change the government.

Must Persevere

Pointing to the time of Lincoln, Steiger said the country had problems then as it does today, but with perseverence now, as then, the obstacles can be overcome.

They looked for water and we are seeking to purify and reclaim it, he said. "We have turned from building cities to revitalizing them and from building government to streamlining it," he said.

Steiger warned, however, "It can't be done by talk alone, and it takes your help and support to do the job better."

Steiger praised 8th Dist. Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Green Bay, a special guest for the evening, for his "counsel and guidance." He chided State GOP Chairman Ody Fish as having now "discovered" the Fox Valley was the heart of Republicanism in Wisconsin.

Attending from 18 northeastern Wisconsin counties will be administrators, curriculum coordinators, elementary physical education teachers, and classroom teachers from both public and parochial schools.

3 Immunization Clinics Slated at New London

Inoculations Against Whooping Cough, Diptheria, Tetanus Set at Lincoln School

NEW LONDON — A series of three immunization clinics beginning Feb. 21, have been scheduled by Mrs. Ned Murray, city-school nurse.

Clinics will be at 9 a.m. Feb. 21, March 21, and April 18 at the Lincoln Elementary School, Mrs Murray said. She said the clinics would end when the last child is immunized.

Children pre-school age through kindergarten will be offered the triple inoculation against diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough. Children who have never had this protection will need the series of three inoculations, one month apart, Mrs. Murray said. Children who have had the series of three shots will receive a booster, which is one inoculation, she said. Boosters are to be repeated every three years.

Mothers will register their children on the day of the clinic.

Children in first through fifth grades will be given inoculations for diphtheria and tetanus. This is a series of two inoculations, one month apart, to be given to any child who has had no previous protection. A booster shot may be given if the youngster has received the series.

Registration cards for school children may be obtained from the teacher and must be signed by the parent or guardian before the inoculation is given, she said.

A 50-cent charge will be made for the cost of the inoculation, however. Anyone unable to pay the fee will be given the shots without charge.

Crowds Watch Flames

Kimberly Fire Destroys Barn, 125 Tons of Hay

KIMBERLY — Fire completely destroyed a barn containing about 125 tons of hay on a farm owned by Wilfred VanHandel, route 4, Appleton, early Sunday night. The barn was located in the Town of Buchanan just opposite Kimberly High School. Firemen from three volunteer departments fought the blaze.

Firemen used three 2½ inch hose lines and two pumpers in controling the blaze. Policemen from Little Chute were called to assist Kimberly police as hundreds of curious flocked to the scene, attracted by the flames which shot high into the air.

VanHandel operates a farm in Darboy but the barn which burned is located just south of the Kimberly village limits on a second farm.

Cause of the blaze has not been determined and a damage estimate has not been set. VanHandel said the loss may be partially covered by insurance.

Buchanan volunteer firemen were called about 6:15 p.m. and the blaze was under control about two hours later. Volunteers from the Town of Holland assisted for about an hour and Kimberly volunteer firemen, credited with saving a storage shed near the barn, remained at the scene until about midnight.

Matt VanHandel, Buchanan fire chief, said about six Buchanan firemen remained at the scene overnight to control the fire if the hay began burning again. There was no water problem because village fire hydrants were within a few hundred feet of the barn.

Board Wants Details On Readfield School

New London District to Look Into Building Cost, Money Available, Right to Use Earmarked Funds

NEW LONDON — Further details on a six to eight-room addition to the Readfield Elementary School were requested Monday by the board of education.

Supt H. James Ramsdell is to get a construction cost estimate and to determine the amount of money the district has in a construction fund. He also will determine what legal technicalities govern the board's use of the earmarked building funds.

The superintendent will ask the State Department of Public Instruction for a ruling on whether the board has the authority to use the earmarked funds for a major addition to a building without a referendum.

Lofte and Fredericks Engineers, Appleton, who installed the heating and ventilation system in the senior high school, made a survey of the Readfield School's heating system and reported that it was adequate to service four additional rooms.

Could Serve

H. James Gabriel, representing Edgar A. Steubenrauch and Associates, Sheboygan, architectural firm for the senior high school, said the engineering firm's estimate was based on only 70 per cent efficiency. Gabriel estimated the heating system could service six or eight additional classrooms, Ramsdell reported.

No engineering or architectural firm has been contracted to prepare plans for the addition.

Ramsdell said closing of the Dale School and projected enrollment increases in the Readfield area indicated a need for six to eight additional classrooms. Discussions with Gabriel and the general contractor for the senior high school placed construction costs at $14 to $14.25 per square foot, he said.

The board also asked for further cost figures on construction of a bus garage. The district presently leases garage space in the New London Street Department building.

Ramsdell said the district could save $900 to $1,000 by buying its own gasoline (part of the rental fee is the purchasing of gasoline from the city for storage and handling charges), and $2,400 rental which the district pays the city. "We would have to figure the cost of heating, water and electricity for a building owned by the district by deducting them from the present rent," he said.

Give Estimates

Estimates of $3.75 to $4.25 per square foot have been given for the garage construction, Ramsdell reported.

The board asked Ramsdell to get data on the size of the building needed for a garage, the estimated cost, design, and other information for the next meeting.

Volz Chevrolet's bid of $3,439 for a 67-passenger bus chassis, and the bid of Blue Bird Bodies for $3,940 were accepted. A combined bid by Kawell Motors would have been 31 cents higher.

No trade-in was involved because a recent accident demolished a bus because of impending legislation which may authorize transporting parochial school children on public school buses.

Ramsdell said the accident resulted in a bus being put out of use and the legislation, if adopted, would mean that additional buses would be needed to transport parochial students.

Clare Babcock said that used buses would be at a premium price and in great demand throughout the state should transporting parochial students become law.

A special meeting was scheduled for 8 p.m. Monday to discuss co-curricular activity salaries with the New London Education Association welfare committee and to study curriculum revisions for the 1967-68 school term.

Liquor Bottles Traced to Club

Taken in Break-in At Riverside Club Near Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — Several partially filled liquor bottles found on County D, north of Clintonville, were traced to the Riverside Golf Club Sunday.

Ben Pipkorn, Waupaca County patrolman, checked the club after the liquor was turned in to the police department and found that someone had gained entry by breaking a pane of glass in the door to the men's locker room, and another pane in the door leading to the dining room.

A cabinet was broken into, and several partially filled bottles of liquor were taken.

In addition to the liquor, several boxes of cigars were stolen. The total loss amounted to about $20.

The Waupaca County Sheriff's Department is continuing investigation into the break-in which is believed to have occurred Saturday night.

Chilton Board Sets School Calendar

Classes Open Sept. 5, Close June 4; In-Service Training Set

CHILTON — The 1967-68 school year will begin Sept. 5, according to the calendar adopted Monday by the school board. The past several years school has begun the last week in August.

Next fall teachers will report for in-service training Aug. 30 through Sept. 1.

Tentative Date

Jan. 22 has tentatively been set as an in-service training day.

Of the 190-day schedule, students will be in attendance 180 days which is more than the state minimum.

Supt. A. W. Gordon reported that the Stockbridge school board had invited the Chilton board to meet with them regarding the proposed school district merger at 8 p.m. Thursday at Stockbridge.

Cooperative Educational Service Association (CESA) 10 has called a public hearing on the three petitions which it reactivated by resolution for March 7 in Chilton.

Proposed Series

George Herrmann, elementary principal, reported on a meeting he attended in Green Bay regarding an experimental educational television series proposed by WLUK-TV channel 11.

According to the proposal, the experiment would run from March 20 until May 12 and would cost participating schools 60 cents for each student participating.

Herrmann said most of the administrators present felt this was too sudden and that it might be difficult to raise the necessary money on such short notice. Most said they were interested, however, if the program was scheduled for a later date.

In the fall WLUK will begin two 15 minute evening educational programs regardless of whether the daytime series is scheduled.

Speaks to Appleton Chamber

Byrnes Says Congress Will Modify Federal Programs

Widespread Republican victories in 1966 Congressional elections will make the next two years' meetings of the lower house "considerably more moderate than the Congress of the last two years," 8th Dist. Rep. John W Byrnes, R-Green Bay, said this morning.

Speaking to members of the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce, Byrnes said, "I don't envision any new Great Society programs."

"This will be a Congress that will look more toward readjustments," he added "Fundamentally, you're not going to see any legislation that you could call revolutionary."

During his talk, Byrnes discussed most areas repeatedly debated since President Lyndon B Johnson's State of the Union address last month and the GOP policy statements made by party chiefs 10 days later.

Modify Programs

Byrnes stressed "pulling out of" or modifying several federal aid programs and giving back to state and local governments sources of revenue which, he said, presently are controlled by the federal government.

"We've got to get things back on a local level," he said "I don't have such sympathy with state governments because they have the same sources of revenue as the federal government."

Byrnes said he expects another debate to take place over unemployment compensation during the new session. Last year he said, "we were successful in beating down the administration's proposal to federalize compensation" The Senate favored LBJ's proposal last year.

"If the business community had exerted as much pressure on the Senate as they did on the House, it might have been different," he said, adding that many U.S. Senators did not realize the implications of the measure

Need Amendments

He did feel, however, that some amendments to the compensation act are necessary and the time is right for such changes since unemployment figures are low and "emotionalism" is at a low ebb

Federal spending and aid programs have, Byrnes said, taken away local responsibility and made the nation's capitol "a national city hall"

"If you have a local problem, you go to Washington," he said. He urged revision of the federal aid program to elementary and secondary education but said, "There is nothing harder than to make any retreats in a federal program"

"After only one year of the education aid, your schools are geared to it," he said

Priority System

With great numbers of applications filed by local municipalities for federal aid in all areas, the government has set up a priority system in granting funds That is the worst mess of all," the Congressman said, "the jockeying to determine who gets what."

With so many communities seeking aid, he added, the programs have become "purely a judgement of man and not law"

The City of Appleton recently has pushed for quick approval of a grant for a water pipeline to Lake Winnebago to relieve the city's critical water shortage Byrnes said the Appleton problem is not unique

"People think that their Congressman ought to get this or that for them and it's not a very healthy environment for him to get into because he can't get it for them," Byrnes said

Accent Urgency

"I suggested to the mayor (George L Buckley) in October that if things do slow down, we should go down to Chicago and put an emphasis on the urgency of getting early action" City officials have arranged for a meeting with Housing and Urban Development representatives to talk over the pipeline project.

Byrnes was directly critical of the Johnson administration and some of its proposals. He said the proposed budget is unrealistic and that "Congress is going to have to do some cutting to even get down to the figure the President has proposed"

Of Social Security benefit increases proposed by Republicans and Democrats alike, Byrnes said any benefit increase over 8 per cent, the existing figure, would cause an added Social Security charge.

He would oppose an increase beyond 8 per cent, Byrnes said, because "We-re moving toward supplementing Social Security out of the general fund rather than out of taxes earmarked for that purpose"

Bad Dream

President Johnson indicated last month he would seek a merger of the Departments of Commerce and Labor. But Byrnes said this morning, "You can forget about that That's the most asinine thing I ever heard of and I think he (LBJ) just had a bad dream"

Byrnes said federal aid should remain available to those areas where an inability to raise money exists Other more prosperous states, including Wisconsin, Byrnes said, should be given back the sources for revenue presently taken over by Washington. "We should provide a means for a state to have a bigger chunk of federal tax shares," he said

He predicted a move to readjust federal aid programs will be made in the next two to five years "We've got to get this thing back on its feet," Byrnes said of federal fiscal matters. "It's just a hodge-podge now."

Oshkosh Incident Suspect

Escapee Returns to Stevens Point Jail

OSHKOSH — One of two jail escapees suspected of forcing a Portage cab driver to drive to Oshkosh at gun point Saturday gave himself up Monday morning at Portage County jail in Stevens Point

Portage County Sheriff Nick Check said Monday, however, that he does not consider the escapees as strong suspects Police in Oshkosh have no other suspects

Leroy E LePak, 27 walked into the jail Monday morning LePak walked away from his place of employment where he was working under the Huber Law, Dec. 24. He had served only three days on a 180-day sentence for driving after license was revoked

LePak and the other escapee, Clarence L. Tamersky, who is still at large, have been suspected of getting into the taxi cab driven by Mike J Joyce, Portage, in Portage and forcing him at gun point to drive to Oshkosh

Changed Minds

Joyce called Oshkosh police about 6 20 p m Saturday from a service station near the downtown area He said the two men both dressed in grey trousers and jackets, got into his cab in Portage about 4 45 p m and told him they wanted to go to Baraboo After a short time they changed their minds, told him to turn around and take State 44 to Oshkosh, Joyce said

Joyce said there was no conversation as they drove here He said one man sat beside him in the front seat while the other sat in back and held a long-barreled pistol at his neck.

As he approached Oshkosh near the 44 Outdoor Theater just west of the city limits, he was told to pull over He said the man in the front seat hit him in the right jaw as he brought the cab to a stop Then Joyce blacked out," he said

Joyce told police he went to a nearby tavern to call police when he regained consciousness but dialed the wrong number and decided to go to a friend's house in Oshkosh first

Called Police

He said he picked up the friend, then went to see a relative who was not home Then he called police from the service station, he said

Joyce told police that the pair had taken between $1 and $1 65 from him Oshkosh Police said Joyce had $10 in his wallet which was not taken

Sheriff Check says he does not know how two escapees could have gotten together He said they did not know each other They were kept in opposite parts of the jail and worked in different places

While LePak walked off in late December Tamersky didn't leave the jail until Jan 23, the sheriff said He said the latest information he has received places Tamersky in Canada

Out of Town

The sheriff said this morning that he has not talked to LePak yet, but plans to do so He said LePak has indicated that he was "out of town" while he was out of jail.

The sheriff said LePak will serve out the rest of his 180-day term He said LePak faced two new charges in court this morning, non-support and escape He pleaded innocent to both charges

Oshkosh police said this morning they are waiting for Check to question LePak They said they have no other suspects Police had about nine calls Saturday and Sunday from residents who thought they had spotted the pair but investigation proved otherwise

The one thing no other life insurance company can offer your family...

People, it is sometimes said, are much alike We can't agree when it comes to life insurance agents. Ours are very different Mass Mutual agents are an elite corps of skilled professionals who are, we believe, the finest in the industry

Consider, for example, these three standards in comparison with industry averages three times as many Mass Mutual agents have earned the Chartered Life Underwriter designation four times as many have won the National Quality Award . . . six times as many are members of the Million Dollar Round Table.

Mass Mutual provides its agents with the very best in policies, training and services—in return we ask a lot of our agents We ask for more work, more study, more dedication than most people would believe possible.

The result is life insurance that is tailor-made for your family, insurance of the sort an agent would write if he were doing it for himself When an agent from Mass Mutual calls on you, you know you have at your command the very best the life insurance industry can offer.

After all, isn't that what your family deserves?

Thilmany Sets Injury Free Record Year

First Time in History Without Serious Mishap

KAUKAUNA — No permanent compensation or impairment injury resulted at Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co during 1966, the first known time in 24 years, according to Clifford H. Kemp, safety director.

Records were not kept prior to that time. Seven departments recorded perfect records.

These include paper mill, plastics-wax, maintenance, repair, utilities, materials handling No. 1, stores-salvage and janitors.

The paper mill had three disabling injuries totaling 29 days compared to 10 with 309 days the previous year. The bag mill had three for 86 days lost compared to one for 41 days in 1965, and the asphalt department had two with 54 days compared to one with 50 days in 1965.

Decorating and finishing department had one for 13 lost days compared to four with 323 days in 1965. Material handling No. 2 had two for 32 days compared to two for 83 days the previous year. The garage had one for 75 days and the office one accident for seven days in 1966 for a total of 13 accidents throughout the mill with a total of 296 days lost time.

Minor Accidents

Other accidents reported in 1965 showed one in the pulp mill for 26 days, three in maintenance-repair for a total of 257 days, one in utilities for 21 days, one in material handling No. 1 for 83 days for a total of 24 accidents with 3,232 days lost.

Kemp credited much of the success of the record to committeemen of the safety program. The committees are composed of selected hourly employes and their immediate supervisors as appointed by the various superintendents.

The committeemen are responsible for aggresively pursuing the safety program within their areas, noted Kemp. They are required to know all general safety rules and those rules which specifically apply to their departments. Local committees also attend general safety meetings and departmental safety meetings as called.

Ohio Architect, Light Expert to Address Engineering Society

An Ohio architect and lighting expert will address the Northeastern Wisconsin Chapter of the Illuminating Engineering Society at 7.30 p.m. today at the Holiday Inn, Green Bay.

The speaker, W. D. Riddle, is resident architect at General Electric's Lamp Department Lighting Institute in Cleveland, Ohio. His talk on "Light Is Achitecture" will be preceded by a 5:30 p.m. social hour and 6:30 p.m. dinner.

Riddle is an instructor and graduate of the School of Architecture, Ohio State University, Columbus. He also studied at Columbia University, New York City.

"I'm a stock broker. Here's one thing I find that smart investors have in common."

"They start out with a specific goal in mind, usually one of these three: growth, income or safety."

Isn't it just a matter of making money?

"That's the idea, of course—to improve yourself financially. But the smart people in the market try to invest to help meet certain objectives they've set for themselves and their families, after first providing for living expenses and the usual emergencies."

But everybody must want growth?

"Of course. The country is growing and they want to grow with it. When we talk about growth as a goal, we mean growth in the value of the stock over a period of time. The investor is willing to leave his money in a stock, to ride over the normal ups and downs of the market, with the idea that his money will grow to help him in later years."

How can an investor pick a growth stock?

"If you take the stocks on the New York Stock Exchange as a whole, the record shows that their value has grown with the country over a period of years. Listed stocks are generally the biggest companies, with proven records. But there's no guarantee, of course, that any one stock will grow in any given period. The thing to do is ask your broker for facts and advice, then use your good common sense in estimating a company's prospects."

What if I needed more income to help me over some hurdles now?

"Then your primary goal would be to get a good dividend return, though you would still hope that the value of your stock would grow. Preferred stocks or bonds might be other ways to fill your need for a second income."

Where does safety fit in as a goal?

"There's some risk in any investment, whether securities or anything else. Your circumstances and your temperament may suggest a conservative approach. Then you'd look into the relative safety of principal with good yield that high-grade preferred stocks or bonds might offer."

If a goal is all that important, would you say that's the first thing an investor and broker should talk about?

"The very first. And don't feel the slightest bit shy about asking his opinion, if you're not completely sure what your goal should be. He's there to help, and if you and he have a good idea of what you want your investment to do—well, how could you make a better start?"

Harrison Board Vacates Road in High Cliff Park

Move Eliminates Multiple Entrance Problem at Facility

SHERWOOD — A short stretch of town road in the upper section of High Cliff State Park, between the park manager's home and two new parking lots will be vacated, the Harrison town board decided Friday.

Action was taken following a request by Clyde Smith, district superintendent of state parks, Campbellsport. Smith said he had discussed the matter with the board last fall and would like to work on the discontinued portion when Badger Highways Co., Inc., Menasha, has machinery in the park. The area will be barricaded.

Smith said abandonment of the 300 to 400 feet of road was necessary to eliminate multiple entrances to the park. Appearing with Smith was John Franzen, High Cliff Park manager.

Vacating other stretches of road also was discussed, with no action taken.

Town Road Discussed

Also appearing were Francis Schnueider and William Engler Jr, for High Cliff Inc. Engler discussed a portion of town road in the vicinity of the boat landing on the lower level which will join a proposed new road in connection with their new development.

Town Chairman George Schwalbach said the board felt the road should be moved away from the lake, as it was showing signs of leaning, because of the lake embankment. He said the present road is the third constructed by the town in the area. The first is now in Lake Winnebago.

The group agreed to have the road surveyed by the State Highway Commission and the project set up in the approved manner.

A liquor license application was filed with the town clerk by the High Cliff Inc., organization.

Payment of $6,434 was made for a 1967 2½-ton gravel truck, the purchase of which was approved at the annual meeting. It will be equipped with a plow, costing $2,400.

Roadbinder for 1966 cost the town $4,900 and $117 was paid to the Town of Menasha for six months electricity for street lights at Waverly. The cost is shared by the two towns.

A complaint of dogs running loose in the Waverly area was brought to the attention of the town board. Town ordinance ruled that dogs must be tied at all times, excepting working farm dogs.

The next meeting was scheduled for March 9, a day earlier than usual.

Sukarno-Suharto Showdown Seen

Indonesians Have Been Urging Ex-Strongman to Quit Voluntarily

By T. JEFF WILLIAMS

JAKARTA (AP) — One of army strongman Gen. Suharto's top deputies indicated today that a showdown in the struggle to force President Sukarno to retire may be imminent.

Maj. Gen. Alamsjah said an answer to new military proposals to end the power struggle may be forthcoming tonight.

"There will be no more missions, no more talks," he declared. "The decision has been taken. We are just waiting for the answer."

Military leaders and Cabinet ministers have repeatedly urged Sukarno in recent weeks to step down before he is dragged down. The president has shown no sign of complying and gave every indication at a palace reception today that he would remain in Jakarta to continue his fight to hold the presidency.

Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution, the chairman of Congress, in a broadcast statement Monday night accused the president of being a Communist sympathizer and knowing in advance of the attempted Red coup Oct. 1, 1965.

Nasution said the working session would consider Sukarno's role in the attempted coup, his responsibility for the economic decline of the country and his future He said Suharto has been named to lead an investigation of Sukarno in connection with the coup.

Nasution's statement Monday night, read over Radio Jakarta, was in answer to a challenge from Sukarno to the general to explain his own actions at the time of the attempted coup. Nasution was then defense and security minister.

Chairman Killed

The general charged that shortly before the coup, Communist party Chairman D N. Aidit attempted to swing army Brig Gen R H. Sugandhi over to the Communist side by telling him of the plans.

"All this is known by Sukarno." Nasution quoted Aidit as saying. Aidit was killed during the bloody suppression of Communists after the coup.

Sugandhi then informed Sukarno of the plot, Nasution continued, and he said Sukarno replied: "Don't follow this Communist phobia. Don't you know the generals are hopeless?"

Nasution also charged that Sukarno chose to go to the Communist headquarters on the day of the revolt rather than to the army.

Six top army generals were slain by Communist assassination squads on the morning of the coup attempt. Nasution escaped by climbing over the wall behind his house.

Strong Attack

Nasution's statement was one of the strongest attacks against the president by a top government official since the campaign opened to force him out of power.

The accusations are expected to be followed up when Congress meets early next month to conduct a full investigation of Sukarno's connection with the coup attempt. Sukarno has persistently refused to give an account or an explanation of his actions.

Indonesia's Parliament, which ranks below the Congress, has adopted a resolution asking Congress to dismiss Sukarno from the presidency. Informed sources said Monday Sukarno may leave the country before Congress meets, but the president told newsmen today he would remain in Jakarta despite the moves to force him out of office.

The informants had said Sukarno planned to go to Japan, where his Japanese third wife, Ratna Sari Dewi, is expecting their first child later this month.

President Johnson and Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, stand at attention Monday during welcoming ceremonies at the White House. The purpose of Selassie's visit is not known, but foreign relations specialists think he wants to discuss with Johnson the increased emphasis the United States is putting on multinational and regional aid programs. Johnson Will Propose New Housing Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson will propose new legislation to combat discrimination in housing, when he sends a special civil rights message to Congress Wednesday, the White House says.

President secretary George Christian, who announced the forthcoming message Monday, said Johnson and three Cabinet members had met earlier in the day with a group of civil rights leaders to discuss civil rights goals.

"The president reaffirmed his commitment to seek legislative remedies against racial discrimination in housing, employment and the administration of justice," Christian said.

A Johnson-backed bill opposing housing discrimination was passed by the House last year but died in a Senate filibuster.

Various Angles

The press secretary said "a couple of dozen" persons took part in the discussions at the President's invitation, but would not go beyond that in identifying them

Among the topics, he said, were economic problems, education, health, employment, legislative problems and housing.

There will also be emphasis in the message on "a great improvement in equal opportunity for better education for all Americans," he said.

Besides the President, administration spokesmen at the meeting were John Gardner, secretary of health, education and welfare, Secretary Robert Weaver of the Department of Housing and Urban Renewal and acting Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark.

Reverses Stand

Estranged Mrs. Powell Will Give Testimony

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adam Clayton Powell's wife has agreed to testify Thursday before the select House committee investigating Powell's qualifications to be seated, a committee spokesman says.

If she appears, it would be a reversal of Y. Marjorie Flores Powell's refusal to appear before another committee which probed her husband's activities late last year and ordered her fired from a $20,500 job on Powell's committee.

The current committee had hoped to conclude public hearings today but scheduled another session Thursday to accommodate Powell's estranged wife.

William A. Georghegan, the committee's counsel, said Monday night he had been promised by Mrs. Powell's attorney that she would fly to Washington from her home in San Juan, P.R., Wednesday and testify Thursday.

Unlikely to Appear

The committee had little hope that Powell or two women who were members of his staff when he was a House committee chairman would appear at today's session

Powell, who faces the possible loss of his House seat, refused last week to answer questions put to him by the committee. The queries were about his New York court troubles and alleged misuse of government travel funds.

Monday the committee made public a letter to the Harlem Democrat in which it stated its belief that it has the power to recommend seating, expelling or otherwise punishing him.

Powell also was told he would be permitted to make a statement to the committee if he came, regardless of whether he submitted to questioning. Powell criticized the committee last week for refusing to let him make a statement when he refused to answer its questions.

Only Answers

He contended the committee is entitled to question only whether he meets age, citizenship and inhabitancy requirements

"We're giving him every conceivable opportunity to come in," Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., said Monday. "If Mr. Powell comes, we'll be as lenient as possible."

While Powell's appearance was left a voluntary matter, the three women all were subpoenaed to appear. The committee reported it was unsuccessful in trying to serve a subpoena on Emma Swann, a former receptionist in his office.

A subpoena was served on Corrine Huff, 25, one-time beauty contest winner who is Powell's secretary and traveling companion. She was served on the Bahaman isle of Bimini, Powell's fishing retreat, but there was no indication she plans to come.

Valentines Flood Radio Station

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — A radio station's promotion stunt put broadcasters waist-deep in valentines today.

Station WYND recently offered to sponsor a St. Valentine's Day dance for the area school turning in the most valentines.

Operations manager Guy Crumpley said the total received was close to nine million, based on honor-system counts by students lugging bales of the billets-doux to the station.

"We'd have to rent a warehouse if the contest didn't end tonight," Crumpley said in his paper-choked studio.

The valentines ranged from penny-sized bits of paper to some that were run off in prodigal quantities on duplicating machines.

Question Froehlich Power to Name Himself To Operations Board

MADISON (AP)—Atty. Gen Bronson C. La Follette questioned Monday whether Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich R-Appleton, could appoint himself to the Board of Government Operations

La Follette said in a legal opinion that Froehlich, since he is the person empowered to make the appointment, should not be ratified by the entire Assembly

The board handles necessary emergency appropriations not included in the regular state budget

La Follette also said two Democratic assemblymen would continue to serve on the seven-member board until May even though Republicans had recaptured control of the lower house.

Many Defeated Democrats Back on Government Rolls

By JIM ADAMS

WASHINGTON (AP) — A good many Democratic congressmen beaten in the Republican election sweep last November are back on the federal payroll.

Half have landed federal positions, are looking for them, or have been named to high positions in their states.

Former Rep. David S. King of Utah was appointed by President Johnson as U.S. ambassador to the Malagasy Republic off the southeast coast of Africa.

Half a dozen others have become high-level administrators in scattered federal agencies. More are consultants and lesser officials in a variety of federal programs.

Fifty-two Democratic congressmen were defeated in last year's primaries and general elections. So far 17 have federal appointments and jobs, at least 5 are looking and 4 are in line for positions in states and the Democratic party.

Private Practice

The other 26 defeated Democrats returned to law practices and other private positions back home, retired or are still in Washington but plan to return home soon.

Twenty-seven of the Democrats who rode into Congress on the Johnson tide in 1964 went right back out on the Republican resurgence last fall. But they generally have fared well.

Nine have federal jobs, four more are looking and three have state positions or are leading contenders for them.

Patronage? A Democratic congressional staff member says it's no such thing.

"We help them make contact when we can," he said, "but they have to rely on their own merit when they go down for the job.

Experience Helps

"We're certainly not in a position to say 'yes,' 'no' or 'maybe' on whether they're hired "

But he added that congressional experience with federal programs often gives ex-officeholders an advantage over other applicants for the same jobs.

It would seem a congressman's voting record on proposals from a hiring agency also might help. But Democratic leaders concede no such influence.

There's little question the November defeats put some experienced men on the job market.

Army Claims Court-Martial Authority Over U. S. Civilians

WASHINGTON (AP) — Claiming precedents back to the Revolutionary War, the Army has asserted its authority to court-martial American civilians "serving with or accompanying" U.S. troops in Vietnam.

The Army said Monday its position was "nothing new." It pointed to the Uniform Code of Military Justice, which says that "in time of war persons serving with or accompanying an armed force in the field" — such as newsmen — are subject to court-martial.

This has been true since 1775, the Department of Defense said.

One civilian has already been tried by a military court in Vietnam, the Pentagon said Monday. A spokesman declined to identify the defendant except to say that he was a civilian seaman.

The charge against the man was not revealed, although the spokesman said the proceeding last November was a summary court-martial, which is reserved for comparatively minor offenses.

The Army's position that the "time of war" rules are applicable now in Vietnam has not been tested in U.S. courts There has been no formal declaration of war by the United States against any other nation in connection with the conflict in Vietnam, but the Army contends that a state of war exists.

Actually, a Pentagon spokesman said, the procedure is to consider each case involving civilians on its own merits. The circumstances determine whether the accused is to be tried by military court, by the courts of South Vietnam, or whether the matter is "disposed of administratively," he said.

Five Georgia Negroes Face Murder Count

GRIFFIN, Ga. (AP)—Five Negro brothers faced murder charges today in the death of a white man shot on a country road near here.

Authorities said the five brothers and four white men were involved in a gun battle before dawn Saturday in which another white man was wounded.

The brothers were held without bond. Sheriff Dwayne Gilbert said the incident apparently was prompted by a truck stop argument. No racial issues seemed involved, he said.

Gilbert, who released a report of the shooting Monday, said John Allen Grant, 35, a truck driver from Milner, Ga., a few miles south of Griffin, was killed. Henry Floyd Parker of Atlanta was wounded in the right hand when his own gun went off, Gilbert said

Held on murder warrants were brothers Tommy Lee, 22, Walter J., 29, Willie L., 18, William H., 23, and Fred Evans, 28. All are from the Griffin area, officers said.

Gilbert said the trouble began at a truck stop a mile from the shooting scene where an argument developed after the Evans brothers obtained service.

No charges were filed against the white men Gilbert said his investigation would continue

Ice Sheets Endanger Winter Wheat, Alfalfa

MADISON (AP)— February's debut in Wisconsin, marked by snow and freezing rain in many areas, has caused concern about effects of ice sheets on alfalfa and winter wheat, the Crop Reporting Service noted today.

Rain and high temperatures Jan. 24 melted most of the snow in southern areas, the service said, while in the north snow was reduced and thick layers of ice were left.

National C of C Worried About Middle Class

BY JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — New and shifting pressures on the business community, including Americans' rising educational level and the growing number of working women, has provoked the U.S. Chamber of Commerce into a blitz information program.

Beginning today in Greenville, S.C., and Detroit, chamber speakers will visit 35 cities in 32 states in the next six weeks to arouse and educate businessmen to some of these trends and the possible danger in them.

The program, according to the national chamber, is based partly in the fear that today's affluent, well-educated and increasingly young population may be willing to sacrifice some freedom for security.

A result of this—a result the chamber feels is either imminent or already with us—is that the federal government will assume a greater role in business and the economy. This role, by its nature, would be restrictive.

Among the trends changing our society and exerting forces on business, the chamber lists these:

Younger Workers

"Population—It is changing. Young people will make up the greatest part of a big population growth, especially in the 1970s and 1980s. More workers will be under 25. And the ratio of working women will rise sharply, from about one in four now to around one in two.

If businessmen wish to be heard effectively, they must be aware of and in touch with these new groups.

Education—"In the depression 30s only 3 in 10 were high school graduates. Today the ratio is 7 to 10. With better education, Americans are developing rising expectations. They have stronger views about standards of performance for business."

New Majority

These and other forces, the chamber says, create this impact:

"The educated middle class is becoming the new majority. Because the individual in this group enjoys job security and a comfortable income, he thinks of his economic status as the norm.

"This colors his views on social legislation so that he is quite willing to accept government programs for minimum incomes, job security, and more Social Security without considering the effect on the market system."

"Is there a danger," the chamber asks, "that, despite his greater affluence today's better educated American may sacrifice some of his freedom in a search for security?"

Tomorrow's Society

A perusal of the chamber's literature indicates its education attempt is broadly conceived, aimed at convincing people that today's society is probably better than tomorrow's might be if we don't watch out.

Few specific alternatives to the threats are offered. The chamber places its reliance on the hope that people educated in free enterprise will defend it.

Education, however, is the very thing the chamber feels has swelled pressures.

"But here comes another development—a push for federal laws that are designed to protect the consumer. This development, we need to understand, grows in part out of two of the underlying trends:

"—The tremendous technological gains of the past 25 years or so; and

"—The greater economic role of women.

"And the higher level of education is very much in the picture, too."

Government Protection

These and other factors, the national chamber feels, mean the consumer is likely to be sympathetic toward proposals calling for government standards and protection. And such intervention, if not delicately approached, could mean danger.

The chamber is also rating senators and representatives on whether they have voted in agreement or against the business community viewpoint, as measured by their own members.

"This voting tabulation should be regarded as a report, not as an evaluation," the chamber's literature notes. Since a judgment is made, however, it is an evaluation. It is, in fact, elsewhere referred to as a rating sheet.

The chamber says it hopes to arouse and inform businessmen about the key issues. "Concern about the state of affairs is meaningless without enlightened action," it concludes.

Wisconsin Income Tax — 2

Business Use Losses On Car Now Deductible

BY NORMAN E. SCHLEY
For The Associated Press

A loss on the use of your automobile for business purposes may now be claimed when you use the short cut "optional" method of deducting 10 cents per mile.

Unless you file the state of Wisconsin short form tax return, Form 1 A, it is necessary this year to attach a copy of the federal form to the state blank. Your state of Wisconsin tax will, therefore, be based on information included on your federal blank. Because your federal return should be filled out first, let's take a look at some significant changes that took place in the federal law since you prepared your last return a year ago.

Those who operate a motor vehicle for business purposes can save much time by deducting 10 cents per mile for the use of an automobile. By using the "optional" method, it's unnecessary to total the gasoline, oil, tires and repair bills you paid last year. Then there is the trouble of looking up and recording the automobile insurance, license fees and parking charges, you paid. Of course, if you insist, you can complete Schedule A and determine your deduction for auto expense by the "regular" method. The optional method is simple and involves little bookkeeping. You are entitled to 10 cents per mile for the first 15,00 miles driven for business purposes and 7 cents per mile for any miles in excess of 15,000. Increase this amount by any parking fees and the amount deductible has been determined.

Under the new law, if the amount you were reimbursed for automobile expenses is less than the amount computed under the "optional method" you may deduct the difference. For example: you are an outside salesman and you receive $100 per month for car allowance or $1,200. Let's suppose you traveled 16,000 business miles. In that case, you would take the first 15,000 miles at 10 cents or $1,500 and the additional 1,000 miles at 7 cents amounting to $70.00. Your total deduction for automobile use would amount to $1,570. By deducting the amount reimbursed, $1,200, from the total of $1,570, you can now claim a loss on business use of the vehicle of $370. In previous years, you were not allowed to claim a loss of this nature in these circumstances. Similarly, if you work for a company that allows 8 cents per mile for the business use of your car, you may deduct the difference of 2 cents per mile on the first 15,000 miles driven.

Those who use automobiles for business should remember that one important record should be maintained that will clearly disclose the business miles traveled and the purpose of the travel. Perhaps a pocket notebook or small diary would do the trick. Enter the miles shown on your speedometer in the morning when you start. Enter the mileage at the end of the business day and compute the miles driven for that day. Also indicate, of course, the business purpose for that day's driving. At the end of the year, an adding machine tape of the mileage recorded day by day will provide the mileage you are entitled to deduct. File the book away with copies of your income tax papers and you need not worry about the problems again. If an auditor challenges your figures, you'll have all that's necessary in that little book.

An "estimate" of the miles driven for business purposes is no longer acceptable. You must keep records to be sure that your deduction will be allowed. Filling station and garage operators mileage records and other similar evidence are also valuable.

Incidentally, the optional method of determining the deduction for mileage may also be used this year by those who operate pick-up or panel trucks. The method is not limited to pleasure type vehicles.

Mr. Kellett's Meditations

For more than a year Mr. William Kellett of Menasha has devoted most of his energies to the leadership of a statutory commission on the reorganization of the state government. It drew its authority from a deliberate act of the 1965 legislature which declared a legislative intent to reduce the absurd proliferation of state service agencies and to manage them more effectively through a more unified and cohesive structure.

Countless hours of conferences and hearings and studies were invested in the effort. But when the finished product was finally introduced into the new legislature and scheduled for public committee consideration the other day, the state capitol rang angrily with echoes of the denunciation by lobbies associated with special interest services and institutions.

Very few of these opposition witnesses pretended any interest, or even any knowledge, about the effect and the purpose of the administrative revision plan on the state government in general. They concentrated upon their own special areas of interest. Indeed, many of them said, in effect, that the idea of reorganization was probably a good one and they had no objection — except that their own special areas of interest be left undisturbed and intact.

Mr. Kellett, whose name has been inextricably associated with this controversy as a result of his effective leadership of the planning group, is a man of mellow attitude and generous experience with the vagaries of human nature. Yet we would suggest that there is represented here one of the unfortunate aspects of contemporary politics and government, the nearly universal assumption that brute pressure is a part of the democratic way and that it must prevail.

Perhaps the strangest, and most regrettable, of the details of this noisy fight is the mobilization of the "red shirt" forces, as some fertile press agent has succeeded in naming them, against the idea of any change in the administration of the state natural resources programs. To any student of government who stands a pace or two removed from these reflex harangues, there can be nothing more plausible or logical than the idea of pulling together all conservation programs. What is more truly "conservation" than the new water protection law? Is there any doubt among the "red shirt" angry men that water programs relate to their fish and game and outdoors sporting interests more vitally than any other governmental policy? Yet there has emerged a kind of cultist belief that the "six man commission" is the best of all possible schemes, that to suggest its modification is akin to treason, and that somehow the trout won't respond to the fly or the deer won't reproduce their fawns and the ducks will bypass Wisconsin and the forests will languish if this board is disturbed in the slightest.

We hope the legislature's capacity for reflection is adequate to recognize some of the gaping inconsistencies in the position of the "red shirt" leader, Mr. Charles F. Smith of Wausau, a member of the present commission. Mr. Smith was not chosen by the people of Wisconsin in an election. He has served on the commission because he was a friend of governors who put him there. Mr. Smith now complains about the demands of his office. A member of the commission couldn't possibly handle the additional responsibilities that would be involved in a combination of that agency with the water department, he insists. Yet the commission meets only once a month. The last time it met, as we made it our business to observe, it was for about two hours.

Mr. Smith's conviction also leaves some doubt when his own previous statements are considered. Only last fall, when he was already condemning the Kellett report that he now complains was composed recently in secret, he allowed that the idea of a single natural resources department was defensible enough — if his own commission was put in charge of the unified program. Here as in so many situations, the identity of the gored ox explains a good deal.

Valentine's Day

Valentine's Day is many, many red hearts.

It is when boys and girls spend weeks prettying up cards to give to their mothers and fathers.

It is when mothers and fathers receive the cards and return a hug and a kiss.

It is when candy and cards and flower businesses flourish.

And it is more.

Valentine's Day is helping someone do something, without expecting him to do something for you.

It is letting him have the right-of-way, knowing that he probably wouldn't have given it to you.

It is waving at the shivering policeman on the cold street corner, although you don't know him and he doesn't know you.

It is a little more giving a helping hand, a little less kicking a man when he's down.

It is doing unto others as you would have them do unto you.

And it is still more.

Valentine's Day is being afraid to look at the daily newspaper for fear you'll find that someone else died on the state highways, even though you didn't know him.

It is worrying about soldiers from all nations being killed in the war, although you don't know anyone over there and you know it's probably not going to escalate to a point where it'll affect you.

It is hoping that the Communists will not all of a sudden die, but that they'll have a change of heart.

And it is still more.

The Reuther-Meany Showdown

While their differing concepts on what national unionism should be was a matter of record, the resignation of Walter Reuther, head of the United Automobile Workers, from the AFL-CIO executive council headed by George Meany, president of the national organization, has taken place as an unexpected act.

The first expectation from Mr. Reuther's action was that the AFL-CIO was faced with the withdrawal of its largest industrial union members, the UAW. But Mr. Reuther has made it clear that he intends to retain his chairmanship of the AFL-CIO's industrial union department, which comprises about half of the national organization's membership.

It appears, thus, that Reuther, who is 59, is preparing for a showdown over national labor leadership with the 73-year-old Meany. Aside from this factor of age and an expected call for fresh new personal leadership, Reuther will have a lot of things going for him in the struggle to change the direction of national AFL-CIO leadership if, in fact, the UAW chief does not propose to win the national union presidency for himself without waiting for Meany's retirement.

The UAW is the largest union within the AFL-CIO. While it does not propose at this point to end its payment of membership dues of about $1 million a year to the national organization, this pragmatic factor will be a consideration in the bargaining over leadership policy or leadership offices. The UAW also has contributed funds for special, AFL-CIO national projects, including efforts to unionize in new areas like public employees and farm labor.

The basic disagreement in national union policy between the two powerful men perhaps is one which dates from the original philosophies of the two merged national unions. Meany, with roots in the American Federation of Labor, has had a narrower view of what the national labor organization should be doing in influencing national politics than does Reuther, whose roots are in the CIO and industrial unionism.

As critics of his administration will point out, organized labor despite its alliances with the Democratic administration has failed to win national goals in Washington, most notably the repeal of the Taft-Hartley amendment allowing states to have right to work laws. Reuther has never hesitated to speak out in the name of organized labor in the field of domestic social problems and has also offered advice in foreign policy, including in the national debate over what to do next in Vietnam.

The coming months could see a reshaping of national union policy, particularly in the field of labor's voice in Washington. The opponents are tough and skilled men, but the odds would appear to be on Reuther's side to win policy concessions if not a more direct personal voice in the AFL-CIO.

Louis Perrot Heads Farm Society

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Post for Feb. 14, 1867.

Louis Perrot (cheesemaker of note) was re-elected president of the Agricultural Society of Outagamie County, W. H. Lanphear was elected secretary, H. A. Foster was elected treasurer.

Byron Douglas, J. S. Buck and Mark Lyon were elected to the executive committee.

On motion, the secretary for the ensuing year was allowed $25 for his services.

On motion, the bill of James McGillan, of $12.50 for lumber furnished the society, was allowed and an order drawn for the amount.

On motion, L. B. Mills was allowed $1.50 premium on the best fleece of wool presented at the last county fair. A motion prevailed offering three premiums — $7, $5 and $3 — to the three persons who shall procure the largest number of members to the County Agricultural Society for the ensuing year. The offer does not apply to the present officers of the society.

On motion, a committee of five ladies was appointed to write and publish an address to the ladies of Outagamie County, urging upon them the claims of the society and the necessity of furnishing something for exhibition, and the absolute importance of a general attendance of the fair sex to render the county fair more attractive.

The following are the names of the woman's committee: Mrs. C. G. Adkins, Mrs. W. Johnson (William), Mrs. Alvin H. Foster, Mrs. John Stephens, Mrs. J. S. Buck.

25 YEARS AGO
Tuesday, Feb. 10, 1942.

Japanese troops were landing by the thousands on Singapore Island, having started during the night to reinforce advance guards which had crossed from the mainland the previous Sunday to establish fighting bases. The American consulate in the city of Singapore was closed and all American interests turned over to Swiss custody.

The Standard Machine Co. of New London under Jesse Thomas, inventor, machinist and builder, was one of the first industries of its type to answer the call of the federal government to turn its plant over to vocational defense training. Four nights a week for the past 30 weeks, the shop was used for such training with Thomas and his son, Ted Thomas, New London alderman, teaching various classes in the operation of the machinery and allied work.

Conservation of materials was being discussed at Kimberly-Clark conferences with 75 employes of both the Badger Globe and Lakeview mills serving on committees. Meeting at one session were workers Richard Talbot, Jerry Crane, William Kurtz, Walter Johnson, Hugh Stutton, Robert Rodgers, LaVern Christensen, Mel Wingrove, Ralph Burr, Ronald Merkeley and Wallace Sell.

Winners in the women's division was the No. 1 team composed of Loretta MaMarche, captain, Evelyn Losse, Rose Handy, Betty Clow and Jerry Erb.

Mrs. Carl Schwendler was elected president of the Isabella Alexander Club, past presidents of the United Spanish American War Veterans Auxiliary. Mrs. Clara Defferding was elected secretary-treasurer.

Professor Tells Why He Picketed Rockwell Speech but Not Aptheker

Editor, Post-Crescent:

A number of people have written to The Post-Crescent or have asked me personally why Lawrence faculty and staff members chose to picket George Lincoln Rockwell upon his recent appearance at Lawrence University but did not picket Herbert Aptheker, an avowed Communist, when he spoke here four weeks earlier. I can only speak for myself as an individual in answering this question.

I should make clear at the outset that I am aware that Communists have carried out mass executions in order to achieve their ends both in the Soviet Union during the enforced collectivization of agriculture and the Stalinist purges of the 1930's and in more recent years in dealing with political opposition in eastern Europe and Asia. No sensible person can ignore or condone these acts.

But I would argue first, that Marxism is a coherent, political and social philosophy which — whether one accepts it or not — has a rational foundation and can be debated (and refuted) on rational grounds as well as through the use of historical evidence. This is not to suggest that there are no irrational elements in the appeal of Communism today. Nazism, on the other hand, is at its core an irrational movement which appeals not to men's minds but to their instincts — instincts of hatred, fear, insecurity, and a sense of inferiority. Moreover its theories on race have been thoroughly discredited. It is not a philosophy which can be debated but an incoherent appeal to the basest elements in human nature.

Secondly, I am convinced that the threat to the United States from Communism is more an external one than an internal one. Much of America's energy and effort have been devoted in the last twenty years to resisting the spread of Communism throughout the world throught military and non-military means. We often disagree on the best means to use but we have been generally but we have been generally united behind the policy of resistance to Communist aggression. I am less convinced of the threat of Communist subversion of institutions in our own country. Charges of alleged Communist infiltration are frequently used by right-wing groups (including the American Nazis and the John Birch Society) in order to discredit perfectly respectable groups, organizations, and individuals. In seeking to make political capital out of anti-communism they have exaggerated out of all proportion the internal threat of Communism to this country. It is unquestionably true that the Communist minority in the United States tries to exploit our weaknesses and to create divisions among us, but they have not been notably successful partly because of our awareness of the threat.

It is precisely because we are less conscious of the threat from right-wing extremist groups that they constitute in some ways a more serious menace. Precisely because Rockwell's party is now so small we tend to laugh it off as representing no more than the lunatic fringe. This was the mistake made by many Germans in the nineteen-twenties. But I am even more convinced after Rockwell's appearance in Appleton that he is not simply a curiosity but a man prepared to use every possible means to stir up hatred and sharpen racial tensions in this country in the hope of winning a larger following. As we stated during our demonstration he merely awaits a moment of crisis to try to overturn our institutions and establish a racist regime.

For the above reasons among others I chose to exercise my constitutional right as an American citizen to picket the Rockwell speech. To those who now criticize us for not having picketed Aptheker four weeks earlier, I merely ask: where were you the night that Aptheker appeared? If you were so strongly opposed to his appearance, why weren't you protesting yourself?

Reporting of Rockwell by P-C Praised

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Congratulations for your correct reporting of the supposed "walkout" at the Rockwell speech Wednesday. As you stated, about half of the student body left at the conclusion of Rockwell's talk, not during it. In fact, as you also mentioned, Rockwell asked the people to leave if they did not wish to stay for the question and answer period.

It is very disgusting to read journalism of such poor taste as was found in the Sentinel Thursday morning. The slant of the article was obviously anti-Rockwell, but it was also significantly inaccurate. The people didn't leave in the middle of the speech, as the Sentinel claimed, they left at its conclusion.

Even our school paper had a difficult time getting the facts straight. It stated that about three fourths of the people left, a clear over-estimation.

There was, however, one point of your article that is hard to believe. It said that "the crowd went back to their homes and rooms disappointed." I was not disappointed and nearly 100 per cent of the people I talked to were not either. You seemed to imply that in order to be pleased with the speech Rockwell would have to put on a real show. We came to hear his views, and although we were unable to tolerate most of his claims and hatred, we did not feel disappointed.

The idea had been explored

by state officials when the national administration recently cut back federal Interstate highway aids, and thus doomed for the time being at least the plan to issue state bonds for accelerating improvements on those primary routes that could be retired with later receipts from Washington.

But a state road bonding program is now thought to be impracticable for two reasons. First is a private conviction of the state highway officials that the federal road building moratorium will be lifted sooner or later, so that the original bonding purpose may be served. Second is the fact that the state would have no assurance of future income for the retirement of state highway bonds if they were sold.

There was more than met the eye in the announcement by Gov. Knowles that he has asked Wisconsin congressional representatives to fight for the restoration of the federal highway aids. The governor also made it known, in a decisive way, that Wisconsin will speak with one voice in the national capital in the future, with respect to federal aid issues and similar questions.

State agency heads with increasing frequency have trekked to Washington on their own lobbying missions. Sometimes they have taken contradictory positions, to the annoyance of Wisconsin congressmen.

Knowles has now made it clear that he wants all such agency representations to be funnelled through the State Department of Administration, which has set up a new federal relations bureau. When a consensus is reached by administration officials, Knowles will dispatch advisory communications to Wisconsin senators and representatives as the spokesman for the state government as a whole.

TRUCKERS PUSH BILL.

Two years ago the organized truckers of the state offered their "double bottom" authorization bill in the Assembly and passed it through that house after a stiff fight. Trucking representatives this year are likely to offer it in the State Senate, evidently believing that the toughest test will be in that house which has not yet had a record vote on the issue.

The outlook? A tossup. But the campaign for the liberalization of the truck length law will be a determined one. An additional effort will be made to register the business and industrial community on the question on the appeal of a more efficient and economical transportation system.

Some friends and admirers of Chief Justice George Currie of the Wisconsin Supreme Court, a candidate for re-election in the spring, are privately worried about the outlook.

His chief opponent, Judge Robert Hansen of the Milwaukee County Circuit Court, is one of the best known public men in Milwaukee. Early soundings indicate that he will have a considerable following there. One of the difficulties of the Currie situation is that he will be able to serve only a comparatively short time, if re-elected, before he is obliged to retire under the law. The chief justice is acknowledging that fact, and perhaps calling more attention to it, by saying that he will be able to serve as a reserve judge after he leaves the court.

Gov. Knowles has decided, according to reports in informed legal circles, that he wants to name a man from outside Milwaukee County to the State Supreme Court if the U.S. Senate confirms Justice Myron Gordon for a Milwaukee district judgeship, as expected.

The capitol expects a full-scale row about the renewed effort of some northern county representatives to relax the requirements for the removal of county forest lands from the forest crop program. Under present law Conservation Commission approval is required. Pending is a proposal to give the counties full power, with a two-thirds vote.

Some of the contracted cooperative forest land is now becoming attractive for commercial use. Conservationists are worried about pressures for the erosion of the program that took 30 years to develop.

Lieutenant, 25, Facing Battle In Third War

Jose Gonzales, Now In Vietnam, Started As Cuban Rebel

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

DAU TIENG, South Vietnam (AP) —Jose Gonzales is soft-spoken, with twinkling eyes and a ready grin. He looks as fresh and green as a brand-new lieutenant should.

But at 25, Gonzales has fought on three continents. He has been a secret agent and a revolutionary. He has survived torture, faced a firing squad and escaped from prison.

In Vietnam, he stalks the Viet Cong with a cold professionalism and personal intensity that even some of his soldier comrades find unsettling. When his company first went into action it was an even money bet that Gonzales would be the first to kill a Viet Cong. He was.

The only son of a well-to-do land owner in Cuba, Gonzales left school to join Fidel Castro's guerrillas. When the Batista dictatorship fell, Gonzales was among the revolutionaries who paraded through Havana streets.

Fled Cuba

Within a year a disillusioned Gonzales and five comrades fled Cuba in a small boat. When the engine failed, they drifted for six days before the U S. Coast Guard towed them to Miami.

Within 10 days Gonzales had volunteered for the American-backed invasion force then being formed in Guatemala.

"I went back to Cuba on the last day of February, 1961, as leader of an infiltration team," Gonzales says. "Our mission was to prepare the way for the invasion—sabotage bridges and things like that."

But in the Bay of Pigs invasion there was no contact with the infiltration teams. Gonzales was 30 miles away and helpless to do anything when his comrades landed.

For the next 10 months Gonzales "went underground" before being captured by Castro's police.

"The next month was the worst of my whole life," Gonzales recalls. He was beaten, questioned for hours and dragged before a firing squad.

Jose Gonzales

"I heard the shots and knew that I was dead," he said.

The firing squad was using blanks. The shaken youth was taken back for more questioning.

With seven cellmates, Gonzales finally escaped. Five of his companions were shot down, Gonzales and another man got away.

This time, Gonzales escaped Cuba by being smuggled to a Central American country he won't name.

"I made three more trips into Cuba for short periods in the next several months," he said. He only smiles when asked if he was working for the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

Fighting Rebels

Gonzales says he was then asked if he would go to the Congo. Gonzales says he was fighting "Communist rebels" in an eight-month job, and lets it go at that.

He decided to take advantage of an Army program that allows veterans of the Bay of Pigs force to apply for direct commissions as officers. In October he resumed his fighting, leading a platoon of the U.S. 3rd Brigade, 4th Infantry Division.

Lt. Gonzales applies his own knowledge to the war in Vietnam. For one thing he wears unmarked fatigues, with no name tags or officer's insignia.

"My men know me." Gonzales smiles." I don't want to make myself a target by wearing all that stuff."

New Year in Vietnam

Strange Coincidence Repeated at Asian Tet

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Vietnamese lunar new year — Tet, they call it — is becoming tet-for-tet, with some strange coincidences two years apart.

Twice, just at the end of Tet, Viet Cong terrorists in South Vietnam attacked American military installations.

Twice, after this happened, President Johnson hit back fast by ordering the bombing of North Vietnam.

And twice, although not directly, Soviet Premier Alexei N Kosygin was involved.

In 1965 the warring sides in Vietnam called an informal truce for the lunar holiday in February.

As Tet neared its end the Viet Cong fired mortar shells into the American airbase at Pleiku, killing nine U.S. servicemen and wounding more than 100. That was on Feb. 7.

Start of Air War

That same day Johnson ordered retaliation: North Vietnam was bombed. And this, although it wasn't realized at the time, began the U.S. air war on the Communists in the north.

But also on Feb. 7 Kosygin was in Hanoi, the northern capital, where he had just made a speech promising the Soviets would give the North Vietnamese all necessary help.

His presence there, just as American bombers began to strike, put tension on official Washington which didn't want the Soviets in any way to connect the bombing with Kosygin's visit or with what he said

The Johnson administration insisted the air attacks were strictly retaliatory for what happened at Pleiku.

Chance for Visit

But this put on ice prospects for visits by Johnson to the Soviet Union and Soviet leaders to the United States. The visits are still on ice.

Comes Tet again, and again in February. This time it's 1967. The warring sides called an informal truce for the holiday This time, too, Kosygin was away from home, visiting British Prime Minister Harold Wilson in London.

The two men discussed ways to find peace for Vietnam. Johnson had been pleading with North Vietnam to show some sign it wanted peace. So this raised an obvious question: Once Tet was over would Johnson continue the pause in the bombing which began with the start of Tet last week?

There was another question, too: If he resumed the bombing as soon as Tet was over, but while Wilson and Kosygin were discussing ways to peace, would the bombing wreck the talks?

U. S. Installations

Although ground fighting resumed after Tet ended Saturday night, Johnson did not let the bombing resume. But on Sunday night, just as they did at the end of Tet in 1965, the Viet Cong terrorists hit an American military installation in South Vietnam.

This time they tried to fire mortar shells into the U.S. headquarters of Gen. William C. Westmoreland. Instead, they hit a bus loaded with South Vietnamese servicemen, 75 yards from the headquarters' compound, killing nine and wounding nine others.

A few hours later Johnson ordered the bombing of North Vietnam to resume, the first in six yards. But, by that time, it was learned Wilson and Kosygin had reached no solution on peace.

No Alternative

The Pentagon explained that the continuation of the bombing pause, after Tet had ended, was to "avoid any possibility that earlier resumption could be misconstrued in relation to Mr. Kosygin's visit to London."

Later Monday Johnson said "we had no alternative" because of Hanoi's action Explaning he had hoped the truce might lead to some lessening of the war and a move toward peace, he added:

"Unfortunately the only response we have had from the Hanoi government was to use the period (the Tet truce) for major resupply efforts of their troops in South Vietnam "

State Man in Washington

Trust Buster Serious About Limiting Mergers

By STEPHEN M. AUG

WASHINGTON (AP) — Donald F. Turner, the government's chief trust buster, can joke about an opponent but he's dead serious that "substantial competitors can't merge."

Turner glanced at a set of pictures in an outer office showing his predecessors as chief of the Justice Department's antitrust division. One had been reversed to face the wall .

"That's our little joke for the day," he said. "The picture was of Lee Loevinger, now a Federal Communications Commissioner and currently a Turner adversary in the world of financial marriages.

Turner is a slightly greying, somewhat balding man who looks like the prototype of a New England college professor. But he's a long way from the Harvard University classroom where he once taught antitrust law.

Reconsider Merger

Take this week for example:

He induced the FCC — including Loevinger — to reconsider its approval of the merger of International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. and American Broadcasting Companies Inc

Confirmed he is looking into the computer industry, 75 per cent controlled by International Business Machines Corp.

Said the department is also checking on the nuclear power industry.

Turner's touch also is being felt in the banking industry.

The Comptroller of the Currency's office maintains that the Justice Department is trying to substitute its views for the comptroller's expertise in banking matters.

Single Rule

FCC Commissioner James J. Wadsworth said Wednesday that the department is trying to substitute its judgment for the "expert judgment" of the FCC.

But Turner has a one sentence rule that generally governs the department's attitude toward business mergers: "Substantial competitors can't merge."

He does not believe antitrust law should block natural economic development, but said, "I do believe in using it very strongly (so) that concentration and large size do not go beyond the bounds of what is absolutely necessary."

Turner, 45, said he's "got the best job in the government," but added quickly that he intends some day to return to teaching. "I can't imagine it (assistant attorney general) as a permanent career."

Wisdonsin Native

Already this native of Chippewa Falls, Wis., has studied at Northwestern, Harvard and Yale, served as a naval officer in the South Padific during World War II and worked for a year as law clerk to Justice Tom C. Clark of the Supreme Court. He married in 1955 and has two children.

Basically an academician, Turner believes that because policy is expressed, one man could grow stale if he remained in the antitrust job too long.

He said it is a good idea to go occasionally from the academic life to government and back again

Although he says his basic philosophies toward business mergers haven't changed since he left Harvard in 1965, "I like to feel I'm a little more sophisticated."

Now, "I no longer have the luxury of an academician who can take his time. One thing I've learned is that when you have to, you can do things faster than you thought The pressure does force you to think a lot harder and faster than you ordinarily would."

Jaycees to Hold Government Day For KHS Youth

KAUKAUNA — Plans are underway by the Jaycees for a Youth Government day for juniors and seniors at Kaukauna High School with students to assume city offices April 7.

Students seeking office will be required to take out nomination papers Feb. 27 and 28. If running for an aldermanic post, they must secure 25 signatures on papers before filing or, if running for a city office, 50 signatures.

City offices to be filled include mayor, clerk, treasurer, attorney, municipal justice and assessor. Plans call for six rather than five wards, to accommodate rural students, thus 12 aldermen will be elected. Students will also be required to register prior to the election.

Campaigning will be held by candidates prior to election April 5. Besides holding office for a day, winners will be treated to a noon luncheon at Oakwood Hills Supper Club and hear talks by Mayor Gilbert Anderson and William Rogers, state assemblyman.

Job Testing Overhaul Aims at Discrimination

BY SYLVIA PORTER

If you are a typical employe, the odds are that before you got your job, you had to take one or more tests to measure your general intelligence, personality and-or skills. The odds are also that the tests made you nervous, you considered them unfair and you tried to "beat" them in one way or another.

Take heart, particularly if you are a member of a minority, "disadvantaged" group, take heart.

the 1964 Civil Rights Act is now reaching out to force a major overhaul of job testing practices in the U. S. to make sure they are "not designed, intended or used to discriminate because of race, color, religion, sex or national origin."

Need to Improve

"Some of the current practices of the great majority of employers seem to be in conflict with guidelines released by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) on testing," says Prentice - Hall on the basis of a national survey a few months ago. At least indirectly, "the EEOC guidelines seem to be attacking the very popular general intelligence tests which are given to all applicants by three out of five offices and by a majority of southern plants."

"There is an urgent, immediate need for companies to improve their test procedures because EEOC has a mandate to see that bias is eliminated from testing," emphasizes Dr. Jack W. Dunlap, board chairman of the research firm which bears his name and is headquartered in Darien, Conn. Dunlap, Who has 43 years of experience in test construction, considers this "favorable over the long-term because it will force the construction of more reliable and valid tests and this will result in selection of a better personnel."

Long in Use

The ramifications of Title VII become ever more wondrous to behold. The EEOC does not plan to bar testing. This would be a ridiculous move, for as Dunlap remarked to me in a long talk, "Man has employed informal tests from time immemorial and will continue to do so." (Instead of asking for volunteers, an early king of Israel told his soldiers to drink from a brook. Those who laid down their weapons and threw themselves on the ground to get the water he left behind. With him he took only those who knelt and drank from one cupped hand while continuing to hold their weapons in the other hand. That indicates how far back "testing" goes.)

But the EEOC must, under the law, try to eliminate bias from tests and testing procedures. The following suggests the extent of the problems of discrimination.

— The general intelligence test may be not only culturally biased but also misleading. It may test your ability to unscramble sentences, for instance — but not your memory for ideas, ability to evaluate and solve the kind of problem found in the job, your awareness of implications. These factors may be far more indicative of your fitness for the job than your general intelligence.

Tests Need Up-Dating

— The tests may claim to measure your ability to perform a job but the scores may not measure how you actually would perform on the job and the passing scores may be obsolete or unrealistic. The EEOC says employers must validate their tests, make sure they are authentic and up to date. According to the Prentice - Hall survey made in conjunction with the American Society for Personnel Administration, almost half of U. S. employers are not doing this and are thus violating the guidelines.

— The EEOC says employers should validate the tests especially for minorities to eliminate "hidden discrimination" or "inadvertent bias." This is an explosive area.

— Crucially significant is the attitude of those administering the tests. In Dunlap's words, "An examiner might deliberately create an atmosphere of apprehension or hostility, which will usually result in the degradation of a test score."

Clearly, there is a great gap between testing practices and the EEOC's guidelines for nondiscrimination. Tomorrow's column will report what's ahead.

Credit Union at Combined Locks Elects Officers

Two directors and one credit committee member were elected at the recent 30th annual meeting of the Combined Locks Credit Union. About 350 persons attended the meeting.

Ralph Coenen, Kaukauna, and Robert Kandler, Little Chute, were elected to the board for three-year terms. James Vanden Heuvel, Combined Locks, was elected to a three-year term on the committee.

In their reports, President Peter Bergman, Appleton, and Treasurer Norbert F. Noie, Kaukauna, said assets had increased 22 per cent in 1966 to $248,604. There are now 472 members who have total shares of $204,846.

The credit committee report indicated 304 loans were made in 1966 for a total of $131,613. Total loaned to members since organization is $1,320,097.

A 4¼ per cent dividend was paid shareholders on June 1 and Dec. 1, 1966. The payment of $6,987 brings total dividends paid since 1937 to $66,532. Interest refunds for the past six months were $836.

Hot Meals to Give Future Astronauts Sense of Well-Being

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A researcher says "good hot meals will provide the sense of well-being" for astronauts on future flights lasting years.

Dr. Howard E. Bauman, an official of the Pillsbury Co., said "the foods will have to be a bit thicker and certain safeguards will be necessary."

He said his firm has learned how to put 25,000 calories, representing 44 different and nutritionally balanced meals into a "medium-sized box." He added that the box would feed one man for 10 days, and could be stored for years.
